$430,000,000 IS PLEDGED AT RALLY FOR VICTORY LOAN

CABLE LOYALTY TO WILSON

Banner Is Presented to Each Division as a Tribute to Those Who Died in the War.

5,000 ATTEND THE MEETING

Resolutions Are Passed Promising Support in New Campaign to Raise Funds.

The first mass meeting in the interest of the Victory Loan, the raising of which begins two weeks from today, was held in the Hippodrome yesterday afternoon, and at the close of the meeting it was officially announced that the various racial elements represented in the meeting had pledged a total of $430,000,000 to the new loan. The meeting was held under the auspices of the Foreign Language Bureau of the Government Loan Organization. Americans born in foreign lands or the children of foreign born parents crowded the Hippodrome to the number of more than 5,000. Thirty great races were represented and to each of them the Government Loan Organization presented a large silken flag bearing an inscription which honored the memory of the men of each race who gave their lives for the United States in the great war.

The German Division officially reported that it would take at least $250,000,000 of the bonds of the Victory Loan. The Polish Division was second with a pledge of $75,000,000, the Italians being third with a pledge of $00,000,000, which will probably be increased, it was said, to $75,000,000. The other divisions reporting pledges, with the amount in each case, were the Russian, $15,000,000; Hungarian, $15,000,000; Jugoslav, $1,800,000; Belgian, $7,500,000; Syrian, $1,000,000; Latin American, $2,000,000; Danish, $1,000,000; Finnish, $200,000; Czechoslovak, $600,000; Portuguese, $600,000, and the Lithuanian Division, $400,000. The pledges were reported by the Chairmen of the different groups.

The speakers at the meeting were Hans Reig, Chief of the Foreign Language Division of the Treasury Department, who represented Secretary of the Treasury Carter Glass; Colonel C. L. Withrow of the War Saving Committee, and Joseph Hartigan of the Government Loan Organization. Each racial group was represented by the loan workers who will operate in the Victory Loan campaign. Following the adoption of resolutions pledging all groups to work for the success of the loan, messages were sent to President Wilson and Vice President Marshall. That to Mr. Marshall was sent to Washington by carrier pigeons.

A Loyalty Pledge.

The message cabled to the President in Paris read:

> Five million Americans of foreign birth and foreign parentage residing in the Second Federal Reserve District, through their representatives at the Americans All Manifestation in the Hippodrome, New York City, today send greetings and pledge their unswerving loyalty to the United States of America.
> JOSEPH HARTIGAN, Chairman,
> Americans All Manifestation.

In the message sent to Vice President Marshall the meeting pledged itself to strive to the utmost to make the loan a success, and solemnly pledged "that their kinsmen who died on the field of battle shall not have died in vain."

The principal speaker was Mr. Reig, who at the close of his talk presented the memorial banners to the Chairmen of the different groups.

"In two weeks," said Mr. Reig, "the greatest patriotic campaign the world has ever known will begin. The story of human sacrifice in this war has been told. We know who died the death of martyrs so that you and I and ours might live in security. I know that you will exert every effort to arouse the interest of those of your various nationalities in the Victory Liberty Loan so that the results will prove the real underlying motive is not merely the desire to help the merging countries on the other side, but will also be a manifestation of your love and gratitude to this your adopted country."

In presenting the thirty banners Mr. Reig said:

"On behalf of the Government of the United States, through the Foreign Language Bureau of the War Loan Organization of the Second Federal Reserve District, may I present and may you accept these golden starred banners as a token of highest appreciation of sacrifice. May you honor and cherish these banners as sacred symbols spurring you on to still greater endeavors."

The banners were carried to the stage by girls of the various nationalities. The inscription read:

"In memory of those Americans of [here was inserted the name of the nationality] blood in the service of the United States of America who made the supreme sacrifice in the war."

When the banner had been received by the Chairman it was turned over to

British Volunteer Troops to be Rushed to Archangel

LONDON, April 6, (via Montreal.)—Arrangements for the dispatch of a British relief force to Russia are being rushed. The first advance guard will leave April 9 for Murmansk. From Murmansk it will be in a favorable position to proceed at the first opportunity toward Archangel.

The main force will leave in two sections, the first at the beginning of May and the second a fortnight later. It is the intention that the main force shall consist mostly of volunteers, for whom the War Office will probably make an immediate appeal.

RADICAL CLUB FOR SOLDIERS WRECKED

Desks, Typewriters, Chairs, Chandelier, Literature Mixed in Splinters and Tatters.

POLICE FAIL TO FIND A CLUE

It was last Monday night that the Soldiers, Sailors and Marines' Protective Association, an organization formed ostensibly to find jobs for returning veterans, held what the speakers glowingly referred to as "an enthusiastic" meeting in the Labor Temple, Second Avenue and Fourteenth Street. Several of the youthful orators dwelt at great length on the recent events in Seattle, while one of the speakers alluded to the present Russian Government as "the most democratic in the history of all time."

But, after all, it wasn't the meeting last week so much as the cards that were issued to summon the waiting soldier, sailor, and marine to listen to the words of wisdom of the speakers that counts in what happened last night. The cards, it appears, which were distributed throughout the east side, started off as follows:

"Atta Boy! Over the Top!

"Let's go to the meeting Monday night where the problems of soldiers will be discussed by prominent speakers. After the Welcome Home—what?" —then the card went on to explan the purposes of the organization and, continuing, read: "We maintain clubrooms at 123 East Twenty-third Street—Give us the Once Over!"

Last night somebody, there was a suspicion that somebody meant a group of soldiers, accepted the invitation to give the Soldiers, Sailors and Marines' Protective Association clubrooms "the once over." It happened in this way:

At 9 o'clock Lieutenant Riley, having written up the blotter in the East Twenty-second Street Station, was as near nodding as he dared, when the telephone jingled.

"Well?" said the Lieutenant, and an agitated voice hurriedly replied: "Send all your men around to the third floor of 123 East Twenty-third Street—somebody's trying to wreck the place. Typewriters are being thrown out of the windows—"

But the Lieutenant already had Sergeant McCarthy and a squad on the way to the place indicated. Arriving in front of the association's club building, the police did not find any typewriters smashed on the sidewalk, nor did they find any evidence of wrecking operations. The street was perfectly quiet.

But when the squad mounted the stairs and peeked into the clubrooms—what a wreck. "It looks," said Sergeant McCarthy, "as if a cyclone came in here, stayed around a bit, and then went out."

The Sergeant was correct. One large rolltop desk was piled in splinters in the middle of the room, the ceiling was spotted with bare places, several typewriters were hopeless casualties, doors were wrenched off, and the gas was leaking from where a chandelier had parted company with the ceiling.

Literature, mainly of the radical kind, was strewn about. There were letters from Ralph Tropp, President of the association, to Alfred Leavitt, its Secretary, which had been torn up.

All sorts of propaganda, chiefly directed at improving the physical and mental outlook of the soldiers, were found by the police, and very little of it was in shape for distribution. One of the bits of reading matter picked up by the police was an article headed "How to Make Bolshevism and Cloth in Lawrence, Mass.," and there were many appeals from a branch association in Lawrence asking that literature be supplied.

Detectives under Lieutenant Flannery announced that they would make every effort to apprehend the raiders, but that they had no clue.

STRIKERS ASSAIL TEACHERS

Lawrence Operatives Threaten to Keep Children from Schools.

LAWRENCE, Mass., April 6.—Striking mill operatives at a mass meeting today said they would keep their children from attending the public schools tomorrow as a protest against the alleged practice of teachers masquerading as "loyal" mill employes. Speakers said some teachers had made a practice of walking to the mill doors each day to give the impression that there were more operatives reporting for work than was actually the case.

Superintendent of Schools Bernard M. Sheridan said tonight that if the threat should be carried out the school officials would make every effort to compel the children to attend.

German Railway Men Threaten to Block Transfer of Poles

WEIMAR, Saturday, April 5.—Immediately after announcement was made today that Polish troops would cross Germany, railway men presented new demands to the Government, threatening a general strike on April 10 if their demands were not granted.

Newspapers urge that the Government must make the strike impossible, since the Entente powers have declared that if transportation is delayed or made difficult they will insist upon landing Polish troops at Danzig.

"A strike would be a crime against the entire nation," says one newspaper, "and the Government must take the strictest measures to prevent it."

BERLIN, April 5, (Associated Press.)—Independent Socialists and Spartacides decided today by a vote of 10,000 to 3,000 to begin a general strike in Berlin Monday. The Majority Socialists opposed the movement, but the employes of the large machine and metal works carried the day for those favorable to a strike.

The Government troops in Berlin have been reinforced.

The Cabinet has accepted an amendment to Article 34 of the Constitution, empowering the workers, on an equal footing with the employers, to collaborate in the fixing of wages, the settling of questions of labor coonditions, and in the entire development of the productive force.

The workers, for the purpose of safeguarding their social and economic interests, will have legal representatives in all industrial councils, including the Imperial Labor Council. These representatives will work with the latter council in the framing of socialization laws and the submission of them to the National Assembly.

An "imperial congress of the workless" met in the former House of Lords this morning and demanded that the Government take up the problem of unemployment. Persons who attended the meeting announced that each of them represented 20,000 persons out of jobs.

Speakers at the meeting repudiated the estimate that there were 1,300,000 out of work, declaring that there were nearly 3,500,000 persons so situated. They declared that the demobilization bureaus were utterly unable to deal with the problem, and asserted that the present support given to jobless persons was only alms, which the people would rather not have.

The congress will present an emergency bill on behalf of the workless people to the Assembly and request the support of that body for the measure.

The Bavarian Government has decided to leave Munich and establish itself provisionally at Bamberg, (thirty-five miles north of Nuremburg), according to advices from the latter city.

It is declared that the National Assembly will convene there and that adequate measures have been taken to protect the Government and Assembly by grouping reliable troops at Bamberg.

Bavaria Again Convulsed.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, April 5, (via Copenhagen, April 6.)—Tomorrow or at latest Monday morning Bavaria, or rather Munich, will have experienced her third revolution, from which, in all probability, will emerge a full-fledged Bolshevist or Communist State.

When the Spartacides in Augsburg yesterday publicly demanded the removal of the present Government and the establishment of unbridled Communism, the Central Council in Munich knew that the long-looked-for chance had now come and that they had at least one reliable ally in Bavaria. The Munich Central Council decided that convocation of the Bavarian Diet, planned for Tuesday, must by all means be prevented. It intimated its decision

President Is Much Better; Receives Peace Colleagues

PARIS, April 6.—President Wilson remained in bed today, although an official bulletin said that he was much improved this morning.

The President slept well during the night, and had a normal temperature when he awoke.

The official statement issued this morning said:

> President Wilson had a good night, and his temperature is normal. He is much better, but remains in bed today.

The President was so far on the road to recovery that Admiral Grayson permitted him to receive late today the other American Peace Commissioners.

The cold from which Mr. Wilson has been suffering appears to have been broken, and unless complications ensue it is probable that he will be able to resume in part his work on Monday. The fever has disappeared, but the President is still weak, and it is not expected that he will leave his room before Tuesday.

HUNGARY SEEKS BOUNDARY DEAL

VIENNA RUMOR OF REVOLT

Unconfirmed Report There that Budapest Soviet Chiefs Have Been Arrested.

BUDAPEST, April 5, (Associated Press.)—The Hungarian Government has proposed to General Jan Christian Smuts, who was sent here by the Peace Conference at Paris, that conferences be held at Vienna or Prague between representatives of Czechoslovakia, Rumania, German Austria, Hungary, and Jugoslavia regarding boundaries and economic questions.

Bela Kun, the Hungarian Foreign Minister, in discussing the situation with The Associated Press today, said:

"This is the first time the Entente has sent us a diplomatic mission. This is proof that the Soviet Government is the first strong regime since the November revolution. There is not the least sign that the Entente wishes to undertake military operations against us. General Smuts has been received in a friendly spirit and a proposition for a conference concerning boundaries has been submitted to him."

Vienna Hears Soviet Has Fallen.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, April 4, (via Geneva, April 5.)—Reports concerning the alleged downfall of the Hungarian Government and arrest of the leaders is unverified, regular communication with Budapest being stopped.

According to report received here two days ago, Budapest burghers were benumbed by terror caused by the action of official agents. No loud word on the streets criticising official measures was permitted under penalty of instant arrest. Arrests were of daily occurrence. The expropriation of residences was being executed with relentless rigor. Tenants inhabiting more than two or three rooms had to suffer billeting at the expense of the tenant.

The number of official ordinances was already legion. Numerous law offices had been closed and many Judges deposed. Publication was prohibited of any but the extremest newspapers. All had to turn Communists. The State offices were filled with numerous Russian Bolsheviki. A hunger crisis was imminent. Meat was unobtainable. Food was not arriving as there was a scarcity of trains.

For the purposes of Socialist propaganda, the Government had decided to create laborers' universities.

BERNE, April 5.—A considerable number of members of the Hungarian aristocracy are arriving in Switzerland and the adjoining Austrian district of Vorarlberg, seeking refuge from the uncertainties of the Hungarian revolution.

The Government of Vorarlberg has refused to allow the refugees to remain there more than a few days, and is inviting the Magyar magnates to promptly arrange other places of residence.

HUNGARIANS HERE OFFER AID.

Cable Wilson Urging Him to Save Hungary from Bolshevism.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, April 6.—The Hungarian American Federation, a national organization of twelve years' standing and 40,000 members, with headquarters here, cabled President Wilson at Paris today, urging him to save Hungary from Bolshevism.

The cablegram, signed by Henry Baracs, National President, and Eugene Privany, National Secretary, said that should official announcement be made that the right of self-determination of all people of Hungary will be respected and no territorial changes made without a plebiscite under American control, Hungarian people would regain hope, Bolshevism disappear, and good government be restored.

Permission to send clothes and footwear to Hungary through Red Cross or other agencies, to help overthrow Bolshevism, is requested.

PARIS IS MORE HOPEFUL

SHAPING REPARATION PLAN

RHINE OCCUPATION SHELVED

Allies May Rely on an Economic Blockade to Enforce Treaty Obligations.

PARIS, April 6.—The Council of Four on Saturday reached an agreement on the principles of the indemnities and reparations to be paid by Germany, and examination of the details will begin immediately, the newspapers say. It is not believed there will be any disagreement as to details, and it is expected that the text of the financial terms will be finished in the course of the week.

The Premiers held no formal meetings today, but there were several informal conferences. Colonel House received Premier Orlando, Lord Robert Cecil, and Baron Makino and conferred with them on the location of the seat of the League of Nations.

M. Paderewski, the Polish Premier, called on Colonel House at the Hôtel de Crillon, but Colonel House was at the time attending a conference of the American delegates with President Wilson.

During the conference the five men discussed the work done since illness eliminated President Wilson from the conference Thursday night and planned the program for the present week.

General Bliss explained what he regarded as the satisfactory adjustment of the Danzig question, and assurances were given by all the other delegates that progress had been made by the commissions, with the possible exception of the Reparation Commission. Mr. White expressed the belief that material advancement had been recorded on territorial questions.

It is understood that President Wilson impressed upon the delegates the extraordinary importance of an early agreement. His conviction is said to be that a long step must be taken this week toward the preparation of the peace treaty.

All Paris seems imbued today with the idea that Easter will find the conference ended, either successfully or unsuccessfully, and many newspapers and leaders who have been doubtful about the successful outcome are apparently less gloomy about the prospect.

The sunshiny weather for the last four days has undoubtedly made a considerable change in the psychology of the conference, the members of which have been greatly distressed by a month of rain and cloudiness.

The confident statement of Premier Lloyd George in a Matin interview that the peace treaty will be concluded by Easter is supported by predictions repeatedly made by less prominent members of the Peace Conference, and dispelled today much of the hopelessness and uncertainty in which many important problems of the conference seemed to have been enshrouded.

Even the announcements of serious Bolshevist troubles in Bavaria and the danger of a break with Italy over the Adriatic problem apparently did not affect the optimism today of the leaders of the British, French, and American delegations.

There is less unanimity of opinion, however, as to the British Premier's statement that there is no divergence among the negotiators.

The Echo de Paris says that compromises were effected Saturday on all debatable points regarding the amount to be paid at once by Germany, and the payments in the future. Against the opposition of the French Government, it was agreed, the paper says, to distribute the future payments over a term of thirty years. The payments for the next few years were fixed.

The Journal says that there are indications that the rights of France and Belgium to prior consideration in the payments by Germany have been recognized. The first German payment, it says, will be 25,000,000,000 francs, of which 5,000,000,000 will go

PARIS, April 6.—The preliminary peace treaty will be ready by Easter and the Germans will be asked to come and sign it at the end of April or the beginning of May, Premier Lloyd George of Great Britain declared in an interview today with Stephane Lauzanne, editor of Le Matin.

In answer to a remark by M. Lauzanne that what troubled public opinion was not so much the delay as the secrecy in which the peace negotiations were wrapped and the fear that there was some divergence of opinion, the British Premier said:

"I affirm absolutely that there is no divergence among the negotiators. They are often confronted with technical difficulties which can only be settled after close study. Take the question of reparation. In substance the Allies have one common principle, which I once set forth thus: 'Germany must pay up to the last farthing of her power.'

"But is it sufficient to draw up a bill and hand it to the enemy? Must we not require guarantees and must we not study the terms, methods, and forms of delayed payments? Must we not be able to say to our adversary when he pleads inadequacy of resources: 'Yes, you can go as far as that and you must do it.' In a word, shall we simply present a bill or collect the money, all the money possible? Well, that is where the work comes in, slow and difficult work complicated by the fact that technical experts of the highest capabilities and great experience are not in agreement among themselves either as to the method of liquidation or as to the assets to be realized.

"No, there is no divergence among the negotiators, but, alas, there are inevitable ones among the experts, often among those from the same country. Who is to decide between them if not the negotiators, and do you think it can always be done quickly?"

M. Lauzanne remarked that what public opinion could not understand was why, before everything, Germany was not handed a full bill, no matter what amount, and forced to admit full liability.

"And who says we shall not do so?" cried Premier Lloyd George. "Who says we have not decided that?"

"No one," the interviewer interrupted, "has said that you have decided it."

The British Premier resumed:

"Cannot the people wait until we have finished our work instead of always wanting to judge our intentions? This conference had to meet and discuss things under conditions unprecedented in history. All eyes are turned toward it and, what is more grave, all ears are glued at its keyhole. Enemy ears tremble with joy when they detect some hesitation. Friendly ears half hear confused rumors which are peddled far and quickly.

"The day does not pass but what some false news here and there takes its flight. Nevertheless, no day passes but that we in silent deliberation feel approaching nearer the great aim, and experience for each other more esteem, confidence, and affection. Let public opinion wait a few days. It will then be able to pronounce on facts, not rumors."

FEARS FOR FRENCH SAFETY

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 5.—With the suggestion that the preliminary peace treaty may be ready on Wednesday or Thursday, it is stated that invitations to the German delegates could be issued before the end of the week, and if all went well the treaty might be signed before Easter. This is an optimistic, but not necessarily an incorrect, view. The pessimists, of course, contemplate all manner of dire possibilities, ranging up to a flat refusal by the German plenipotentiaries to accept the terms submitted to them.

Speculation is keen as to how Lloyd George will handle his subject before the Commons, seeing that he will be speaking in a dubious interval between the formulation of the Allies' terms and the German decision upon them. It is questioned whether he will be able to say, as Beaconsfield did on his return from Berlin, "I have brought you peace with honor," for peace will not yet be complete. It is also uncertain whether he will be able to announce the exact terms of the draft of the treaty until they have been laid before the German delegates, but in well informed quarters it is believed he will be able to give an adequate outline of it at least.

Some cynics, however, are suggesting that his topic will be so circumscribed by the necessities of diplomatic reticence that his speech will be largely a special pleading in defense of his policy and a reply to newspaper and parliamentary criticisms, which latterly have been numerous.

The British Prime Minister's sensitiveness to criticism has already been shown by his interview with the Petit Parisien, and people who know him well say he must be simply "aching to have it out with Northcliffe." From The Times downward, the Northcliffe press this last week has been treating Lloyd George very unsympathetically. Although neither Wilson nor the Premier

ITALY WILL PRESS FIUME ISSUE TODAY

Threat to Quit Conference if Demands Are Rejected Is Taken More Seriously.

ITALIANS BLAME BRITISH

But Wilson and Clemenceau Are Also Suspected of Opposition to Their Claims.

By CHARLES A. SELDEN.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, April 5.—The hardest thinking and perhaps the greatest worrying being done in Paris on this very beautiful Spring afternoon is at the Hôtel Edouard Sept, which has been requisitioned as the headquarters for the Italian peace delegates and their tremendous staff. After the lunch hour today the place was almost suggestive of a monastery, with Sonnino in his cell, Orlando slowly pacing the long corridor alone, so absorbed that none of his associates cared to speak to him, and the others pacing other corridors or clustered about in groups wondering what was immediately in store for Italy and trying to decide what course to pursue should the worst happen to that nation at the hands of the Peace Conference.

The report of last night, that Italy would withdraw from the conference on Monday was unauthorized and premature, but it is well within the range of possibility that Italy may withdraw by the end of another week if in the meantime the Adriatic issue and the various relevant questions are all decided against her. Italy frankly fears such a decision and attributes all her troubles, present and future, to Lloyd George.

The status of the Adriatic question now is that of a case about to be submitted to the jury, so far as the public is concerned. Everything on the merits and justice of the matter that can be said has been said for both Italy and Jugoslavia. The evidence is all in. But Italy declares that she will not abide by the decision of the Big Four nor of the Peace Conference itself, if that decision does not award Fiume to her, and if it does not uphold the major part of the secret treaty of 1915, to which France, England, and Italy were partners.

How much of this is a threat to influence the other countries and how much is genuine, nobody outside of the Italian delegation can determine. But

WILSON CABLES THE NAVY

PRESIDENT'S ALTERNATIVES

CAUSES OF PEACE DELAYS

European Domestic Policies Are Held Largely Responsible for Obstruction.

By RICHARD V. OULAHAN.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, April 6.—At the President's instance a cable message was sent today to the Navy Department in Washington, directing that the steamship George Washington be made ready for another trip to Europe, and asking how soon she might be expected to arrive at a European port.

The order for the return of the George Washington to Europe as soon as possible means either that the President has decided to go home without making a further effort to harmonize the differences between the allied Governments, or that complete agreement is practically certain to come by the time the George Washington can reach these shores. It is understood to mean that he is preparing for possible unpleasant eventualities, but with the hope that they will not occur.

Expect Ship by April 17.

Should the George Washington be ready for sea when the cable message sent from Paris today reaches Washington, she could be at a French or Belgian port in ten days or so—say by April 17; certainly by Easter. It is calculated by those who know of the action taken in the President's behalf that she should be in Europe in less than a fortnight.

The optimists contend that complete agreement on all points affecting Germany will be reached by the allied plenipotentiaries before Easter. Lloyd George and Pichon are included in the ranks of the ultra-hopeful, but there are many with inside knowledge who do not share the roseate view that has come to prevail within the last two days.

Even if the allied conferees should reach complete agreement by Easter, it would be several days thereafter before the preliminary treaty of peace could be drafted and presented to Germany's representatives, and it is the intention to permit these envoys to present the treaty to the German National Assembly at Weimar and afford that assembly an opportunity to consider the terms carefully. Thus it would be some time in May, at the earliest, before the German delegates would reappear at Versailles to discuss the treaty with the allied plenipotentiaries.

All this tends to show that in directing that the George Washington return to Europe within the shortest possible period the President has not in mind leaving immediately on the vessel's arrival, if all goes well in the Peace Conference. Failure to reach an agreement by the time the George Washington arrives would enable the President to leave France without delay, should he feel the uselessness of continuing negotiations.

No doubt is felt here that if an agreement is in sight when the George Washington gets to a European port the President will defer his departure until all the preliminaries to the actual peace are arranged and will probably remain to sign the treaty at Versailles.

The reasons for dissatisfaction over the Peace Conference situation are too well known to need repetition. It is sufficient to say that a strong impression exists that European domestic policies have been largely responsible for the policy of obstruction that has interfered with agreement on major points.

Although nothing has been said to give color to this idea, it would not be surprising if the George Washington used Antwerp as her port of arrival. It was the intention of the President to return to Europe by this port when he came here last month. The plan was changed only at the urgent request of Lloyd George, who asked him to abandon his contemplated visit to the devastated regions of Belgium and Northern France and hurry to Paris for consultation.

George Washington Now at Hoboken.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 6.—Admiral J. S. McKean, who was acting Secretary of the Navy, in the absence of Assistant Secretary Roosevelt, said that no message had been received from the President relative to the George Washington. Such a message might have gone directly to Mr. Roosevelt or Mr. Tumulty, both of whom were away.

It was stated that the George Washington is scheduled to sail from Hoboken for France on April 15, and if necessary, she could be prepared for sailing in two days' time. Therefore if the President desired the George Washington at once, she could be rushed to France by Monday or Tuesday of next week. The George Washington is scheduled to bring back troops from France on her next trip.

Washington is expecting President Wilson to call Congress into special session early next month. There has been a report in official circles that Congress would be convened on the first Monday in May if the peace treaty was concluded within two weeks.

The George Washington arrived in New York March 25. She is at Pier 5, Hoboken, undergoing a slight overhaul and painting.

The acting executive officer on duty last night said that no orders had been received up to that time to advance the sailing date of the transport, and this was confirmed at Admiral Gleaves's office in Hoboken and the troop movement office of the Port of Embarkation.

The George Washington usually takes eight days to get to Brest, but by increasing here speed from seventeen to eighteen and one-half knots she could make the passage in seven days.

COBB WARNS OF ANARCHY.

Says Europe Cannot Turn Bolshevist and Not Affect America.

Frank I. Cobb of The New York World, speaking yesterday on the League of Nations at St. Mark's-in-the-Bouwerie, Tenth Street and Second Avenue, said if no League should be established at Paris the whole of Europe was likely to go over to anarchy. The people, he said, would see that their Governments had done nothing to avoid repetition of war, and would put no more hope in existing systems of government.

Mr. Cobb said it was useless to think that Europe could become Bolshevist without America being affected. Those who reasoned that way were applying the same logic to events as the persons who argued that there could be a European war without involving this country, he added. Once Europe was swept by anarchy, there would be little civilization left, for an agency would have set free the result of which no man could foresee.

The destiny of America was tied up with that of Europe in many ways, Mr. Cobb declared. He did not regard the covenant of the League as the last word in human freedom, but as the first definite step taken by free Governments to remove the causes of war and to provide machinery to prevent war. Certainly there would be a League of Nations, he said, but whether it would be Wilson's League or Lenine's League was on the knees of the gods. Either there would be a society of self-governing peoples or there would be the dictatorship of the proletariat which would exclude from government "all except those with callouses on their hands."

One might as well talk of re-establishing the feudal system, he said, as of re-establishing the order that existed before the war. One is as dead as the other.

After hearing Mr. Cobb's warning, the congregation passed out of the church, while a few feet from the door a gaunt old man with a white beard, a batch of leaflets under his arm, cried: "What is Bolshevism? All about Lenine and Trotzky; one cent."

The pamphlet said the Russians, in the Bolshevist revolution, had "acted along the line of their class interests. The war put arms into their hands and common sense into their heads, and they used both to rid themselves of their oppressors." The pamphlet ended with: "Oh, ye workers of America, when will you awaken?"

The vendor did a thriving business, apparently only among working people. To a young man with a book under his arm the white-bearded man said: "Thank you, student. I see you are a reader of books."

PADEREWSKI URGES CESSION OF DANZIG

Polish Premier Cheered by Great Crowd on His Arrival in Paris.

NO GERMAN-POLISH UNION

Declares It Would Be Only an Act of Justice to Give Back to Poland the Port of Danzig.

PARIS, April 6.—Ignace Jan Paderewski, the Polish Premier, arrived in Paris today accompanied by Joseph Noulens, a French member of the interallied mission to Poland. The Polish statesman was received at the station by General Haller, commander of the Polish forces in France; R. V. Dmowski and M. Pulaski of the Polish peace delegation; William Martin, representing President Poincaré, and Captain Brêton, representing Premier Clemenceau. A crowd, which had been waiting at the station, cheered when the Polish Premier emerged and threw flowers in his path.

Mme. Paderewski accompanied her husband, who expects to remain in Paris for two or three weeks if circumstances demand it. He declined to make any extended statement until he had received the official report on the Spa negotiations and terms, saying only when asked for his opinion: "Two great factors dominate the situation for us—Danzig and Teschen."

With regard to the agrarian question Paderewski said:

"Our National Assembly includes 130 peasant Deputies, to whom it is the first question of the day. They are not Communists, but will make reforms prudently and rapidly. We have six women Deputies, who, contrary to general belief, are not conservative in opinion. There are hardly any lawyers or doctors in the Assembly, and scarcely a dozen ecclesiastics."

In an interview on his trip to Paris the Premier declared that there could be no union between Germany and Poland. The question of the final disposition of Danzig, he added, must be solved. The port must be given to one country or the other, and it would be an act of justice to give it back to Poland, to which Danzig had formerly belonged.

Unofficial Polish sentiment in Paris is comparatively bitter over what it considers a compromise and needless concession to the Germans. This view, however, is not held by the members of the Entente peace delegations generally, who contend that the right to utilize Danzig has in no way been surrendered.

The German agreement to carry the Polish troops on German railways has insured the immediate transfer of a large number within a fortnight, while the lack of ships would have prevented the Entente from moving all the Polish legions from France to Danzig within two months, possibly more. Consequently, the Entente military advisers heartily support the plan of Marshal Foch to utilize the railways through Coblenz and Cassel.

ERZBERGER IS SATISFIED.

Says Polish Agreement Reached at Spa Will Reassure Germans.

SPA, Belgium, April 5.—The agreement on the transfer of Polish troops from France to Poland signed here last night will calm German public opinion, according to Mathias Erzberger, the Chairman of the German Armistice Commission.

In an interview given today the German representative, however, said that the passage of the Polish troops by train through Germany might provoke trouble at points where the population was overexcited. If such incidents occurred, he added, the Allies would claim the right to land all the troops at Danzig.

Dr. Erzberger said he believed the transfer of the troops would take two months.

By CHARLES A. SELDEN.

there is surely a ring of sincerity about it today, because of the very desperation of the tone and attitude of the Italians themselves, and desperation does not lend itself so readily to diplomatic camouflage as it did in the earlier period of argument and propaganda, when each party to every one of a thousand disputes being thrashed out in Paris fondly believed its side would win. Italy does not really have such a belief today. She has lost confidence, and alternately hopes and fears. Monday, or some other day next week, is expected to bring the realization.

Specifically, the threat of Italy is that if she does not get Fiume she will withdraw from the conference. Technically, Italy is at war with Germany, but her main quarrel is not with Germany at all, but with Austria, which is practically out of existence. Italy cannot afford to remain in a state of war with Germany, so her statesmen say; so if she withdraws from the general conference engaged in making peace with Germany, she will have to make a separate peace with that country on her own account. That is the speculation today at the Hotel Edouard Sept.

Another thing heard very frequently at that hotel is the expression of the belief that Italy has not demobolized her troops since Nov. 11, the day of the armistice. She still has 2,500,000 men under arms, with big reserves available. This is another way of saying that Italy is determined to have Fiume and Dalmatia, if not from the Big Four, then as the result of her own military efforts in the old European way. With a separate peace with Germany, and with Austria out of account, Italy, with her armies unimpaired, professes to be not nearly so much worried about the results of a renewal of fighting as about the present prospects of the Paris peace-making.

"Fiume or a Revolution."

If you say to an Italian: "But you need money and supplies, without which you cannot make war; and you want economic assistance from America, which might be withheld if you began fighting Jugoslavia," the Italian replies: "That makes no difference. We are going to have Fiume. If we don't have it, we shall have a revolution; and that would be worse that losing American help."

It should be remembered that the Treaty of London does not give Fiume to Italy. But it is, nevertheless, the chief object of her ambition, to attain which she is still willing to concede something of the Dalmatian territory that the treaty does give her. In that willingness, there is the one hope left of compromise, but it seems very trivial; for Lloyd George is supposed to have a rock-bound determination not only to give Fiume to Jugoslavia, but to take away some of the territory promised to Italy by France and England in the London Treaty.

The report is that the British Premier would even change the boundary line of Northern Italy, taking away the Brenner Pass in the Trentino and fixing the line through Bozen, about twenty-five miles south of the watershed. That report spoiled a good many appetites at the Edouard Sept today. But the greatest cause of grief for the Italians is that they fear, and almost take it for granted now, that President Wilson is going to side with Lloyd George against them; and they have little hope in Clemenceau, because France has sympathized with Jugoslavia from the outset.

Of course, the main argument of England, America, and France is that Fiume, although having a majority of Italian population within the city limits, is surrounded by Slavs and is a seaport indispensable to Jugoslav development; so that if it is not given to Jugoslavia outright it must be at least internationalized. Italians do not question the sincerity of Wilson in the matter, but are beginning to say most undiplomatic things about Lloyd George. He is accused, for example, of not daring to go too far in opposition to the Northcliffe press, and the Northcliffe press is accused of supporting British financial interests, notably the Cunard Line, which has big investments in Fiume and might hope to monopolize the commerce through that port from the immense hinterland, if the Jugoslavs were in control.

Italian newspapers of the last week have been full of such charges, declaring that back of all Jugoslav propaganda could be found the Cunard Line and other interests, some of them social and personal as well as business, and some based on the personal vanities of the propagandists.

This dispatch is not propaganda one way or the other, but an accurate report of the Italian frame of mind at this moment.

Sonnino and Orlando in Accord.

The crisis has served to bring Orlando and Sonnino closer together than at any time since they tried to get along together in the same Ministry. At the outset, Sonnino, who was called the imperialistic reactionary annexationist of the combination, was for everything for Italy and nothing for Jugoslavia, while Orlando took the attitude of compromise and conciliation; but now, with the situation going against Italy, these two men are getting together.

The present plan is for Orlando to take Sonnino with him to the meeting of the Big Four on Monday or such other day as the Italian question comes up. They intend to put a direct motion for the sake of getting a definite showdown from Lloyd George, Wilson, and Clemenceau. The motion will be to give Fiume to Italy. If it fails, the Italians of the Edouard Sept feel sure that it will mean the departure of their delegation from Paris to Rome, with some sort of Italian peace with Germany made in their own capital in the near future. If Orlando and Sonnino are told that they can have Fiume by giving up some concessions of the Treaty of London, they are ready to surrender Dalmatia to Jugoslavia, with the exception of Zara, Sebennico, and some of the islands. If they are asked to surrender more than that for Fiume, the Italian say, they will withdraw, taking a chance of getting Fiume and everything else in their own way.

CHINA URGES VOIDING OF JAPANESE DEMANDS

Cable from Peking to Paris Says They Were Enforced by Bayonets.

PARIS April 5, (Associated Press.)—Nullification of the twenty-one demands made by Japan early in 1915 is urged by the Chinese Government in an official statement cabled from Peking and received here today.

The Peking statement declares that the Japanese treaties and notes forced upon China in 1915 should be abrogated "because their terms are incompatible with the principles upon which the League of Nations is founded." The statement is largely a reply to a recent statement made by Baron Makino of the Japanese delegation on the position of Japan.

"Since the Japanese delegate in Paris," the Chinese statement says, "has pointedly referred to the twenty-one demands, it is incumbent upon the Chinese Government to draw attention to the fact that China's acquiescense to terms subversive of her own interests were secured by means of an ultimatum to which she was forced to surrender because of the preoccupation of the rest of the world in the European war. It is a fact that the terms were imposed upon China at the point of the bayonet, the example followed being that of Prussia; the extension to ninety-nine years of the lease of Port Arthur and South Manchurian railways concessions being precisely the German Shantung terms.

"In the subsequent agreement secured by Japan under the former Cabinet the principles followed have been equally dangerous, not only to China's liberty of action, but to her very independence."

The statement says that the claim of Japan to special privileges because the Japanese expelled the Germans from Shantung contrasts oddly with the failure of the Americans to claim the railways and mines of France, although the Germans were expelled from Alsace and Lorraine by the co-operation of the American Army. It says that the American Army of 2,000,000 lost more than sixty times the number of lives that Japan asserts she lost at Tsing-Tao. The statement also comments on the fact that England is not asking Belgium for a single concession, although Flanders "is one vast cemetery where English soldiers are buried."

Improved modern news distribution in China, the statement continues, keeps the Chinese fully advised of daily happenings throughout the world and "irredentism is already raising its head, not only in Korea, but throughout Manchuria and Shantung as well, foreign issues occupying almost exclusive attention to the detriment of domestic advancement."

PLEBISCITE FOR SYRIA.

Dr. H. C. King and C. R. Crane Named on Allied Board of Inquiry.

PARIS, April 6, (Associated Press.)—Dr. Henry C. King, President of Oberlin College, and Charles R. Crane have been named as the American members of the Interallied Commission designated by the Peace Conference to investigate conditions in Syria, take a plebiscite and submit recommendations on the disposition of the country. The delegates from the other nations have not been announced.

The investigation probably will require several months, and it is therefore certain that no disposition will be made of Syria until after the signing of the treaty of peace.

The Armenian peace delegation made an appeal to the American press today for assistance in relieving the suffering from famine and plague. A telegram from the Armenian Minister of the Interior says:

"Famine reigns in Armenia. Two thousand persons are dying daily from hunger. For three days there has been no bread, even for the hospitals. The epidemic of typhus, intensified by famine, likewise is causing great ravages. In the region of Sourmalou people are eating bodies."

The President of the Armenian Parliament has also sent a telegram, saying:

"I doubt not that the American nation will heed this appeal of the Armenian people and will not allow them, now delivered from oppression, to perish of the scourge and misery of famine."

ROUT BOLSHEVIST RIOTERS.

Providence Police Clear Gallery at Breshkovskaya Meeting.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., April 6.—Bolshevist sympathizers created a near-riot in the opera house here tonight during an address by Mme. Catherine Breshkovskaya. Police reserves were called out, and, following a liberal application of night sticks, fifty of the disturbers were ejected from the theatre. No arrests were made.

The third gallery of the theatre evidently contained a large sprinkling of those who opposed the sentiments that have been expressed by the "Grandmother of the Russian revolution," for at the minute of her appearance on the stage hisses and jeers broke forth from that quarter. While the audience on the main floor tried to sing "The Star-Spangled Banner," the "Reds" in the gallery were shouting their loudest or singing "the revolutionist march."

The few policemen on hand were unable to quell the disturbance, which increased in volume to such an extent that women on the first floor began to scream and rush for the exits. When the pandemonium was at its height the reserves arrived and cleared the disturbers from the gallery, driving fifty or more from the theatre. Then with a reinforced guard the aged patriot made her plea for aid for Russia.

PARIS HEARS ALLIES WILL QUIT ODESSA

Bolshevist Pressure Increasing, and the Matin Predicts a Speedy Evacuation.

FORTIFY PEREKOP ISTHMUS

PARIS, April 6, (Havas.)—Bolshevist pressure against Odessa, the great Russian port on the Black Sea, is increasing and the evacuation of the city by the allied forces is imminent, the Matin says. The allied forces, it adds, probably will be withdrawn ultimately to the Dniester in order to protect Bessarabia and Rumania.

The Isthmus of Perekop, which connects European Russia with the Crimea, has been fortified by the Allies to protect the Russian naval base of Sebastopol.

STANISLAU, Galicia, April 5.—The Soviet Army today joined with the Ukrainian forces, handing over to them thirty-five guns.

ARCHANGEL, April 5, (Associated Press.)—Several Americans serving in the Kadish sector have been decorated for gallantry by the French.

The Croix de Guerre with a silver star has been awarded to Captain Joel R. Moore of Battle Creek, Mich., for valor on the railroad front.

The Croix de Guerre with a bronze star has been awarded to the following:

Major Michael Donoghue, Holyoke, Mass., for courage and contempt of danger while commander of the Americans in the Kadish sector for four months.

Captain Joseph Rosenfeld, Medical Corps, 1,014 Eastern Parkway, Brooklyn, for courage and the care of wounded in dangerous places on the railroad front.

First Lieuts. John J. Baker, Grand Rapids, Mich.; Lewis Jahns, Battle Creek, Mich., and Gilbert T. Shilson, Traverse City, Mich., for gallantry in the Kadish sector, when they held the line against superior forces for fifteen hours. Shilson's platoon entered the engagement with sixty-five men, losing five killed and twenty-nine wounded.

Second Lieuts. Woodhull I. Spittler, Rensselaer, Ind.; Charles B. Ryan, Detroit, and Percival L. Smith, Ashland, Wis.

Privates Alfred Fuller, Trenton, Mich., who was killed in action when he volunteered for service after being wounded; Otto Georgia, Green Bay, Wis.; Tobias Leplant, Irie, Mich.; Clyde Peterson, Sheridan, Mich., and Samuel H. Darrah, Noblesville, Ind.

VIENNA APPREHENSIVE; FALSE RUMORS BARRED

Other States of Former Empire Demand Share of Hapsburg Family Property.

PARIS, April 5.—There is an increased feeling of nervousness in Vienna, messages from the Austrian capital say, and an official warning has been issued against the circulation of false rumors and the departure of wealthy persons.

The suggestion is made that the value of the crown, which has been falling, should be maintained by the liquidation of jewelry and other articles of value.

Protests against the law providing for the confiscation of the property of the Hapsburg family by German Austria have bee entered by the representatives in Vienna of other States of the former Austro-Hungarian Empire, messages from Vienna say. It is urged that the property should be distributed among the various States.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, April 4 (via Geneva, April 5.)—The American Mission states that the Entente is willing to grant the Austrian business world long credits to enable the importation of raw material for the resumption of economical work, the loans to be effected partly by American banks to Vienna banks under the supervision of the American Government. This is held here to be practically the best means of stemming the Bolshevist tide by lessening the excessive number of unemployed, who at tremendous expense are supported by the State.

REDS ARE LEAVING NORTHERN LITHUANIA

Loses Heavily in Severe Fighting and Soldiers at Several Places Mutiny.

STOCKHOLM, April 6.—Bolshevist forces are withdrawing from all of Northern Lithuania after fighting in which they have lost severely. Bolshevist soldiers have mutinied at several places, according to an official statement issued by the Lithuanian Press Bureau at Kovno. The statement reads:

"The Bolsheviki are evacuating the whole of Northern Lithuania after a series of fights in which they have suffered severe casualties. At several places Bolshevist soldiers have mutinied.

"The Lithuanians have captured the towns of Poneviej and Kupisjkis after violent fighting, the Bolsheviki retiring in disorder toward Dvinsk."

to pay for raw materials to insure the resumption of German economic life. France will get 10,000,000,000 francs, and Belgium 5,000,000,000 of the first payment. The rest of the indemnity, the papers say, will run over a period of thirty-five years.

Plans for continued occupation of the left bank of the Rhine have been abandoned, and the Allies will depend upon an economic blockade as the means of pressure on Germany. Final agreement on the Rhine and Saar Valley questions will be reached before the end of the week, it is added.

Increased optimism in diplomatic circles is noted by the press, while in editorials the newspapers express satisfaction over the progress made on the question of reparation and indemnity. It is pointed out that each day of delay in reaching a final agreement adds to the losses of France.

The favorable solution of the Danzig question is commented upon in complimentary terms. The moral and political advantages of the agreement are emphasized by the papers.

The first subcommittee of the Finance Commission of the Supreme Council, according to an official statement issued yesterday, held eleven meetings between March 15 and April 3. During this period it considered eighteen articles for insertion in the treaty of peace, the majority being accepted unanimously. These articles, with details of dissenting votes, were such, the statement adds, that they will be presented without delay to the full commission for approval.

Stephen Pichon, the French Foreign Minister, yesterday received a delegation of Dalmations, who were accompanied by N. P. Pachitch, the Chairman of the Jugoslav peace delegation. The Dalmatians expressed their desire to join the kingdom of the Serbs, Croats, and Slovenes. They said that a plebiscite, in which all but 15,000 of the 300,000 inhabitants of the district which they represented had participated, showed that from 90 to 95 per cent. wished to join the new kingdom.

HAD LEA ON CARPET FOR KAISER EXPLOIT

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

COBLENZ, April 6.—Colonel Luke Lea's attempt to kidnap the Kaiser, told by himself on his recent arrival in America, had been known to many officers in the American Expeditionary Force for the last three months. The American military censorship at Coblenz suppressed the story on the ground that its publication would injure an officer of the army and consequently injure the army. This solicitude for Colonel Lea does not appear to have been shared by himself.

Colonel Lea was not officially punished for his exploit. When it became known at General Headquarters, he was summoned there and had to stay there, away from his regiment, for five or six weeks while the Inspector General investigated the case, to determine whether there should be a court-martial. It was decided not to court-martial colonel Lea. Colonel Lea's personal request at the time had much to do with the suppression of the story, which he himself related when he got a chance.

TO DISSOLVE SECOND ARMY.

First and Third as Armies of Occupation After April 15.

COBLENZ, (April 6, (by The Associated Press.)—Word was received today at Third Army Headquarters that the Second Army, under Major Gen. Bullard, would be dissolved April 15. It is occupying the Toul sector. This would leave the First Army under Major Gen. Liggett in France and the Third Army, under Major Gen. Dickman, as the army of occupation.

There is much speculation among officers as to whether Major Gen. Bullard will return to the United States or be given a command on this side.

The 33d Division of the American Army, consisting principally of Illinois National Guardsmen, who are holding part of Luxemburg under the Third Army, has been ordered to begin preparations for returning to France, according to a general headquarters dispatch received today. It is expected that the 33d Division will require two weeks to be ready for entraining.

According to present plans the 32d Division, Wisconsin and Michigan Guardsmen, who now are holding a part of the Coblenz bridgehead, will begin leaving the Rhine April 15, five days after the last unit of the Rainbow Division departs from the occupied area.

TELL OF UKRAINE POGROMS.

Massacres of Jews Reported in Cable Dispatches Received Here.

Cable dispatches received yesterday by The Jewish Morning Journal of this city tell of the massacres of Jews in the Ukraine even more horrible than the massacres under Czarism. The dispatches assert that a systematic effort is being made to annihilate the Jewish population in the Ukraine, and that in the city of Felstin alone soldiers killed 800 Jews and wounded 400, while the killed and wounded in Preskuroff number more than 4,000. The surviving Jews in both these cities, according to the dispatches, have been pillaged and robbed of all they possess, and their plight is pitiable.

The dispatches say that in the city of Ovrutich three successive pogroms took place, and in the cities of Pohemispani and Chodorow, where pogroms also took place, the Jewish houses were sacked and practically destroyed by frantic mobs.

Nor do the Jews, according to the dispatches, fare any better under the new Soviet Government of Hungary. They say that in the city of Kashai, Northern Hungary, all Jewish inhabitants have been arrested on trumped-up charges, and that the local Chief Rabbi, as well as several Galician refugees, were summarily expelled from the town.

Hunt for Reserve Note Raisers.

Secret Service men are hunting counterfeiters suspected of "raising" $1 Federal Reserve Bank issues to $5 notes. The extent of the fraud could not be learned last night from any responsible official of the Government, but it is known that at least one of the altered notes, which was changed by tracing the Figure 5 over the 1, was presented and accepted at a branch Post Office here. Officials say the changing of the figures was clumsily done and should be easily detected.

GERMANS SEEK TRADE WITH FOE

WOULD IGNORE THE PAST

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

COBLENZ, April 6.—The action of the allied military authorities in permitting certain kinds of commercial correspondence between Germany and the Entente nations reveals that German business men are bending every effort to reopen trade relations at once. A striking feature of these letters is their naïve assurance, the general trend of sentiment being that now, the war being over, international business should be resumed, after the four years and six months of interruption. There is not the slightest evidence that Germans are taking any stock in the talk among the allied peoples about refusing to do business with them.

Two thousand pieces of mail for allied countries were examined by the chief censor at advanced General Headquarters at Trier yesterday. These letters mostly contained requests for business relations with commercial houses in England, France and Belgium. About 500 of the 2,000 letters were directed to American houses, and contained offers to establish branches in Germany for American automobiles, clothing; in fact, almost everything in industry conceivable. Advertisements for publication in American newspapers were also in the mail. Almost all the letters assert frankly that it is time for trade relations with Germany to be resumed.

Reflecting how the German business mind is looking ahead, there is great interest in the March report of the Imperial Bank, which calls attention to the decrease of 51,000,000 marks in its gold supply, and says:

"This brings to our attention the fact that during the last few months the gold supply has diminished on an average 500,000 marks per week. This can be partially accounted for by the returning to their owners of many gold ornaments and articles, especially Kaiser Friedrich gold coins handed over to the Government on a loan basis. However, the heaviest withdrawal is 220,000,000 marks, which the Entente demanded be sent to Brussels. Then there are other debts which must be paid with gold, probably amounting to 75,000,000 marks. These are in payment of our debts in neutral countries and for food supplies we expect of them.

"All this is injuring German industry. The value of the mark will become absolutely worthless if we devour our gold. We must strive to bring about such measure as wil allow us to pay for our foodstuffs with our wares."

LEAGUE BUREAU ON DRINK

Plan Advanced at International Reform Conference in Paris.

PARIS, April 6.—A conference held during the last three days at the invitation of the Ligue Nationale and by request of the Anti-Saloon League of America was presided over by Senator Jules Siegfried, Lord d'Abernon, and the Belgian Minister of Justice, Emile Vandervelde. Eleven countries were represented.

Resolutions were adopted requesting the League of Nations to provide a permanent bureau for the study of the liquor question and to report on the effects of liquor on the human system and the results obtained by drink legislation. The resolutions will be presented to the Peace Conference on Tuesday. Bishop James Cannon of Richmond, Va., and Dr. Carre of Tennessee, took a prominent part in the discussions.

BRITISH CRITICS ASSAIL PREMIER

was mentioned by name, all The Times readers knew who was meant when the paper spoke of the "intractable ideology and short-sighted opportunism that would sacrifice the future for the sake of escape from momentary embarrassment."

Paris dispatches in The DailyMail and The Times went almost as far as The Morning Post did in editorially telling Lloyd George that "his differences of opinion with Clemenceau are entirely personal to himself and are wholly contrary to the determination of the British people."

Parenthetically, it has been remarked that in his interview with the Petit Parisien, in which he spoke of Great Britain going to France's assistance if she were attacked again within the next fifty years, Lloyd George made no reference to the League of Nations as a guarantee against future aggression, and it has been asked whether this omission was accidental or a recognition of French skepticism in regard to the covenant.

In either case the deductions drawn are unflattering to the League. The attacks on the Prime Minister chiefly hinged on his reported attitude of opposition to the French claims, which, it must be recorded, were strongly militaristic and akin to the German school of thought.

Sober middle opinion was opposed to any policy which would leave France with serious grounds for discontent and disquietude, as The Daily Telegraph and a number of representative provincial organs pointed out, and fears had been expressed that in seeking to hold the balance between French practicality and Wilsonian idealism, the British Premier might err in his estimate of values and sacrifice the friendship of France. With this reservation, however, it is noted that the arrows which were shot at Lloyd George were let fly mainly by archers whose quivers were once stocked with Germany-must-pay-in-full arguments.

The delusions fostered by electoral promises of abundant indemnities were dispelled by Bonar Law in the House of Commons this week after the Prime Minister himself had prudently hedged on his December note.

It is an interesting turn in the wheel of fate that Lloyd George's supporters, in so far as this particular phase of his work at Paris is concerned, are now to be found among his former opponents.

J. A. Spender, in The Westminster Gazette, is "bound to say that our men in Paris, having blown off their steam upon the innocent British public last December, are now showing good sense and putting up a pretty good fight for moderation and sanity. Wilson, of course, too; but he has a simpler task, and his remedy is an easier one."

Tonight's news that solutions entirely satisfactory to France had been reached will give the Premier a fine whip with which to chastise his critics, unless he chooses magnanimously to disregard them.

ATTACKS PEACE DELEGATION

Defense Society Says It Does Not Express Sentiment Here.

In a cablegram sent to Andre Cheradame at Paris today the American Defense Society says that "the opposition of the American delegation in Paris to the terms of defense necessary for the existence of France," does not represent the American attitude. The cablegram reads:

"The American Defense Society, representing 60,000 members, Democrats and Republicans, states its conviction that American public opinion will not permit the United States Senate to confirm a peace treaty which allows Germany to win the peace by obtaining lenient terms. Opposition of the American delegation in Paris to the terms of defense necessary for the existence of France does not express the American attitude. Americans insist that Germany, still unconquered and defiant, shall be rendered powerless for future wars by military and economic control and heaviest possible indemnities. American public opinion demands peace first and consideration of a League of Nations later."

ANSELL SUBMITS REFORMS TO BAKER

Specifies How What He Deems Military Injustice Should Be Remedied.

ATTACKS CROWDER'S VIEWS

Colonel's Letter Written After Refusal of Secretary to Accept Former Letter.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 6.—Lieut. Col. Samuel T. Ansell, former Acting Judge Advocate of the Army, who has been making a fight for changes in the army court-martial system, has again brought military justice, its shortcomings and injustices as he sees them and the reforms he thinks should be introduced, to the attention of Secretary of War Baker. Under date of April 2 he submitted his views in a letter which he delivered to Major Gen. Peter C. Harris, the Adjutant General of the Army, for transmission to the attention of Secretary Baker.

On March 28 Secretary Baker announced that he had returned a letter from Lieut. Col. Ansell, dated March 11. Secretary Baker's memorandum declining to receive this letter bore the date of March 27. On April 2 Lieut Col. Ansell filed his reply through "military channels." That was four days ago, but neither the Secretary's memorandum of March 27 nor Lieut. Col. Ansell's reply was made public by the War Department. The texts of both were printed, however, this morning in a copyrighted article in The Washington Post. As thus printed the letter which Secretary Baker sent to Lieut. Col. Ansell read as follows:

"Memorandum for Lieut. Col. S. T. Ansell:

"The Secretary of War declines to receive the attached letter, and returns it with the suggestion that he will welcome from Colonel Ansell any observaions he desires to make, either through ordinary military channels or directly, looking to amendments or modifications of legislation or procedure affecting military justice.

"Personal controversies between Colonel Ansell and other officers can not be properly discussed, or at least determined by newspaper publicity. It is, therefore, suggested that if Colonel Ansell desires an examination into the merits of those controversies he avail himself of the remedies provided by statute and by the articles of war.

"The letter herewith returned is not only obviously useless and improper for publication, but in its present form improper to be received by the Secretary of War officially.

"NEWTON D. BAKER,
"Secretary of War."

Suggests Specific Reforms.

Lieut. Col. Ansell's reply as printed in The Washington Post, follows:

"Availing myself of the authority of the above memorandum, I will state here briefly my observations, as they may be found in various memoranda and statements of mine within the Department, concerning the deficiencies of the existing system of military justice:

"First, speaking generally, and of vices which, in my judgment, destroy every assurance of justice:

"The laws of Congress of an organic character should accord with and proceed in furtherance of the fundamental theory that courts-martial are inherently courts, their functions inherently judicial and their powers must be judicially exercised; and such laws should, under penalty if need be, forbid the Department and the army to disregard the sacred character of these judicial duties and functions.

"Organic statutes should require that the system be law-controlled and not controlled as it now is by men, and military men at that, whose training is rather away from judicial appreciations.

"Organic law should require that the fundamental rights of an accused, declared in our bill of rights, be recognized and protected throughout the proceedings.

"Organic law should abolish the do-as-you-please character of this penal code. Please look at the forty-two punitive articles and you will observe that they neither define the offense nor the penalty. In every article the offense is to be punished 'as the court-martial may direct,' or 'with death, as the court-martial may direct,' or 'with death.' Congress tells the courts to do as they please and the courts tell the convening authorities to do as they please. Such delegations of penal power are intolerable.

"Such legislative delegations and legislative indefiteness are invitations to military authorities, from the President down, to take unrestrained action in specific cases, and to resort to mere administrative palliatives to meet a general situation. Administrative expedients which, whether good or bad, may be undone as easily by the same authority as they were done, should not be accepted as remedies for fixed perversions of military justice; for these can never be corrected within the department in which they arise and by which they are warmly supported.

"Such lack of legal control, with the corresponding subjection of judicial functions to the will of military authority, has led to an army attitude of mind which is intolerant of those methods and processes which are necessary to justice.

Courts-Martial Too Frequent.

"Organic law should restrain commanding officers in their altogether too frequent resort to court-martial in general, and their too frequent reference to a general court of trivial charges, which ought not to be tried at all, or tried by an inferior court, and not referred to a general court with its unlimited power of punishment, and the statutes should compel, by applying penalties if need be, a recognition of the substantial rights of an accused at every stage of the proceedings.

"The statute should require that no charge be referred to any inferior court-martial until the commanding officer convening the court shall have made a thorough investigation of the charge and made minutes of the evidence, or shall have had an especially qualified officer to do the same for him, nor until he shall have certified that, in his judgment, the case cannot be properly disposed of without trial by court-martial.

"The statute should require that no charge shall be referred to a general court-martial for trial until after the Judge Advocate on the staff of the convening authority shall have certified on the charge that the papers show that a thorough investigation has been made and that in his opinion the charge sufficiently alleges an offense triable by court-martial, and that the evidence is prima facie sufficient to sustain the charge.

"The statute should abolish the present position of Judge Advocate as a prosecutor, and should require the assignment of a specially qualified officer to prosecute in the name of the United States.

"The statute should make it mandatory that an accused should have military counsel before special and general courts-martial and authorize him to have civil counsel; and the officer convening to court should be required to assign as military counsel the officer selected by the accused, and in case the accused makes no choice, should be required to certify for the benefit of the record that he has assigned to that duty that officer within his command whom, by reason of legal qualification, experience, and rank, he deems best qualified therefor.

"The statute should require that an officer of the Judge Advocate General's Department should be assigned to sit with every general court-martial, and should empower him to rule upon all questions of law raised during the proceeding, to sum up the evidence for the court, and to perform generally those functions which are usually performed by a Judge sitting with a jury in the trial of a criminal case; and the statute should also require that wherever practicable a specially qualified officer be detailed to sit as a law member of a special court-martial.

Asks Publicity for Letter.

"The statute should require that the court and the Judge Advocate shall function independently of the convening or any other authority, and it should forbid the convening or any other authority to return to the court any record for reconsideration, except for such reconsideration as must operate to the benefit of the accused. The statute should forbid any reconsideration that could result in the changing of a finding of not guilty to one of guilty of any offense, or changing a finding of guilty of a lesser included offense only to a finding of guilty of an offense of higher degree or of a different offense, or increasing the punishment.

"The statute should require that the convening authority take no action upon the proceedings of a general court-martial until he shall have had views of his Judge Advocate thereon in writing, and that no convening authority shall approve any proceeding or sentence of a court-martial pronounced illegal or void by his Judge Advocate.

"The statute should place beyond question the revisory power of the Judge Advocate General of the army, who should be specifically authorized upon a question of law raised, (1) to pronounce the proceedings, findings of guilty, or sentence, in whole or in part, invalid; (2) and in a proper case to recommend to the proper convening authorities that a new trial may be had.

"The statute should make offenses and penalties more nearly specific.

"The statute should so establish the office and duties of the Judge Advocate General that in their performance he shall not be subjected directly or indirectly to military supervision of any kind, but kept free from that military influence which I regard as offensive to justice.

"In addition, I respectfully ask you to reconsider your refusal to receive my communication officially, and give it the same publicity you gave the statement of General Crowder and your own letter in support of the existing system. The reason specifically assigned by you is that it involves a personal controversy between me and General Crowder and that, therefore, it is 'obviously useless and improper for publication.' I ask your reconsideration on these specific grounds:

"The controversy is personal only in the sense that it involves the views and attitude of that officer and myself upon the existing system of military justice. You wished that the people be acquainted with his statement, in order that they might be reassured by his views and his attitude in support of the system. My statement is designed, in part, to show that the views and the attitude of that officer are not of such credible and bona fide character as to convey any such assurance and that they would not convey such assurance if their character were understood. Unless my statement is published, the people will not be in a position to judge whether or not the information contained in General Crowder's statement is worthy of public credit.

"As a matter of common fairness, inasmuch as you published General Crowder's aspersions upon me in a statement which you invited him to make and then made public, you should not deny me, but accord me, my right of defense before the same public forum.

"S. T. ANSELL,

TROOPS MOVED TO BERLIN

to the Socialist Government, which hesitatingly assented.

Last night the Central Council met in the Lion Brewery, where the Spartacide chieftain declared:

"The Diet will not meet on Tuesday. What began in Augsburg with a general strike must be finished in Munich. Our task is to unite all proletarians within the next few days, declare a general strike, proclaim a Communist Government, and fraternize with the Russian and Hungarian proletariat. That done, there is no earthly power to prevent immediate and complete socialization."

The meeting lasted all night and the minutest details for preparing the third revolution were discussed. The regimental councils reported that the Munich garrison had decided to remain neutral in case of a revolution against the present Government and to support the Communists if they were successful. They declared also that they would only send out patrols to guard against looters and other criminals.

Sunday or Monday morning the present Government will be asked to resign, and as no resistance is expected this third revolution may result without bloodshed, like that in Hungary. Indeed, the whole movement is being engineered under the tutelage of Hungarian emissaries. In all probability private property above a very low limit will cease to exist in Bavaria within a few days, and the same changes witnessed in Budapest may be witnessed in Munich.

Monday is to be regarded as a national holiday and the Communist reign will be inaugurated by a general strike that day. But the laboring masses seem to anticipate events, according to a private telephone message. Munich's streets are crowded as never before, despite two feet of snow that is melting in the warm sun. People are discussing the change of Government as though it had already taken place, and Spartacide orators preach the gospel of communism at every street corner and in the large beer halls.

Until yesterday the Bavarian Prime Minister, Hoffman, was in Berlin consulting, it is believed, with the Federal authorities on the advisability of convening the Bavarian Diet at Bamberg or another unaffected city, with what results is not known. The Federal authorities have also been approached for advice and help by prominent citizens of the various Bavarian provinces in case events in Munich should induce them to secede.

Of course, Ebert and Scheidemann are in a very difficult position. They hesitate to interfere, because, for one thing, they fear to offend Bavarian particularism. At the same time, it is absolutely necessary that decisive steps for the complete isolation of Munich should be taken immediately, or nothing will stop Bolshevism from spreading further in Germany. The Bavarian Spartacides have already invaded Württemberg, and the tenacious resistance there is mainly due to their activity. Besides, much success will act as a tremendous spur to the Berlin Spartacides, who still continue in direct communication with the Russian Bolsheviki, as was clearly proved by the evidence furnished by the recent search of the Berlin and Magdeburg armories after the disarmament of the troops.

Doubtless an attempt will be made to imitate Munich's example when the Central Council of All German Soldiers' and Workers' Councils meets here in the middle of April. In Berlin there is much discontent with the Government, even among the regular Social Democrats, first of all because no provisions from America have been distributed yet; secondly, because too many compromised men with obvious Junker names are yet in responsible places; thirdly, because war millionaires are still running about squandering fortunes wrung from the people's sweat without the Government cutting their wings by appropriate taxes, and, fourthly, because nothing has been done about the illicit food trade.

These are about the principal reasons for action the man in the street has against the Government, to all of which it might justly reply that reforms are in progress but that its hands have been too full with other and even more serious tasks. But this the man in the street cannot understand, and it is the reason why the Spartacides gain more adherents daily.

Fifty gay night places are now to close. They and their extravagant female and arrogant male guests have been a public scandal in view of the widespread starvation. Not until after some American commissions had remarked to the authorities that food after all seemed not so scarce as a visit to these places proved did the Government determine to close them. Meanwhile the Spartacides have received accessions from intellectuals, artists, etc., and officers now join them. Even fierce old General Falkenhayn of Verdun fame is known as a Spartacide sympathizer.

Hoffman Back in Munich Too Late.

LONDON, April 6.—A dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph says that when the Soviet republic was proclaimed in Bavaria, Herr Hoffman was in Berlin. He hurried back to Munich, but arrived too late. The Bavarian troops, the dispatch adds, declared that they would not move a finger for him.

"In a few days Bavaria will be in the throes of civil war," the correspondent continues, "as it is stated that the peasants of various districts are preparing to march on Munich."

An Associated Press dispatch from Munich says:

"The troops here express sympathy with the Soviet cause. They have declared their intention, however, to maintain neutrality and to prevent rioting. They will not protect the Diet Building, which is armed with machine guns.

"At all public gatherings enthusiasm is shown in favor of the Soviet idea, and for fraternization with the Russian and Hungarian proletariat."

PARIS, April 6.—The agitation of the extremists in Munich and other parts of Bavaria is arousing the opposition of the Moderates, and the Bavarian Democratic Party and the Peasants League, according to advices reaching here, have appealed to the bourgeoise and peasant officials to rally with the Moderate workers and protect the conquests of the revolution against the arbitrary methods and violence of the Communists. The appeal concludes:

"If the hotheads succeed in maintaining themselves in power, there remains but one solution for Bavaria—to separate itself from Munich."

MINERS THREATEN TO QUIT.

Those in Central Germany and Silesia Back Ruhr Workers.

ESSEN, April 5, (Associated Press.)—The revolutionary miners of Central Germany and Silesia have declared in favor of the Ruhr workers, who have made certain demands for improvements in their condition. In case these demands are not granted by Wednesday the Ruhr miners have voted to cease the so-called emergency work, with the result that the mines will likely be flooded with water, after the pumps have stopped.

The Miners' Conference has expressed contempt for those who recently joined the Government troops in response to the appeals of Herr Noske, the Minister of Defense, and declares that work shall never be given to them in the future, but that they shall be "avoided like a pest."

With such methods, the Communist and Spartacide miners of the Ruhr district are attempting desperately to extend the general strike, which ostensibly began several days ago. It is claimed by the Spartacides that a total of 345,000 miners, from 215 mines, are on strike, and that the workers in thirty-five additional mines will soon be out.

The revolutionists have spared no effort to intimidate every one into joining their ranks. They issued a decree yesterday that no organization, except the Council of Nine, consisting solely of Spartacides and Communists and totally unrepresentative of the miners as a whole, may speak or treat with the Government. It was ordered in the decree that all who felt the necessity of approaching the "capitalistic Government" do so through the council.

Semi-official strike figures in the Ruhr district set down the number on strike today as 142,000, as compared with 132,000 yesterday. The Spartacide figures apply to the entire Rhineland.

Reports from Dortmund and other places say that the situation has improved slightly and that the miners are gradually returning to work.

STUTTGART, April 6.—It was officially announced last night that the Government had the strike situation completely in hand and that the general strike of the Spartacans had collapsed. It was added that most of the strike leaders were arrested Thursday.

BIG PARIS PARADE IN JAURES'S MEMORY

POLICE CHARGE BLACK FLAG

Handle Roughly Group of Anarchists Carrying It, but Make No Arrests—"Internationale" Sung.

PARIS, April 6.—There were cries of "Long live the Soviets," "Down with War," and "Down with the Peace Conference," at a huge demonstration organized by the Federation of Labor and the Socialist Party in protest today against the acquittal of Raoul Villain, assassin of Jean Jaurès, the Socialist leader, and in honor of the memory of M. Jaurès.

A group of anarchists unfurled a black flag on the Avenue Henri Martin, in spite of police orders. The police charged the anarchists, five of whom were injured. No arrests were made.

Comparative order prevailed throughout the parade, but as the procession moved along the various avenues—Malakoff, Henri Martin, Victor Hugo Place, and the Trocadero—and through the district in the most aristocratic quarter of Paris in which M. Jaurès had lived, there was a feeling of walking over a mined road, where the merest incident might bring about an explosion.

Fully 100,000 people lined the avenues, looking on without cheering. It was noted that the windows of the mansions were shuttered. Most of the spectators came from other districts.

The police, evidently expecting trouble, had taken precautions, and the route of the procession was well guarded by plain clothes and uniformed men, who had received instructions to remain conspicuous and not interfere with cheering or singing or other merely noisy manifestations.

Soon after noon every subway train, street car, and other conveyance was overcrowded with people streaming toward the Trocadero to take part in the procession. Tens of thousands of others walked from various districts to the capital.

Hardly had the procession started than the "Internationale" was heard on all sides. The police looked on apathetically.

Emile Vandervelde, Belgian Minister of Justice; the French Socialist Deputies, Marcel Cachin, Victor Dalbiez, Marcel Sembat, and Jean Longuet, and Hjalmar Branting, the Swedish Socialist leader, headed the parade, which passed through the streets amid suppressed excitement.

When the head of the procession reached the home of Jaurès, M. Sembat and the other Deputies entered the house. They presented to Mme. Jaurès and Mlle. Jaurès a palm and a beautiful bouquet of flowers. Mme. Jaurès was visibly affected. She was unable to reply to the words addressed to her and merely raised her handkerchief to her eyes, which were wet with tears, and sobbed.

The procession then continued, the marchers proceeding to the Place de la Muette, where it filed past the statue of Jaurès and then dispersed. Some of the paraders entered the Bois de Boulogne, where they attempted to hold a meeting, which had been forbidden. Others proceeded down the boulevard and up the Avenue Victor Hugo toward the centre of the city.

The crowd was becoming unruly as the procession dispersed. Disinterested spectators heaved a sigh of relief that no trouble had occurred. A police official told the correspondent that he had not expected trouble during the actual parade, but that he had been fearful that collisions would occur between isolated groups later in the day.

It was learned that a complete section of the Sante prison containing 900 cells was entirely cleared of its inmates Saturday. The prisoners were removed to the Fresnes and other jails in view of probable riots.

Throughout the parade few references to Villain, the assassin of Jaurès, or of Jaurès himself were heard, the personalities of the assassin and the victim apparently shrinking into insignificance before the real meaning of the demonstration.

On all sides, however, were to be heard slurring references against alleged procrastinations in the work of the Peace Conference and of what the workmen termed neglect of their interests. At the Place du Trocadero a small group of workmen gathered and expressed the desire to proceed to the "White House" near by and make a demonstration before President Wilson. Wiser heads prevailed, however, and the intention was abandoned.

CELEBRATE RENT VICTORY.

Tenants of Langhorne Apartments Parade on Riverside Drive.

Celebrating their victory over the new owners of The Langhorne Apartments at 860 Riverside Drive, who without regard to leases, had attempted, until court action was begun, to raise rents, 125 men, women and children who live in the apartments paraded yesterday afternoon up Riverside Drive from 158th Street to 160th Street, over to Broadway and then back to The Langhorne. The procession was headed by Lloyd Willis, Henry Miller and George Nash, three members of the Tenants' Committee, named to fight the effort to increase the rents.

Banners were carried by the marchers. One of the banners read: "Victory." Another: "The landlords couldn't get away with it." On another was inscribed: "Read every clause in your lease." Mr. Willis, who was once secretary to former Governor Charles S. Whitman, when the latter was the District Attorney, has written a letter to Senator William Copeland, representing the Twentieth Senatorial District, placing before him the importance of having for New York State a legally standardized form of lease, and asking for legislative investigation.

WOMEN PLAN PROTEST HIKE

May March to Washington to Urge Ban on German Imports.

Mrs. Oliver Cromwell Field, President of the American Relief League, announced last night that she planned to lead a delegation of women to Washington to protest against the planned importation of German-made goods. Mrs. Field said the pilgrimage to the capital would be made afoot and that speeches would be delivered on the way down.

The route of the march will be over practically the same ground covered six years ago by "General" Rosalie Jones and her band of suffragettes. That expedition went through Trenton, Philadelphia, Chester, Wilmington, and Baltimore. According to Mrs. Field about 100 volunteers to make the march are expected.

TELLS HOW RUSSIA TRIED TO AVERT WAR

Helfferich in Book Says Davydoff, a Banker, Visited Berlin on Peace Mission.

CARRIED BACK ASSURANCES

But Was Warned Russian Mobilization Would Mean War—After Hostilities Began, Kaiser Blamed Czar.

BERLIN, April 5, (Associated Press.)—Russo-German negotiations in July, 1914, are described from the German viewpoint by Dr. Karl Helfferich, former German Vice Chancellor, in his book, "Pre-War History," which will be published shortly.

Herr Helfferich refers to a visit made to Berlin on July 26, 1914, by L. F. Davydoff, a prominent Russian banker, who wanted Helfferich's view on the possibility of persuading Austria to modify her ultimatum to Serbia. At the interview, Alfred Zimmermann, then Under Secretary for Foreign Affairs, and Helfferich suggested that Austria should have a free hand in Serbia, with the assurance that any action she took should not disturb the balance of power in the Balkans. Davydoff promised to take the suggestion to Petrograd, saying that nothing definite would be done until after his arrival there, except that Russia "probably would mobilize part of her army."

Herr Helfferich says he pointed out that this would lead to a German mobilization and war, to which, he says, Davydoff replied: "Well, we can demobilize again; that costs money, but it need not cost blood."

The former Vice Chancellor asserts he received assurance from Austria that a note would be sent to all the powers containing facts bearing on the conspiracy against Archduke Francis Ferdinand and its connection with Pan Serbian agitation, in order to permit the Governments "to convince themselves of the correctness of the facts cited in the ultimatum to Serbia." M. Davydoff, Helfferich adds, promised he would urge the Petrograd Government to accept this, saying he had seen at the Russian Embassy a hopeful statement regarding the last previous conference between Sergius Sazonoff, the Russian Foreign Minister, and Count Portales, the German Ambassador in Russia, who agreed that no further military measures should be adopted by either side.

Dr. Zimmerman, Helfferich continues, was not informed regarding these assurances, which were contrary to increasing reports that the Russians were mobilizing on the German border.

Herr Helfferich asserts that, prior to the murder of the Archduke, Russia privately asked Germany if she would leave Austria in the lurch, whereupon Russia would forsake France. This was refused, he adds, because public opinion and the German officials were convinced that a firm alliance with Austria-Hungary was absolutely essential.

Referring to the yachting trip made by Emperor William in the Summer of 1914, the former Vice Chancellor says the Emperor went after being reassured by the Chancellor. When he read of the ultimatum to Serbia, the Emperor started home and immediately telegraphed to King George, Emperor Nicholas, and Emperor Francis Joseph to stop a conflict. Helfferich declares that this attempt would have been successful, the Emperor told him, "if the unfortunate Czar had not allowed himself to be forced into signing the order for Russian mobilization."

Financial Pirates!

How to protect your heirs

WE have become a nation of bond buyers. Millions now own their first bonds—Liberty Bonds. A new investment trend is under way. You see examples in your own family.

But beware! Financial pirates are full rigged to take advantage of the very confidence inspired by the possession of government securities.

They work without scruple. No chivalry prevents them from sending women over their financial gang-plank. An illuminating article in The World's Work for January gives examples. Amongst them the following two:

A New Hampshire woman recently brought suit to recover $48,070 which she had been induced to "invest" in the worthless stocks of a cereal concern.

A widow had $20,000 of life insurance money. With it she purchased, at $125 a share, stock which was then selling in the open market at $80 a share. It later proved to be almost entirely worthless.

Fortunately, the prevention of such unhappy incidents is a simple business matter. We believe that any forward-looking man concerned as to the protection of his heirs will be glad to discuss:

A COLUMBIA TRUST FUND
for safeguarding the money you leave

The plan is this:

1. A Columbia Trust Fund is simply money set aside under the protection of the Columbia Trust Company and invested to provide periodical income for definite objects.
2. Life insurance or any other money may be used to form the Trust Fund. We are bound by a written agreement to carry out your wishes definitely and absolutely.
3. We will make investments of the Trust Fund for you in such securities as are lawful for Trustees, or, if you prefer, you can give us definite instructions to follow.
4. Income from the Trust Fund will be paid in installments to whom you wish and when you wish and in the amount you wish.

You can take up this matter at any one of our offices. The Vice-President in charge will be glad to talk to you personally and promptly. Of course, there is no obligation on your part.

APPEAL TO WILSON FOR PARADE OF 77TH

URGE TRIBUTE TO TROOPS

Dr. Manning Warns Against Any Apparent Discrimination Against Men of the Draft Army.

With the announcement by General March, Chief of Staff, yesterday that the parade of the 77th Division was still a matter of adjustment, local organizations which feel that the War Department should make every effort to grant the same parade privilege to New York's Own as it did to the 27th yesterday went ahead with plans for public meetings to be held this week. The Welcome Committee for the Jewish Boys Returning from the War sent the following cable dispatch last night to President Wilson:

New York, April 6, 1919.
The Hon. Woodrow Wilson, President United States, Paris, France:

It is announced that the military authorities have decided that the 77th Division shall not parade. This decision is very much to be regretted. May we say that it would be politic not only to have the 77th parade on the east side, but that the returning soldiers, all of whom have won the admiration of the world, parade in their respective communities throughout the United States? Everything should be done to overcome any difficulties that may be in the way. The effect of this is obvious, for nothing but a welcome could more fittingly demonstrate our love and admiration for our heroes, and it would be a great factor in stimulating the highest patriotism for our country.

On behalf of the people of the east side, the Welcome Committee for the Jewish Boys Returning from the War petitions you, as Commander in Chief of the American Army, to rescind the order prohibiting the parade of the 77th Division. The people of the east side have gladly given their sons to do battle in France for their country, and desire to pay loving tribute to the boys who are returning and to the memory of those who sleep on foreign soil.

We pray for the speedy recovery of your health, so that you may continue your holy work at the Peace Conference.

JOHN L. BERNSTEIN, President.
Dr. MAX GIRDANSKY, Chairman.

Plans for meetings of the various units of the Home Auxiliary of the 77th Division to be held throughout the week were announced yesterday by the Rev. Dr. William T. Manning, the chairman. A general mass meeting of the Home Auxiliary, Dr. Manning said, would be held this week on a day to be announced later. The headquarters of the advance party of the 77th Division in the Hotel Biltmore were visited yesterday by scores of friends and relatives of the soldiers, offering their co-operation in any movement to bring about the parade. The advance party, however, is taking no sides in the controversy over the parade, because the members still are in the military service.

Former army officers who have been co-operating with the Home Auxiliary have expressed the opinion that the men of the 77th, nearly all of whom are from New York City and its environs, could be billeted in their own homes until the parade, thus solving the problem of camp congestion advanced by the War Department as the reason for discouraging the parade plans. The eight or nine thousand replacement troops in the division, they pointed out, could be housed in the local armories until after the parade.

Manning Warns Against Discrimination.

In discussing the situation yesterday, Dr. Manning said:

"There is a feeling of discrimination against the drafted men existing in the minds of many. Nothing could be worse for the community or the country, for any color to be given to this feeling. The men of the 77th came forward with splendid spirit when called puon. Any feeling of discrimination would be most harmful and most deeply resented. The glory of our American Army is that it was a people's army, and no men deserved higher honor and recognition than those who came forward gladly and willingly when selected."

Congressman F. H. La Guardia, who served abroad in the Air Service with the rank of Major, on the eve of sailing for Europe with the Committee on Military Affairs of the House for an inspection of American army camps, said regarding the proposed parade:

"If New York City wants her boys of the 77th Division to parade she can have the demonstration. The wishes of the people must be made known in no uncertain terms to the General Staff. The trouble with the General Staff is, they continually overlook the fact that the American Army is a peoples' army, manned and officered and paid by the people.

Interest in Proposed Parade.

Miss Mildred Taylor, Executive Secretary of the Community Councils, an organization of community centres throughout the five boroughs, said yesterday that the proposed parade of the boys of the 77th was the one topic of conversation among the attendants at the meetings and classes conducted by the centres.

"I do not know all there is on the side of expediency which has caused the War Department to take the stand it has," she said. "I believe there is a spiritual value in the parade which is better than the physical inconvenience. The community wants to welcome the boys, and in what more inspiring way could the friends and relatives do it than with their presence at a parade?"

The Welcome Committee for the Jewish Boys Returning from the War announced yesterday that Jacob R. Fein had been appointed executive director of the work with offices at 229 West Broadway. A War Mothers and War Sisters League of the Boys of the 77th Division has been organized, according to Mr. Fein, as an auxiliary to the committee, and will hold a meeting tomorrow night at the Educational Alliance, 197 East Broadway.

A telegram, signed by Hollister V. Schenck, was sent yesterday to Secretary Baker by the Welfare Association of the 306th Field Artillery Association requesting him to authorize the parade of the 77th Division before the contingent is demobilized.

TO WELCOME SIMS TODAY.

Fleet to Meet Mauretania with Balloons and Flying Boats.

The commander of the cruiser force will send six destroyers out to sea early today as far as their commanders deem advisable to meet the Mauretania with Admiral Sims on board and escort her into port. There will also be six submarine chasers and the U. S. S. Gloucester with a balloon waiting near the Ambrose Channel Lightship for the big liner to arrive and pick up her pilot, which will be about 8 A. M., according to the message received from her Captain, Arthur H. Rostron. Eight flying boats and one dirigible will meet the liner well out to sea.

The Gloucester, towing the big observation balloon, and the twelve other war vessels will escort the Mauretania through the Narrows to Quarantine, where Admiral Sims will be transferred to the U. S. S. Aramis. When his flag is hoisted on her, Admiral Sims will receive a salute of seventeen guns from the guardship Amphitrite, and the Aramis will then proceed as far as the Statue of Liberty, with the escort of destroyers and submarine chasers, the Gloucester leading, and the others on either flank and astern.

The Aramis will be at Pier A, North River, at 8 A. M., to embark Rear Admiral Burrage, who will hoist his flag at the masthead, where it will remain until Admiral Sims comes over the gangway on leaving the Mauretania, when his flag will be broken at the mainmast head and the other one hauled down.

At the Third Naval District headquarters last night it was said that nothing was known definitely as to the place where Admiral Sims would land from the Aramis in New York to drive to the Hotel Biltmore. Officers said yesterday that the weather prospect was good and the water spectacle as the Mauretania approached the Narrows to Quarantine would be a picturesque one.

The police boat Patrol under the command of Captain James Hallock, will also go down to meet the liner as she steams up from the Ambrose Channel Lightship, with members of the Mayor's Committee of Welcome on board.

WILL GREET BRITISH TROOPS.

Mauretania to Bring 2,700 Americans and Canadians.

Announcement was made yesterday at 44 Whitehall Street by Acting British Consul General Watson that arrangements had been made to care for 2,700 soldiers from this country and Canada, who have been fighting in France with the British Army, when they arrive at Pier 54 today on the liner Mauretania.

The Scotch Kilties Band with the pipers will greet the men on their arrival, and 600 of the 2,700 who live near New York will receive twenty-eight days' pay and be discharged at the pier. The others who live in the United States and Canada will be taken on ferryboats to Long Island City and sent to Camp Mills, where they will receive their pay. Transportation to their home towns will be provided. Brig. Gen. McManus of the port of embarkation went to Camp Mills yesterday to make the arrangements for the reception of the soldiers.

ONE TRANSPORT ARRIVES.

Metapan Brings 72 Army Nurses and 31 Casual Officers.

The only transport to arrive yesterday from France was the Metapan, which left Brest on March 26, and brought 72 army nurses and 31 casual officers. These nurses, who left New York on Aug. 18 last, were at Base Hospital 58, near Rimacourt, where they handled 1,700 infectious cases. Three of them were from this city, Miss Birdie A. Thalens of 187 East Sixty-ninth Street, Isabelle Rooney of 157 East Sixty-ninth Street, and Margaret Sullivan of 444 West Fifty-eighth Street, who said that wounded men from the 27th, 30th, 90th, and 77th Divisions were treated at the hospital.

Among the casual officers on board was Lieutenant Walter J. O'Connell, son of Congressman Daniel J. O'Connell of the Ninth District, of 990 Decatur Street, Brooklyn. He is a physician, and was attached to Base Hospital 63 for nearly eight months. He also worked with the French at Caen and Château Roux. Captain Abraham Tabachnik was with an aero squadron on Sept. 14 at St. Mihiel when he was attacked by a squadron of twenty German planes and was severely wounded. He was cited by General Pershing.

Officers arriving on the Metapan said that the prices for ordinary commodities were very high in the country towns in France. They said that officers and soldiers would ride fifteen or twenty miles to towns where there had been no American troops, and the goods would be from 50 to 100 per cent. cheaper. Paris prices were also very high, according to the officers. Khaki uniforms which cost 300 to 400 francs in Paris could be purchased in cities like Nancy, which was garrisoned by French troops, for 200 francs or less, they said.

YALE SUMMER LAW SCHOOL.

New Course to Count for a Third of a Year.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., April 6.—Yale has laid plans for opening a Summer law school which will begin June 16 and continue till Aug. 29, offering courses which will count for a third of a year in any American law school. It is contemplated having three such anual sessions, so that the undergraduates of Yale and other colleges can take enough law during the first three years of their course to count an entire year. This is the amount which may be saved in passing from the academic department to the law school.

Chicago and Michigan Universities have given such a course, and Columbia has offered a short course, but Yale is the only university of the East to organize a formal course which will save a year in the law school if taken for three Summer terms. The Faculty will consist of Dean Swan of the Yale Law School, Professor Fraser of the University of Minnesota Law School, and three Yale Law School professors.

COL. BOWEN CITES 43 MEN OF 306TH

CAPT. R. J. SPRAGUE PRAISED

Member of Advertising Staff of The Times Showed Great Solicitude for Safety of His Men.

A general order promulgated by Colonel F. S. Bowen, citing forty-three officers and men of the 306th Infantry for courage and conspicuous service in the campaigns of the 77th Division, was given out yesterday by the 306th Infantry Association at its headquarters at 280 Madison Avenue. The order was sent out from the regimental headquarters in France on Feb. [illegible]

Colonel Bowen praises exploits of the men of the 306th from the fighting in August through the Vesle and Argonne campaigns to the signing of the armistice. One of the officers praised is Captain Ralph J. Sprague, a member of the advertising department staff of THE NEW YORK TIMES and The Annalist. The citations follow:

Captain Ralph J. Sprague—During the advance of his company to the Aisne Canal on Sept. 6, 1918, this officer bravely, and without thought of his own personal safety, led his men through a heavy enemy barrage. Receiving orders to move to a new position, he found upon arrival there that all of his men were not accounted for, whereupon he went to the former position, still under heavy shellfire and severe gas, and remained thus exposed in the former position until he had personally accounted for every man.

Captain Bradford Ellsworth, Intelligence Officer—During the advance through the Argonne Forest, Sept. 26 to Oct. 18, 1918, this officer repeatedly went forward to and beyond our own front lines, showing an utter disregard for his personal safety, inspiring the men by his courage and example, and bringing back valuable information of the enemy's positions. On Nov. 2, 1918, in the vicinity of Verpel, he rode in front of the infantry scouts to obtain information, investigate several patches of woods, and found they were no longer held by the enemy, thus greatly facilitating the speed of the advance and showing an example of courage and initiative far beyond the call of duty and most inspiring to the men.

Captain Herman H. Fahr—On Oct. 15, 1918, during the counterattack on Hill 182, (St. Juvin,) where his company held the front line position, this officer (then a First Lieutenant) displayed great courage and sincere devotion to duty. His utter disregard for his own personal safety and his exhibition of marked leadership inspired the men of his command to greater efforts in checking the attack of the enemy.

First Lieutenant Howard D. Baldwin—On Oct. 4, 1918, this officer's battalion went forward from Abri du Crochet, in the Argone Forest. This officer collapsed from illness and exhaustion and, although advised by the doctor to be evacuated, he continued with his company. On Nov. 5, 1918, he again collapsed of illness but steadfastly refused to be evacuated. By these examples of great courage and devotion to duty he urged on his men and kept up their spirits when they were worn, tired, and depressed, and succeeded in raising their spirits to the proper level.

First Lieutenant Don R. McIntyre—On the night of Aug. 14-15, 1918, at Mont Notre Dame, this officer disregarded his own personal danger and directed his men to places of safety during a severe bombardment of the town, and by his coolness and example encouraged the men in the face of a critical situation, until he became a casualty and was evacuated.

First Lieutenant John R. Hay—On the night of Aug. 14-15, 1918, at Mont Notre Dame, this officer showed an utter disregard for his personal safety and a high sense of devotion to duty in indicating to the men where best to seek shelter during an unusually severe bombardment of the town. He continually exposed himself to enemy fire by visiting and encouraging the men throughout the shelling, until he became a casualty and was evacuated.

First Lieutenant Philip K. Robinson—This officer, on Sept. 26, 1918, near St. Hubert's Pavilion, and on Sept. 30, 1918, at Bois de Naza, repeatedly exposed himself to rifle and machine gun fire in reconnoitring to the front line and exposed flanks to locate enemy positions, or to place his battalion scouts in outposts or observation posts; thereby greatly facilitating the advance of his battalion and securing valuable information for his battalion and regimental commanders. These acts were all performed in the face of danger, with a high sense of duty and an utter disregard this personal safety.

First Lieutenant Daniel Patchin, Medical Corps—On Nov. 1, 1918, in the advance on the Meuse, this officer was attached to the 1st Battalion, 306th Infantry, as medical officer, and was constantly in the front line of the advance. On Nov. 4, 1918, just south of La Besace, he frequently exposed himself to a heavy direct shell fire, administering relief and cheering the wounded; continuing his work until the next morning, at which time all the wounded had been treated and evacuated. In so doing he was slightly gassed, but continued on, though ill and tired, setting an example to officers and men by his cheerfulness and devotion.

First Lieutenant Martin E. Bry, Medical Corps—This officer was attached to the 1st Battalion as medical officer. In the advance on the Meuse of Nov. 1, 1918, he was constantly in the front line of the advance. On Nov. 4, 1918, near Le Cendriere Farm, south of La Besace, he administered relief and gave cheer to the wounded while exposed to a heavy direct laying shell fire. Although sick and weary, he worked unceasingly, and even after all wounded had been dressed or cared for remained with them, attending to their wants until the next morning, refusing sleep himself.

First Sergeant Andrew J. McLean, Co. B—While the company was holding the town of St. Thibaut on Aug. 24, 1918, orders were received to and forward two daylight reconnoissance patrols. This soldier, then a Sergeant, being placed in charge of one patrol, conducted it forward over an extremely difficult terrain, offering scarcely any protection from hostile observation or fire. The Sergeant skillfully advanced his patrol until he had reached a place near the south bank of the Vesle, where the enemy opened a heavy fire of machine guns and trench mortars upon the patrol. Regardless of his own personal safety, he courageously advanced until the information called for had been completely obtained. He then withdrew his patrol with the utmost skill and returned without loss to make his report.

Sergeant Joseph A. Skinkis, Co. I—On Sept. 6, 1918, near Vauxcere, when his company was advancing under a terrific enemy barrage his platoon became separated from the rest of the company. This soldier made, with great danger to himself, a personal reconnoissance of the terrain and succeeded thereby in leading his platoon safely back to the main body of the company, thereby enabling his company commander to successfully complete a relief which was being made. His behavior under fire was a splendid example to his men and assisted materially in restoring their morale.

Sergeant Alexander Forger, Co. B—During the advance to the Aisne River on Sept. 5, 1918, this soldier showed splendid heroism and indifference to personal danger. The entire line was being subjected to intense shelling under direct observation of the enemy. A neighboring unit suffered such heavy casualties as to be practically without first aid. This soldier, after placing his own platoon in safety, rendered first aid to the wounded in the midst of heavy shelling, thereby undoubtedly saving the lives of a number. Again, on Sept. 27, 1918, in the Argonne, during a violent counterattack, this Sergeant skilfully handled his platoon in defense, and himself manned a Chauchat rifle when the gunner had been killed, thereby materially assisting his company to maintain the position it had won.

Sergeant James A. Toon, Co. B—While the company was holding the town of St. Thibaut, on Aug. 24, 1918, orders were received to send out two daylight reconnoissance patrols. This soldier, being placed in charge of one patrol, conducted it forward over a terrain offering no opportunity for cover either from hostile observation or from fire. Although fired upon, he continued to advance with extraordinary courage and disregard for his personal safety until the mission of the patrol had been completely performed. He was then on the south bank of the Vesle and subjected to intense fire from machine guns and mortars on the opposite bank. The withdrawal was even more difficult, as the enemy were then thoroughly aroused, but he accomplished it with bravery and skill, and returned his men to cover without loss.

Sergeant Frank Krugman, Headquarters Company, (deceased)—On Aug. 19, 1918, on the plateau overlooking the Vesle River, between St. Thibaut and Mont Notre Dame, this soldier displayed extraordinary heroism and devotion to duty in running telephone lines across the plateau, under heavy shell and machine-gun fire. This soldier was well known among his comrades for his courage, leadership, and high devotion to duty. Next of kin, Ruth Krugman, (sister,) 1,010 Rogers Place, the Bronx.

Sergeant Thomas J. Murphy, Co. I—On Sept. 9, 1918, when a platoon which he was leading was occupying a front line position on the Aisne Canal, north of Vauxcere, this soldier, during a heavy bombardment, at great personal danger to himself, supervised the placing of his platoon in places of shelter, and by his display of fearlessness and disregard for personal safety calmed his men and increased their morale.

Sergeant Charles A. Robinsky, Headquarters Company—During the action around St. Juvin on Oct. 15, 1918, this soldier exposed himself again and again while working on lines of communication from the Battalion P. C. to the rear. At one time during the day he maintained a telephone station in an exposed position in the Aire Valley, which was being heavily shelled. His work throughout was cheerful and fearless.

Sergeant Harold Young, Headquarters Company—During the advance in the Argonne Forest on Sept. 27, 1918, when our troops were held up by an enemy strong point near Abri St. Louis, this soldier organized his signal men into a mopping up squad and led them coolly and fearlessly against the enemy. Again at Marcq on Oct. 14, 1918, he displayed unusual courage and devotion to duty in maintaining telephone communication to the rear, supervising the repair of wires under heavy shell and machine-gun fire.

Sergeant James Brehemy, Co. L—On Sept. 9, 1918, this soldier, then a Corporal, when his company was holding a front line position north of Vauxcere, on the Aisne, led a patrol, under heavy enemy shell fire, and succeeded in gaining contact with the 305th Infantry on the right flank, whose position was not definitely known. He then returned safely with his patrol, still under shell fire and additional machine gun fire, to his company. His coolness under fire set an example to his men that contributed largely to the success of the mission.

Sergeant William J. Delehanty, Co. L—On Sept. 3, 1918, near St. Thibaut, on the Vesle River, this soldier, in company with another soldier, under heavy enemy artillery fire, and in full view of the enemy, reconnoitred a position which was to have been occupied by two platoons of his company. Finding that the position afforded no shelter, and was therefore untenable, this soldier, in company with the other soldier, at great personal risk, and without having been ordered to do so, remained in that vicinity until a tenable position was located, when he returned to the company with this information, thereby enabling the company commander to place his troops without loss.

Sergeant Thomas A. Delaney, Co. L—(Citation same as preceding.)

Corporal Frank McCarthy, Headquarters Company.—For conspicuous bravery and devotion to duty during the action around St. Juvin, on Oct. 13, 1918, in maintaining lines of communication to the rear from the Battalion P. C. He and four others operated a telephone relay station in an exposed position near the Aire River, and repaired lines which were being repeatedly cut by shell fire.

Corporal Frederick Weltzin, Headquarters Company—During the advance toward St. Juvin, on Oct. 14, 1918, this soldier distinguished himself by helping in the maintenance of telephone lines to the town of Marcq, which was under heavy shell fire throughout the day. On Oct. 15, 1918, he again showed conspicuous bravery and the highest devotion to duty and succeeded in carrying a telephone line across the Aire Valley to the Battalion P. C. near St. Juvin. In spite of the heavy shelling he kept his section well in hand and accomplished his mission without losing a man. Throughout the entire time that this regiment has been in action he proved a cheerful, fearless, and willing worker.

Corporal Frank Johnston, Headquarters Company—On the afternoon of Sept. 8, 1918, on the Aisne River, this soldier was repairing telephone lines in an exposed position under heavy shelling from the enemy. The reels of wire which were being carried by him and other members of the party were cut and a test phone smashed by shrapnel. Despite this he finished his work before seeking shelter.

Corporal Andrew J. Reilly, Co. B—On Sept. 27, 1918, in the Argonne Forest, this soldier acted with heroic daring in attacking a trench position strongly held by the enemy and succeeded in holding it in the face of repeated counterattacks. His automatic rifle man being killed in the assault, he personally [illegible] the weapon up in the trench, operated same, and thereby materially assisted in the advance of the remainder of his company. Although wounded he stuck to his position and did not leave the company until completely exhausted.

Corporal John Murdock, Co. C—This soldier, on the night of Sept. 27, 1918, in the Argonne Forest, volunteered to go out with a patrol into the German advance lines in search of a wounded soldier, spent the greater part of the night in searching, at times drawing enemy fire, and did not return until the missing man was found and brought in at dawn of the next day. His personal bravery, calmness, and good judgment were largely responsible for the success of the patrol.

Private (First Class) Louis C. Marthia, Headquarters Company—This soldier, on Sept. 7, 1918, north of Vauxcere, displayed great courage and the highest devotion to duty in repairing shell-cut telephone lines, running from an advanced P. C. to regimental headquarters. He, with another soldier, worked for a long period of time on a plateau exposed to enemy shell fire.

Private (First Class) Edward Schumann, Headquarters Company—(Citation same as preceding.)

Private (First Class) Chester V. Reader, Headquarters Company—During heavy shelling, on Aug. 20, 1918, repaired telephone lines at the risk of his life, in the vicinity of St. Thibaut, on the Vesle River. Throughout all the operations in which this regiment took part this soldier has been a courageous, cheerful, and constant worker.

Private (First Class) James J. Byrnes, Headquarters Company—During the morning of Aug. 27, 1918, this soldier went into Bazoches with the commanding officer of Company G, and though wounded in the arm by a machine gun bullet, remained with the company headquarters as a visual signalman until told to go to the dressing station by the company commander.

Edward C. Heitman, Co. K—On Nov. 3, 1918, at Hill 178, north of St. Pierremont, under the enfiladed fire of enemy machine guns, this soldier showed disregard of personal safety in operating a Browning machine gun and returning for ammunition, and was instrumental in gaining fire superiority until his company could gain cover of a sheltering bank, while he remained in the open until this was accomplished.

Gennarino Carevale, Co. K—On Aug. 21, 1918, on the Vesle River, when an enemy patrol succeeded in advancing through our outposts and had surprised and fired on them, our fire stopped the patrol with the exception of one boche, who was concealed in a funk hole along the railroad track. Not knowing the numbers of the enemy, this soldier advanced, capturing the German after a severe struggle, and learned that the remainder of the patrol had been killed or wounded.

Samuel Seidowitz, Co. K (deceased)—On Aug. 14, 1918, at Bois de Dole, while under heavy artillery fire, this soldier showed exceptional bravery in assisting wounded to a first-aid station. He made two trips on this mission, and returning the second time, was ordered into a funk hole by Lieutenant Bothwell, where both were killed outright a minute later by a direct hit. (Name and address of nearest relative: Louis Seidowitz, (father,) 713 East Fifth Street, New York City.)

Stephen W. Reiman, Co. I—During the bombardment of the roads near La Besace on Nov. 5, 1918, this soldier was a member of a small band of regimental runners who were establishing runner outposts. While they were exposed to enemy shell fire, Private Reiman, voluntarily and without thought of his personal safety, rendered first aid to several of his comrades who were severely wounded. By his personal courage and by his skill in bandaging their wounds he contributed greatly to the comfort of his wounded comrades.

John E. Logue, Co. I—On the night of Oct. 15-16 this soldier showed exceptional courage and devotion to duty while, as a runner, he guided the relief for his company from Fleville to Hill 182 through a terrific enemy shell fire, which caused the company to be separated, and resulted in many men becoming lost. He voluntarily went back to look for them, succeeded in finding them, and returned with them to the company, utterly exhausted.

James Robert Amok, Co. I—This soldier showed great devotion to duty and an utter disregard of his own personal safety, near St. Hubert's Pavilion on the night of Sept. 28-29, 1918, when, in an effort to locate and deliver important messages to two companies which had been advancing and with whom connection had temporarily been lost, he, in company with another soldier went on for over three kilometers through an almost impassable forest in total darkness and driving rain, and in the face of severe enemy machine gun fire, and although nearly exhausted, on several occasions he refused to give up until he had accomplished his mission and had brought back important information to Battalion Headquarters, having been out all night.

Carl H. Childs, Co. L—(Citation same as preceding.)

Private (First Class) Daniel Eisenberg, Headquarters Company.—During attack on St. Juvin and Hill 182, on Oct. 14, 1918, this soldier showed unusual courage and devotion to duty by running telephone lines in the town of Marcq, which was under constant bombardment, and again on Oct. 15, 1918, in repairing a line running across the Aire Valley, which was being heavily shelled.

Copies of the order were sent by the regimental commanders to the relatives of those who perished in performing the exploits mentioned. Colonel Bowen suc-

Chaplain Says Good Work Was More Marked Than Its Failures.

In telling of the work of the Y. M. C. A. in France in his sermon at the Church of the Heavenly Rest last night, the Rev. Herbert Shipman, who was senior chaplain of the First Army, cited instances of incompetency and maladministration that he had seen and added that the good work he had noticed was more conspicuous than the failures. He said he believed that the welfare organization, with its failures far outnumbered by its successes, had carried on well the work assigned to it by the army commanders.

One of the reasons for the charge that high prices had prevailed in the Y. M. C. A. huts, the speaker said, was that at first there was some rivalry among individual huts as to which could make the best financial showing. This did not last long, Mr. Shipman said, because it was discovered early in the war and stopped quickly by those in authority. Frequently there was shortage of supplies in huts, he said, and some of the supplies were not of the best quality, but this was largely due to the lack of transportation and to the inability of the organization to get goods of first class.

In conclusion Mr. Shipman told of the good work of the welfare organization, and, in defence of the organization, said it was probable that failures had been found in every branch of the army and in the General Staff because of the pressure of war conditions. At one place where he found one dirty and disreputable Y. M. C. A. hut, he said, he found three others nearby that were models of cleanliness and good management. This proportion of efficiency prevailed throughout the organization, Mr. Shipman added, and also in the Y. M. C. A. hotels in Paris, which he described as excellent.

Unemployed at Trinity Service.

Among the worshippers at Trinity Church yesterday, at Broadway and Wall Street, were 450 unemployed men, said to be members of the daily "bread line" at 203 Ninth Street, all of whom had marched to the church from 44 Bowery. The men had appeared in response to an invitation from the church authorities, and when they arrived they found two side aisles reserved for them. After the regular services Dr. William T. Manning, the rector, made a brief address to the men and told them to "keep cheerful, as everything possible would be done to relieve unemployment."

Colonel Withrow of the Government Loan Organization said:

"This meeting is for the purpose, first, partly to commemorate the entry of America in the world war, also to pay tribute to those racial groups whose numbers came forward so rapidly, so willingly, and so loyally at America's call for aid. It is fitting that we should pay homage on a day such as this. The work of the boys who died on the other side was wonderful and magnificent; and of almost equal magnificence has been the loyalty, devotion, and patriotism of the foreign-born citizens who have come forward to lend their aid and support at home."

The resolutions adopted at the close of the meeting read:

It is hereby resolved, That, we, the representatives of the men and women of foreign birth and origin in the Second Federal Reserve District, will support as generously as our means will allow the approaching Victory Loan, and will work untiringly and with fervor to achieve a glorious success for the loan among our fellow-Americans, whether native born or foreign born.

That we will do everything within our power to make the Government's war savings plan a permanent and lasting success, practicing thrift and economy ourselves, in accordance with the Government Loan Organization's suggestions, and encouraging it among all people with whom we come in contact.

That we will stand ready and willing at any and all times to aid and support as best we can, the Treasury Department of the United States in any undertaking it may inaugurate to carry on the work of the glorious Republic we love and revere.

The guests of honor yesterday included Governor Walter E. Edge of New Jersey, and Governor Marcus Holcomb of Connecticut. In addition to the speaking and banner presentations there was a carefully arranged musical program.

B. R. T. MEN AWAIT MOVE BY GARRISON

Appeal to War Labor Board if Receiver Rejects Their Latest Proposal.

WILL HOLD MASS MEETING

Spokesman Says Workers Insist on Union Recognition — See Strike as the Last Resort.

Members of the Executive Committee of Division 867 of the Car Men's Union, officially known as the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employes of America, expressed the opinion yesterday that no strike would be called to enforce the recognition of the union which Lindley M. Garrison, receiver of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit system, has refused until all other means of adjusting the employes' differences had been exhausted. There had been talk of a strike among B. R. T. employes after Mr. Garrison refused to consider an agreement submitted by the Amalgamated last week.

It was denied at the offices of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company, at 85 Clinton Street, Brooklyn, that employes had been discharged for union activity, one of the company's officers asserting that Mr. Garrison himself was opposed to such a policy.

"No man or woman has been discharged from the employ of this company without good cause," the company officer added, "but several of the former employes have assumed that they were discharged because of union affiliations. An employe's connection with a union, as a matter of fact, has never been taken into consideration when his discharge was considered for another reason. Mr. Garrison in his bulletins to the employes told them they might join whatever union or organization they pleased."

It was intimated at the company's offices that Mr. Garrison might not reply to the message from the union's Executive Committee, which was drafted at the meeting in Lyceum Hall on Saturday night asking the receiver either to confer with the committee regarding the demands, or to refer the whole matter to the National War Labor Board. It was asserted that since Mr. Garrison had withheld recognition of the union he would hardly consider it incumbent upon him to submit union demands to the National War Labor Board. The letter in which the Divisional Executive Committee asks for a conference with the receiver and suggests a reference of its demands to the National War Labor Board will reach the Brooklyn Rapid Transit offices this morning.

"You can say for us that there will be no strike declared until every other means of reaching an understanding has been tried," said a member of the Executive Committee yesterday.

"We expect to have a response from Mr. Garrison before the massmeeting which has been called for Tuesday night at Arcadia Hall, in Halsey Street, Brooklyn. If he turns down our proposal, we will take the matter up with the National War Labor Board.

"One thing we insist upon is the recognition of the Amalgamated. The vote to be taken on Tuesday night, while not to be considered a strike vote, will show what the B. R. T. employes think about their union."

P. J. O'Brien, Vice President of the union, who conferred with members of the Divisional Committee at his headquarters in the Hotel Continental yesterday, said that he had been acting solely in an advisory capacity to the committee.

"I am not a member of the committee," he said. "It has its own chairman and all the members are employes of the B. R. T., some of them with eighteen years' service with the company. This committee has put their proposal right up to Mr. Garrison, and I do not think he can very well get away from it. The National War Labor Board is the instrumentality set up by the President of the United States for the settlement of wartime and post-bellum labor difficulties. I cannot tell what our plans are because we do not cross a bridge until we come to it."

DEFENDS PERSHING SQUARE

John McE. Bowman Skeptical of Hirsch's Plan to Honor Soldiers.

John McE. Bowman, replying yesterday to Chairman Nathan Hirsch of the Mayor's Committee on Taxation concerning Pershing Square as reported in Friday's papers, said:

"Chairman Hirsch proposes to take a stretch of Park Avenue and rechristen it Pershing Square. This, he thinks, would give the city a plaza one hundred feet wide by two and one-half miles long and increase the honor to our Expeditionary Forces in proportion. I am unable to see how this will help the congestion in front of the Grand Central Terminal, a congestion which is visible to anybody morning, noon, or night.

"The removal of the elevated spur and pillars from the centre of Forty-second Street between Park and Third Avenues, which I assume will take place sometime, by making a freer roadway, is only going to increase the travel which naturally seeks the easiest line of resistance.

"If a forty-story building be erected on the site of the old Grand Union Hotel it will halt and prevent the surrounding development of new buildings as the Equitable Building has done in the lower part of the city. Such a result will cost to the city a net loss of hundreds of thousands of dollars per year in taxes."

AIR SERVICE WANTS MEN.

Appeals to Discharged Soldiers to Re-enlist for a Year.

In a statement issued from the office of the Air Service Officer, Headquarters, Eastern Department, U. S. Army, at 105 Broad Street, yesterday, an appeal is made for recruits. The statement, signed by Major J. McClintock, U. S. A., declares that if flying is to continue in the American Army men now experienced in that branch of the service must re-enlist. Under the reorganization plans of Major Gen. Charles T. Menoher, head of the Air Service, authority has been granted by the General Staff to enlist 15,000 men.

"At the present time," says the Air Service statement, "enlisted men constituting the Air Service forces are men who have been in for the period of the war, and most of them desire to sever their connection with the army. It is thought that from among this number who desire to get out of the service, if the proper inducements that the Air Service is able to give were presented to them in the right light, they could be induced to stay in for a period of one year.

"It is possible at this time for these men to take their discharge, receive the $60 that is allowed each discharged man, re-enlist in the Air Service for one year, then to be given one month's furlough, and in most cases it will be perfectly possible for that man to retain the non-commissioned grade that he has attained, and upon his re-enlistment, in addition to the $60 allowed each discharged man, be allowed five cents per mile to his home. Inasmuch as he can obtain a one-cent-a-mile rate when going on a furlough, and return to his proper station, he can save from this amount a certain nominal sum.

"For men who have had service in the army, it is believed that there is a decided advantage for the period of one year enlistment or until labor conditions have become more stable, at which time they can expect more positive market for their service in civilian life."

SEES CHURCH AS FOE OF WORLD DISORDER

Bishop McNicholas Pictures It as the Hope of Civilization in Conflict with Bolshevism.

HAYES CELEBRATES MASS

Archbishop Participates at Services to Honor Fifth Centenary of St. Vincent Ferrer.

The three-day celebration of the fifth centenary of the birth of St. Vincent Ferrer was celebrated in the church of that name at Sixty-sixth Street and Lexington Avenue yesterday with elaborate services, in which the Most Rev. Patrick J. Hayes, Archbishop of New York, took part as the celebrant of the solemn pontifical high mass. This was the first official appearance of the Archbishop in a church other than the Cathedral since his elevation.

The sermon was delivered by the Right Rev. John T. McNicholas, Bishop of Duluth. After reviewing the career of the saint who had converted more than 300,000 Moors and others to Chrisianity, he said:

"The Church stands as adamant against the violence, the injustice, the indescribable calamities which the destructive forces, rising from the ruins of the world, would now spread over Europe and the rest of the earth. Christianity and civilization would be destroyed by its program and its doctrines. The wrongs and injustices from which the poor and the laboring classes suffer would be increased a thousandfold.

"Bolshevism can only bring greater evils upon the teeming masses of the world. No organized system of State morality can ever take the place of religion. There is a divinely organized system of morality in the world. It has a divine charter, a divine commission. No State, no Government can lawfully usurp it. No power on earth can substitute another code of morality for that which God has given. States and Governments, unaided by religion, can never put an end to the conflict of classes. Employers, employes, State, and Church must unite in the settlement, but in vain will be the attempt if the Church and religion are excluded.

"Material prosperity and material restraints cannot solve the problem. The forces of religion and morality alone have strength ultimately to restore the world."

Bishop McNicholas argued that the war, with the evils it had brought on, was not a failure of Christianity, but the failure of a civilization which had sought to do without religion and which had rejected the moral code taught by religion.

STIRES CRITICISES WILSON.

Rector of St. Thomas's Sorry President Is Unwilling to Take Counsel.

The Rev. Dr. Ernest M. Stires, rector of St. Thomas's Church, who preached yesterday at special services in commemoration of the second anniversary of our entrance into the war, said that while Americans were proud of some of the qualities possessed by President Wilson, they were frequently made anxious by the President's methods.

"We regret the expression of his views in general terms," he said, "when a crisis required plain speech and definite action. We regret his dangerous isolation and unwillingness to take counsel with his fellow-citizens. We pray that he may never experience such criticism and abuse as Washington and Lincoln knew, and yet we dare tell him for the sake of America and of the world that he must not compromise with anarchy. We pray that he will permit no persistent personal preference to delay a righteous peace. The country needs him at this time of vast opportunity. Congress should be in session transacting the congested business. Only by a wise policy and constructive legislation can a true peace be maintained in this country."

James W. Gerard, former Ambassador to Germany, said yesterday afternoon in an address at the First Congregational Church that it would be a mistake to sit at with the Bolsheviki.

"I do not think there are any reasons of expediency," he said, "which should compel us to sit at the same table with murderers."

Mr. Gerard said it would be necessary in the future to keep the closest watch on Germany, because of the power she was likely to acquire over Russia. "The way to combat the menace of Bolshevism in this country," he said, "is by greater social justice in this country. As long as opportunities here are kept open for everybody, we need not fear this menace. We want to keep open all lines of advancement, both politically and in the business world."

In referring to the so-called "round robin" of the Republican Senators against the League of Nations, he said:

"Those Senators did not create a robin at all. It was a Thanksgiving turkey for the Democratic Party."

Senator William M. Calder, who spoke yesterday at the Institutional Synagogue at the Mount Morris Theatre, said:

"The reason that Bolshevism will never succeed in this nation is that we have given to every man and every woman, in every station, the chance of improving his position in life. Here any boy, no matter how poor and obscure, may, within a limited period, reach the goal of his ambition, if he has courage and persistence."

The Rev. Dr. Stephen S. Wise, who spoke yesterday at the Free Synagogue in Carnegie Hall, said that the foes of Bolshevism in this country were those who desired to root out social and industrial wrongs in this country, not those who wished to leave such wrong undisturbed. "Many of us loathe Bolshevism," he said, "because it has become a bulwark of reaction, because it makes normal progress more difficult."

OVERSEAS REGIMENTS YET TO BE RETURNED

Thirteen of Infantry and Eleven of Artillery Not on Convoy List to June 30.

WASHINGTON, April 6.—Official charts covering the homeward movement of the American Expeditionary Forces show that thirteen infantry and eleven artillery regiments and six machine gun battalions, all additional to the seven regular divisions comprising the Army of Occupation, have not yet been designated for return by General Pershing.

War Department officials indicated today that most of these units were being retained only temporarily, and their release might be expected as the organization of the military force which is finally to represent the United States in France and Germany is determined.

Divisional combat units which have not yet been released specifically by General Pershing follow:

8th Division—8th Regiment Infantry.

36th Division—Headquarters, 71st and 72d Infantry Brigades, 141st, 142d, 143d, and 144th Infantry Regiments, 132d and 133d Machine Gun Battalions.

81st Division—Headquarters, 161st and 162d Infantry Brigades, 321st, 322d, 323d, and 324th Infantry, 156th Artillery Brigade, 316th, 317th, and 318th Artillery Regiments, 317th and 318th Machine Gun Battalions.

39th Division (skeletonized)—140th and 142d Artillery Regiments.

$1,900 IN RECLUSE'S HOME.

Woman, Jilted, Kept Her Vow Never to Listen to Man Again.

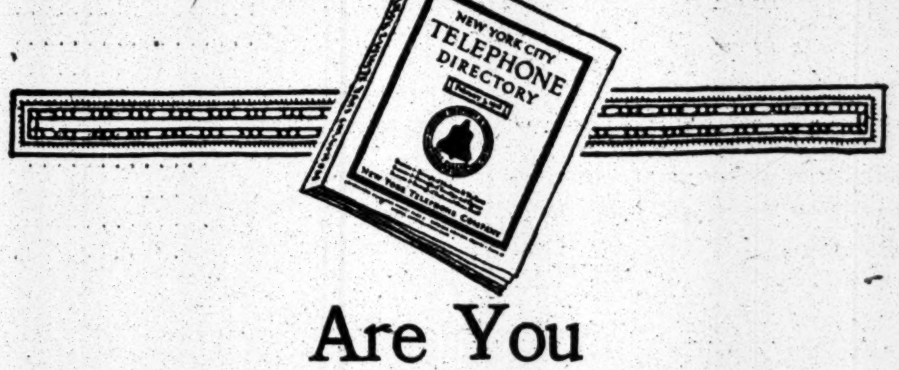
In the pockets and lining of the trousers and three vests which she wore, hidden in a stove, in hymn books, buried under old newspapers, in the bottoms of closets, and even in an old tea pot, searchers have found $1,900 in bank notes in the rooms of Miss Anna L. Schaefer, at 303 Morris Avenue, Newark, a woman who for fifteen years lived as a recluse, and was suffocated in a fire in her rooms on Friday night.

Fifteen years ago the woman was jilted, according to her brother, Richard E. Schaefer of 46 Fresh Pond Road, Maspeth, L. I., by a now prosperous business man in Newark. She vowed she would never have anything more to do with men and kept her vow, her brother says. She lived alone in the Morris Avenue house, and but for the one room which she used, the place was barren of furniture when she died.

Neighbors told the police that Miss Schaefer had donned man's attire more than ten years ago. She was seldom seen on the streets, and it was invariably after dark or very early in the morning when she did the little marketing that sufficed her. No one in the neighborhood could recall having seen her leave or enter her home in two years.

On Friday night when she was suffocated her body was taken to the morgue, where search revealed the money in the pockets of her three vests and her trousers.

In the eleven rooms of the house there was no furniture, but a heap of papers that had served as a bed, two stoves, one chair and a table.



Are You A Telephone Directory Advertiser?

IF YOU SELL a product or service that can be used by the big army of telephone users in the Metropolitan area—then there are a whole lot of reasons why the forthcoming May Issue of the New York City Telephone Directory should be of interest to you.

This issue will reach in addition to the five big boroughs of Greater New York, eighty-one surrounding cities, towns and villages. It will cover a territory that holds more than one-tenth of the population of the United States and a considerably larger percentage of its purchasing power. It will carry the messages of more than 1,400 advertisers to this enormous territory and, if it follows the lead of previous issues it will produce big results.

Now, then Mr. Prospective Advertiser, consider that this big Directory—essential to the telephone users of the Metropolitan Area—coming out in May one million forty thousand strong—is going to stay on the job alongside New York City's telephones for five months and alongside telephones outside of New York City for a considerably longer period.

Consider, too, that these directories will be consulted more than 3,000,000 times every day; that a fair percentage of these 3,000,000 consultations possibly will be made by people who wish to telephone their orders for products which you handle.

Consider all these facts carefully—and let us give you a few additional facts concerning the big possibilities in New York City Telephone Directory Advertising for increased sales at surprisingly low costs.

Pioneers on uncharted seas—

How he sailed straight into the horizon, when every one said the world was flat! How his men feared they would come eventually to the edge and drop off! How one fine day came the gladsome shout of—"Land! Land!"

Fundamentally—the story of Columbus is the story of every successful business. Always there was some pioneer—some man with a vision—some discoverer:—some one who charted the course for generations to follow.

Years ago, scientific filing was little more than an undiscovered country. Letters, reports, memos were filed flat or on hooks. But as business grew, there came the need for more system. And out of that need grew Library Bureau.

So it was that Library Bureau originated vertical filing—the card record system—the card record desk—counter-hight units—the L. B. Automatic index—and practically all the filing methods that are accepted as standard the world over.

L. B. is today the world's largest manufacturer of card record and filing equipment. Its forty-three years experience will keep you off the rocks and shoals and insure safe passage through all your filing difficulties.

CATHOLICS TO SEND SOLDIERS TO FARMS

War Council, with $300,000 Available, Lays Plans for Back-to-the-Land Movement.

TRACTS SOON TO BE OPENED

Financial and Educational Aid to be Given to Men with Small Capital to Invest.

Plans for a back-to-the-land movement among returning soldiers were announced yesterday by the Reconstruction Committee of the National Catholic War Council of 30 East Forty-second Street. According to the announcement, funds amounting to slightly more than $300,000 are available immediately for the project, and, in addition to seeking to aid in the solution of the re-employment problem, the council will conduct an intensive campaign to increase crop output.

The Rev. Edward V. O'Hara, who has just returned from service in France as a chaplain, has been appointed to direct the colonization movement. He said last night that the scheme had already been inaugurated in many of the Catholic dioceses and that soldiers and sailors with some small capital to invest in farming would be transported to the new colonies, without expenses, as soon as the tracts were opened, which is expected to be within three months. The location of the sites to be colonized will be made public in a few days, he added. The new farmers will rceive every aid in tilling the soil, both from an agricultural and financial standpoint, and all soldiers or sailors, irrespective of creed, will be welcomed. Catholic agents near the farms will interest civic, agricultural, and war welfare organizations in the success of the soldier-farmers, the announcement says.

"We are confronted with the likelihood of unemployment on a large scale in the years directly ahead of us," the statement reads, "and we are urged to produce food for the world, instead of merely for ourselves. Even for domestic consumption it will be necessary that we raise a great deal more than ever before. We have hundreds of millions of acres of rich soil at present unused which, at a cost not at all prohibitive, may be turned into productive farms."

After asserting that the United States was the only English-speaking country that had not adopted soldier settlement legislation, and reviewing the various undertakings of this sort in other countries, the statement continued:

"The Government was able to offer to the soldiers returning from the civil war fertile prairie farms in what are now the richest agricultural States of the Northwest. But for the soldiers returning from the present war there are no fertile prairie lands to be given away. Instead, there are the swamp lands and the dry lands and the cut-over lands and the lands with wornout soils.

"The early settlers of the Western farms often underwent severe hardships that settlers of today would shrink from; hardships that would have been often unnecessary if saner methods of settlement had been adopted. The sons and grandsons of those settlers know of the early trials and disappointments only by hearsay, if at all, but the valuable farms which they have inherited are real, and so it is not to be wondered at if they are slow to see the need for giving greater assistance to the soldier farmer of today than that given to the veterans of the civil war."

COHALAN TALKS TO POLICE.

Urges Irish Freedom at Holy Name Society Breakfast.

Supreme Court Justice Daniel F. Cohalan made an appeal for freedom for Island in an address yesterday morning to the Holy Name Society of the Police Department in the Hotel Commodore. Seventeen hundred policemen attended breakfast, which followed a mass in St. Patrick's Cathedral.

The celebrant of the mass was the Rev. John J. Grogan, Catholic chaplain of the Police Department and the Apostolic benediction was bestowed by Archbishop Giovanni Bonsano.

In the course of his address at the breakfast, Justice Cohalan said concerning President Wilson's fourteen points and the rights of self-determination of oppressed peoples:

"If we say that the principle of self-determination must be applied to peoples oppressed by the Central Empires and to them only, then we are not consistent or wholly and righteously just. The principles of self-determination should be applied to oppressed peoples all over the earth—those of England as well as any other.

"I am not saying anything that an American ought not to say. I cherish no animosity toward anyone because he is English or in some way sees things differently than I do. I understand the English as one who has been among them, and I know how much they love liberty for themselves.

"The trouble has been and still lies in the fact that there has been sedulously cultivated a disposition to refuse to look upon Ireland's appeals for liberty seriously. People have been taught to look upon Ireland's troubles as a joke, as if injustice, and suffering, and oppressive restraint, and martyrdom were not just as serious in one part of the world as another.

"Ireland should be free, as all the oppressed peoples of the earth should be free, to take their places in the chain of republics, each one a link in the Peace League of the nations. With self-determination accomplished, England will be a greater nation—greater in the truest sense of that term, than ever before, for she will be free, and the Irish people, her neighbors, will be free also."

VETERANS HEAR ROOSEVELT

Addresses Club at Dinner at Mount Vernon Y. M. H. A.

Lieut. Col. Theodore Roosevelt was the guest of honor at a dinner and reception given last night to the members of the World War Veterans' Club by the Young Men's Hebrew Association of Mount Vernon in its clubhouse, 30 North Tenth Avenue. More than 100 members of the association served in the war, and many of them who have returned from overseas attended the dinner in uniform.

Colonel Roosevelt in his address eliminated politics, and gave a short address on the gallant work of the men of his regiment in battle in France. The interior of the clubhouse was decorated with the flags of the Allies, and many patriotic songs were sung. Abraham Colish was toastmaster.

In addition to Colonel Roosevelt, ex-Mayor Edwin W. Fiske, Abraham Shiman, Benjamin Neiman, Chairman of the World War Veterans' Club; Louis Federman, and Abraham Friez also spoke.

Selling a $6,000,000 Campaign

DID you ever hear of John D. Rockefeller giving $750,000 to anything that hadn't been thoroughly investigated? His benevolence committee made the investigation and pledged that amount toward this campaign.

The Victory Campaign is the response of the Baptists to the world challenge.

We are determined our denomination shall do its share in the task of world reconstruction, not in a narrow, sectarian way, but in the spirit of Allies in Peaceful Progress.

You believe in law and order, in ideals, in the things our boys fought and died for. You know the greatest single factor in creating and maintaining the spirit of a nation is the church.

Any plan which represents the judgment and purpose of a great denomination is worthy of your serious consideration.

If you are a Baptist, this is a summons; if you are not a churchman, your co-operation will be welcome just the same.

To secure Mr. Rockefeller's $750,000 we must raise the balance of the $6,000,000. Are you interested? How much are you interested? Let your check answer. Make it in four or more figures, if possible; or, if this exceeds your ability, cast your lot with those who are sending hundreds. The welcome is the same for all. Send it today.

You will receive "Overland and Overseas," the most comprehensive description of world service opportunities ever printed. After you have read it, if you say, "return the check," back it comes by first mail.

This is a nation-wide call; we are counting on immediate response from thousands of men and women.

ARMY TO MAINTAIN 1,050 ARMED TANKS

213 FOR EACH ARMY CORPS

War Department Approves Program for Permanent Complement of 6,239 Officers and Men.

WASHINGTON, April 6.—Recognition of the importance of armored tanks, "ordnance cavalry," in modenr warfare is indicated by the peace-time organization of this arm, just approved by the War Department.

The United States will maintain in commission and ready for service under these plans a minimum of 1,050 tanks, 330 being of the heavy and 720 of the light type. A third type, known as the "signal tank," is provided for each company and battalion commander, 45 in all being included in the complete tank organization.

A tank brigade, composed of one battalion of heavy tanks and two of light tanks, will be attached to each army corps. The typical heavy battalion includes 45 fighting tanks, with 24 in reserve, and the light battalion 45 fighting tanks, with 27 in reserve. Thus, the army corps' complement will total 135 battle craft, fully equipped, with 78 waiting orders from the corps commander.

The American light tank, adopted late in the war, is a two-ton machine, operated by two men and armed with a machine gun or rapid-firing rifle. It is capable of better than fifteen miles an hour under favorable conditions, and can manoeuvre with great agility. The heavy tanks weigh about thirty-five tons, carry a sawed-off 37-millimeter gun, and are driven at a moderate walking speed by their 500 horse power Liberty motor.

The light type is intended to clean out machine-gun nests and snipers' posts and the heavy for smashing pillbox defenses, breaking a way through the wire entanglements, and for generally clearing a path for the infantry which follows.

The corps is to be made up of 377 commissioned officers and 5,862 enlisted men.

URGES HOME RULE BILL.

Citizens Union Advocates Passage of Proposed Constitutional Amendment

In a brief submitted to the Legislature by the Citizens Union, the passage of the Lockwood-Welsh Constitutional amendment granting home rule to muncipalities is urged. The brief, signed by Walter Tallmadge Arndt, Secretary of the Union, says in part:

"The proposed constitutional amendment granting to municipalities a greater degree of home rule and the authority to regulate their own affairs in respect to local maters, was drafted at the instance of the State Conference of Mayors. It is not a radical home rule proposal. It represents rather a consensus of opinion as to the minimum requirements of a workable home rule proposal which will accomplish the results sought, namely, the freedom of the cities from legislative interference with purely local affairs; the freedom of the legislators from the necessity of acting, usually without adequate information on affairs in which they are not interested and with which they cannot become familiar,, and the conferring definitely upon the city authorities themselves both the power to run the city's business, and the responsibility therefor.

"It should not be forgotten that it is the municipal Government, which, to the ordinary person, represents most of the Government which affects his every day life. More than seven millions of the ten millions population of this State live in cities. The things that primarily concern them are whether their streets are clean, whether their cities are policed properly, and protected from fire, whether their schools are kept up to standard, whether their water supply is pure and adequate, and whether their taxes are reasonable and their city income is spent economically and effectively.

"We believe that we are speaking for the millions of city dwellers when we urge upon the Legislature of 1919 that they approve the Lockwood-Welsh Home Rule Constitutional amendment which will carry into effect the essential principles herein set forth."

BERLIN CLOSES CABARETS.

American Officers Said to Have Charged Profiteering.

BERLIN, April 6, (by The Associated Press.)—About fifty resorts in Berlin, cabarets, variety shows, dance halls, and the like, have been ordered closed because of food profiteering and violations of various regulations regarding the sale of food and drink.

It is said in some circles that the places were closed because American officers here reported to the Food Minister that they had found surprisingly varied menus and questioned Germany's alleged foodless situation. Two thousand employes have been thrown out of work as a result.

The proprietors of the resorts admitted that they had charged four and five times the ordinary prices for food and drink, but gave as an excuse for doing so the tremendous expense they were under for furnishing their places and the payment of large sums for musicians and other features.

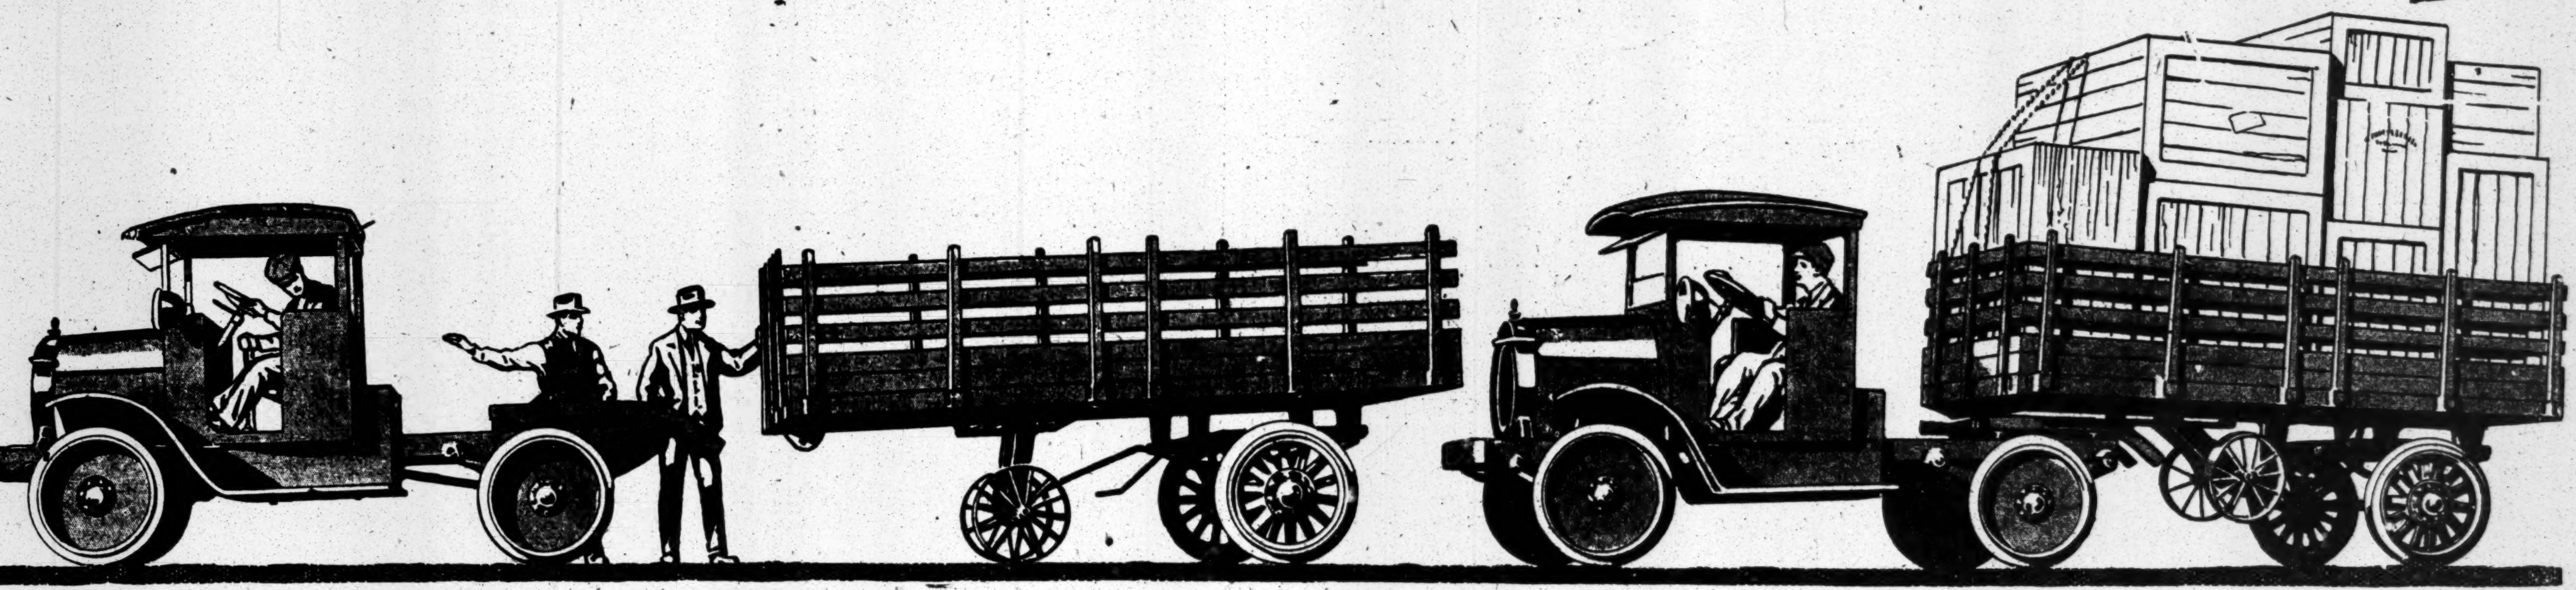
EVERY need of Industry



THE Fulton Locomotor and the Fulton 1½ ton truck serve EVERY need of Industry.

The Fulton Locomotor is no experiment. It is the same proven, superior Fulton Chassis with its frame a bit shorter, designed to couple automatically to a separate two-wheeled body of 3½-4 ton capacity; special bodies for 5 tons can be furnished for the same chassis. In actual practice these Locomotor Bodies are often cruelly overloaded, sometimes carrying six and seven tons and NEVER YET has ANY overload EVER injured the engine, transmission or other parts of the Locomotor Chassis.

The weight of the load is borne by the rear wheels of the body and the rear wheels of the Locomotor Chassis. The weight-supporting strain does not fall on the engine and its contributory propulsive mechanism. The engine and moving parts are left free to PULL.

Still the Fulton Locomotor is NOT a trailer. It has none of the trailer's disadvantage of difficult passage through crowded city streets. It does away with a great percentage of the weight of a trailer. It has only six tires to wear instead of eight, and the wear on the six Locomotor tires is far LESS under a four or five ton load than the wear on the four tires of a four or five ton truck, and half the wear on the tires of a truck and trailer.

You can have an inexpensive three and one-half-four ton body and a five-ton body with your Fulton Locomotor. You can carry a one-ton body on the rear of the chassis alone, when deliveries are light.

Thus, with one Fulton 1½-ton truck and one Fulton Locomotor Chassis and a 3½-4 ton body and a 5-ton body, you have a COMPLETE line of trucks costing you $6,800, whereas any one 1½-ton truck of value at all comparable with the Fulton, one three-ton truck and one five-ton truck would cost you at least $12,000 and probably $12,500 in FIRST COST.

In addition, this Fulton Truck and Fulton Locomotor will carry 10% MORE goods in a year than the other trucks and do it at an OPERATING cost of LESS than HALF. You will save AT LEAST $5,000 the first year and EVERY year in operating cost so that, in effect, at the end of the year you have had your goods moved for practically NOTHING by the Fulton Trucks, or conversely saved yourself $10,000 over the line of three other trucks.

Now it is easy to make a claim in print, but we can't SELL trucks that way, can we? We can't sell you the trucks until we show you RECORDS of what OTHERS have saved and are saving. And it is just those records which we want to send you.

And we earnestly believe that you are doing your business a grave injustice unless you DO look NOW into the very great extra economy and efficiency in deliveries which Fulton trucks give you.

And now a word about the enormous PROVEN superiority of Fulton 1½ ton Trucks.

Fulton Trucks are the most economical in first cost. They are priced at $1,850, and that is $475 LOWER than the AVERAGE of the Fulton carrying capacity class, and $1,000 LOWER than ANY truck of nearly equal performance value.

Save $600 a Year on GAS, OIL and TIRES

Fulton Trucks run from 14 to 17 miles on one gallon of gas. Seventeen is not unusual. Most trucks run six miles on one gallon. Some makes are VERY proud of getting ten miles to the gallon. A Fulton Truck will save you $600 a year over the AVERAGE truck used for 50 miles a day.

Fulton Trucks average over 250 miles to a gallon of oil. The average truck gets less than 110 miles to the gallon. Fulton Trucks get 7,000 to 10,000 miles on one set of tires. The AVERAGE truck of the same carrying capacity gets 15% LESS than the Fulton MINIMUM and 20% less than the Fulton average tire mileage.

Fulton Trucks cost 40% LESS in the essentials of operating cost than ANY other make of equal carrying capacity that we know of, and 60% less than SOME that we know of.

You PAY TWICE the FIRST YEAR for MOST trucks, but only ONCE—and THAT at LEAST $475 less—for Fulton Trucks.

A DANGEROUS Waste

Service records SHOW beyond any question of doubt that when you buy a 3 or 3½-ton truck at $4,000 or $4,500, you get $4,000 worth ONLY ONCE IN A WHILE. Service records SHOW that 80% of ALL cartage problems are BETTER taken care of by a 1½-ton truck than any other type.

TWO Fulton 1½-ton trucks costing $1,850 each, or $3,700 for the two, will carry 4 tons 50 to 150 miles a day at a FIRST COST of $500 to $1,000 LOWER than a 3 or a 3½-ton truck at an OPERATING cost far lower.

A 3 or 3½-ton truck CAN'T be in two places at once, but TWO Fulton 1½-ton trucks CAN.

Efficiency in Buying

We KNOW that all we have to do is to sit tight, for perhaps two months, and then we shall be BESIEGED for Fulton Trucks—that ALL good trucks of the Fulton type will be oversold. We KNOW that we shall be CLEANED out. But THAT isn't good business—that isn't EFFICIENCY.

If you come to us THEN we shall NOT be able to get more trucks from the Fulton factory, big and productive though it is, and at THAT time we CAN'T STOP to go into the scientific paring down—the GREAT money saving of your delivery costs, as we can now and WANT to do now.

Now, let us send you the VITAL information you NEED when we can take the time to do it, and when you can take the time to STUDY it.

For, remember, when the REAL flood of business sets in—and it is starting NOW—your time will be GONE—OUR time will be gone—the Trucks will be gone — the OPPORTUNITY will be gone.

Won't you send us this coupon TO-DAY and EQUIP yourself with the information you will consider of PRICELESS value in a little while?

HOSPITAL SOLDIERS SEE THE BIG SHOW

PEANUTS ADD TO REALISM

Sideshow performers of the super-circus packed up their paraphernalia at the Garden yesterday afternoon and took them to Debarkation Hospital No. 3, the old Greenhut store, where 1,800 wounded veterans of the Argonne, St. Mihiel and Château-Thierry eagerly awaited them. There was no big tent, and no little tent, no room on the hospital stage for a big circus feature, but just enough of Spring was in the air within and without the big recreation room to banish the wistfulness from a disabled country lad's face and light it up with thoughts of better things than war.

Long before the hour set for the performance Red Cross officers went through the wards and ballyhooed the big show. There was a scurrying from beds and a race of wheel chairs as the nurses hurried their patients to front-row seats. And then, just as the hubbub was momentarily silenced by the appearance of George Auger, the Cardiff Giant, seeking the stage entrance, one of the Red Cross officers thought he heard: "How about some peanuts or pink lemonade?"

There was nothing for him to do but journey to Fourteenth Street and buy out an open-on-Sunday peanut stand, and regret that the medical staff would probably bar pink lemonade. Merle Evans's band was just striking up a ta-ra-ra-ra overture as the peanut-laden officer reappeared. Something was holding the curtain. John Agee, the equestrian directors, and Major Jay Real were searching the audience with worried eyes. Mrs. Doll, the three-foot wife of her three-foot husband, Mr. Doll, was missing. The band was forced to fill in the anxious minutes with another selection.

The stage director was just about to cancel the Doll act and ring up the curtain on another of his features when Mrs. Doll stepped from behind a wheel chair, where she had been chatting about France with one of the front-row spectators. The Doll act was saved, and later Mrs. Doll accompanied the seven-foot Cardiff Giant through the wards for the benefit of men who were too ill to attend the show.

Strawberry Red and Hank Darnell, dare devil Wild West riders, had to leave their ponies at the Garden, but entertained with other stunts that evoked cheers even before they started, for the announcer shouted: "These men have just rejoined the greatest show on earth after service in France."

"Butterfly" Stelling with his clown act "went over big."

"I hadn't seen a painted clown in years though we had a few clowns in our company," said Sergeant W. M. Campbell of the 28th Infantry, 1st Division, one of whose legs was shattered by a German machine gun bullet. "I saw plenty of dare-devil riders while I was on the border with the old 28th, but believe me I didn't expect to get a look at a real he-man cowpuncher from a wheel chair in New York." Campbell, a member of a regular army regiment, has been a patient at Greenhut Hospital since it opened.

"I had more fun watching the sword-swallower"—the famous Mlle. Clifford—commented Private W. C. Voightsberger, who was a prisoner in Germany for six months and whose wound has confined him to a wheel chair for the last eight months. "I always wondered how they did it. I guess there were few of us who didn't get a laugh when she couldn't swallow that bayonet and had to cry 'Kamerad!'"

Other acts included the monkey and dog stunt, in which monkeys rode saddled dogs around the stage; Hillary Long, the "upside down man"; the Dekees troupe of tumblers and acrobats, the Vuylstecke troupe of Belgian acrobats, and George Hartzell and Billie Rice, clowns, who made their usual tour through the audience, and King and Prince, midget boxers, who staged a fight, the latter being pronounced "Junior Champion of the World" by the announcer, after he had knocked down his opponent for a count of ten. The performers put on another show later yesterday afternoon at the Manhattan Opera House, under the auspices of the War Camp Community Service. To wounded men able to attend the big circus at the Garden, the circus management had allotted seats for each performance.

Celebrate Greek Independence.

The ninety-eighth anniversary of Greek independence and the second anniversary of America's entry into the war were celebrated last night by 4,000 Greeks of this city at the Lexington Theatre. The chief speakers were M. Tsamados, Acting Ambassador at Washington; M. Psaroudas, Consul General at New York; Bishop Rodos of the Greek Church, and Dr. Dadakis. A resolution adopted at the meeting expressed confidence that the Peace Conference would not fail to do justice to the Greek populations and would satisfy their claims as presented by Premier Venizelos.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., April 6.—As a result of the arrival late last night of a carrier pigeon, which flew into a room on the eighth floor of the Hotel Marlborough-Blenheim, Ensign Finch of the Naval Air Service today was safely back at his base at Cape May instead of a captive in a disabled hydroplane drifting helplessly off the coast in the grip of the Gulf current.

Shortly after 11 o'clock last night, just after he had switched off the lights and was about to retire, William Lyall of Toronto heard something whirr in at the window. The fluttering that followed caused him to switch on the light again, and then he saw an apparently badly exhausted blue-and-white pigeon feebly trying to rise from the floor. Mr. Lyall picked up the bird and summoned a bellboy.

As the boy was telling the night clerk about the arrival of the pigeon United States Circuit Court Judge Joseph Buffington of Pennsylvania and his cousin, Lieutenant Matthew Taylor of Pittsburgh, formerly commander of the forces afloat in the Sixth Naval District, overheard the story. Lieutenant Taylor recognized the bird as a type used by the navy, and, examining it, found a small aluminium cylinder fastened to one of its legs. Opening the cylinder the officer found this message:

> Down ten miles west of submarine chaser at 4:15 P. M. No gas.
> ENSIGN FINCH.

Scarcely waiting to read off the message, Lieutenant Taylor got a call through to the headquarters of the Fourth Naval District at Philadelphia in record time. Minutes later the radio buzzed at the League Island Navy Yard and Philadelphia was telling Cape May to pile emergency crews into all the available motor craft and get to sea for the rescue. Cape May in turn passed the word down to the Coast Guard stations and auxiliary cutters were run out to be ready if needed.

Within thirty minutes from the time that the tired carrier pigeon had winged into the hotel window, six fast motor launches were darting out from Cape May to pick up the search. The wireless was kept busy also picking up the patrolling submarine craft, and just before midnight one of the chasers' searchlights located the drifting airplane.

Making quick time th echaser landed the Ensign at Cape May at 1 o'clock this morning. The station's personnel had been kept at a high tension discussing th efate of the man somewhere off the coast in the darkness, and when he walked briskly into the quarters, questions were hurled at him from all sides. He started to answer some of them when somebody told him how the pigeon had landed at the Atlantic City hotel. He snatched up a telephone, said "Give me Atlantic City; the Marlborough-Blenheim quick!" and the rest of his conversation was:

"Drifted eight miles. Yes, yes, all right operator, hurry it up. Had to climb out a couple of times, high seas. All right, operator, all right, I'm waiting. At one time it was raining like the—hello, Marlborough—say, you've got a pigeon there, haven't you? It's in good shape, hey? Well, say, if you want to do something for me, give that bird the biggest spread the hotel can stand!"

When the pigeon left here this afternoon, after Judge Buffington and Lieutenant Taylor had promised " bearer, a train messenger, al lsorts of dire things if he turned it over to Ensign Finch with even so much as a single feather ruffled, the bird had a rounded-out appearance, and a sleepy, well-fed look in its eyes that indicated the Ensign's request had been carried out.

FRENCH HERE PLAN TO FIGHT DRY LAW

Form a League of Organizations Which Will Oppose Curtailment of Individual Liberties.

EXPECT 200,000 MEMBERS

Spokesman Outlines Campaign, to Include Meetings in All Colonies of French-Speaking Citizens.

The formation of the Franco-American League for the Protection of American Liberty, representing French organizations in this and other cities, for the purpose of combating the prohibition amendment, was announced yesterday by Clement Reuff of 25 West Fifty-fourth Street. The Franco-American League will become a branch of the Association Opposed to National Prohibition, at 19 West Forty-fourth Street.

"All the French societies in this country have been or soon will be united in this movement," Mr. Reuff said. "The membership in New York will number 50,000, and throughout the country 200,000.

"The French speaking people are solidly opposed to the curtailment of individual liberties, such as the Prohibitionists propose. We would not raise the slightest protest, if the Prohibition issue had ever been submitted to the people for a direct popular vote. But to see our liberty taken from us by the devious methods of a few misguided men and women seemed to us so contrary to the spirit of the American Constitution that we cannot remain silent or inactive.

"There are a great many reasons why the French people of the United States should be opposed to all forms of prohibition of personal liberty. They did not leave France because they were starving or oppressed there, but they leave their native country because they found better opportunities in the United States for promoting their individual and material welfare. This, too, under a Constitution which guaranteed them individual rights, the right to speak, to think, to write, to eat, to drink, or to smoke what and when they pleased.

Tells of French Customs.

"French people universally drink wine with their meals. They seldom drink liquor or anything else except at meal time. They are, as a rule, a very temperate people. When they came to cast their lot with the people of the United States, they felt that their individual liberties were safeguarded by the Constitution for which their ancestors fought with Lafayette and Rochambeau.

"But today we see Bolshevism advancing against that Constitution which we Franco-Americans have always held sacred. In organizing this league of French-speaking people of the United States, stern opposition to prohibition is not our impelling force. Above all we are fighting for the preservation of American liberty, which, as we see it, is now menaced as never before by fanaticism and intolerance. At heart we are not French nor Franco-Americans, but straight out Americans without any hyphen. We have married here and planted here our homes forever.

Opposition Forces United.

"In such a spirit we are uniting, with thousands of native Americans, all over the United States under the leadership of the Association Opposed to National Prohibition.

"We shall spare nothing to bring to the attention of the Government at Washington our earnest concern for the safety of American principles. We will begin at once to hold meetings wherever there is a colony of French-speaking citizens in the United States against the menace of Bolshevism, which is so clearly revealed in this fanaticism they call prohibition.

"These meetings will be addressed by speakers of prominence in American business and political life. We will also disseminate our protest in literature. Lafayette and Rochambeau fought to establish this republic. We shall fight to preserve it."

LABOR ASSAILS PROHIBITION

Boston Workers Ask President to Repeal His Proclamation.

BOSTON, April 6.—Organized labor at a massmeeting on the Common today under the auspices of the Boston Central Labor Union protested the ratification of the prohibition amendment without an expression of opinion from the people, and adopted a resolution calling uponthe President to repeal his proclamation, effective July 1, providing for war time prohibition. The speakers were union men and included several soldiers and sailors in uniform.

The resolution declares that "We have a great interest in opposing prohibition because of its great industrial effect upon the employment of 500,000 workers," that "We record our protest against the ratification of the Eighteenth Amendment by 3,804 persons, a majority of the legislators of thirty-six States without an expression of opinion from the people as being un-American and un-democratic."

BAKER COMES TO SAIL.

Will Leave on the Leviathan Today for Short Trip to France.

WASHINGTON, April 6.—Secretary Baker left Washington tonight for New York, where he will take passage tomorrow on the transport Leviathan for France. Mr. Baker will be accompanied to France by C. W. Cuthell, the War Department representative on the American Liquidation Commission, and by his secretary, Stanley King.

During his stay abroad, which is expected to be brief, the Secretary will attend the meetings of the Liquidation Commission, which is winding up the financial affairs of the American Army in France.

Business Ideas

Found on a Newsstand

STOP at the first newsstand. There you will find a vast fund of business ideas. Ideas for expanding your business; ideas for increasing your sales; ideas for cutting costs; ideas for making collections; ideas for handling men; ideas gleaned from a thousand sources covering every phase of business. Not theories—but ideas from the grist mill of experience. Merely apply them to your problems! For one cent a day you can have this storehouse of ideas, any one of which may solve a problem which is now costing you hundreds of dollars. You will find SYSTEM, The Magazine of Business, at all principal newsstands. Here is just a glimpse of what the April number contains:

Actual Experiences of Successful Men

Making Borrowed Ideas Work

READY-TO-WEAR plans that can be applied to your business just as they are don't grow on every bush. But wherever you go, each experience you have contains the germ of an idea you could very likely use.

A certain Chicago hardware man traces an increase of 60% in his sales to applying borrowed ideas. As he tells it himself, "Carrying a notebook is the part of my work that yields the biggest share of profits."

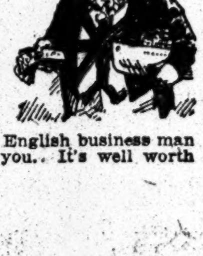
Into his notebook go ideas that other men have worked out or adapted. And in almost all of them is a suggestion that makes his organization run more smoothly and promotes his sales. Wallace J. Stebbins, of the Stebbins Hardware Co., tells in April SYSTEM what his notebook of borrowed ideas has done for his business.

Is This the Best Management Policy?

HOW would Jesus run my business?" An odd question for a successful business man to ask, you'll agree. But Harry N. Clarke insisted upon getting an answer in the two businesses he is operating, and tells about his success in his article, "Is This the Best Management Policy?" in the April SYSTEM. Some of the plain precepts that Jesus gave men almost two thousand years ago can well be applied in everyday business affairs today. All religion aside, Clarke has proved that it pays to do it! There's something fundamental to this article. Read it and apply some of the ideas it contains.

England—Our Customer and Competitor

WHAT'S what commercially in the British Isles these days? SYSTEM wanted to know, so sent its financial editor straight to London to get the facts. Is England a market for us? What will British firms buy? And do we need to fear them in the race for world wide commerce? In the first of a series of articles appearing in the April SYSTEM you'll find the answers to these and a dozen other questions. Just remember this, English business is neither to be feared nor disregarded. There is a big opportunity here for "hands across the sea" if you'll make the effort. John Bull is a customer and also a competitor. Handle with care! Find out what the English business man is thinking about you. It's well worth while.



How the Other Fellow Got There

HOLD a mirror to your own policies as you read the April SYSTEM. For instance, stand yourself up beside Frank M. Wicks. He will remind you of a powerful, noiseless dynamo. He is the personification of speed without waste. Starting as an electrician in the Westinghouse rank and file, he has remodelled every plant his firm owns along the lines that he originated and developed. His methods can be applied to your business.

George M. Verity of the American Rolling Mill Co. is a dreamer. By dreaming along the right lines and keeping his feet on the ground he boosted his company's sales from $281,181.12 to $23,000,000. Fellows like these are worth reading about. SYSTEM tells their stories.

Make Your Competitors Boost Your Sales

CERTAINLY it can be done. It has been done! A salesman of a hustling young company turned the trick, with the result that in two years the firm's business doubled and in the third year topped the million mark.

He had a real idea and it is handed on to you in the April SYSTEM under the title "Why We Sell More at High Prices," by C. O. Alexander, President of Alexander Bros.

This same firm has hit upon a lot of other wrinkles that will put ginger into the marketing methods of any business. It has never had a "comeback" from the dealer, and has capitalized the fact in such a way that when it entered the Boston field the jobber who is now one of their largest distributors closed the deal before he realized that no samples had been shown him.

Wrong Methods Made Right

EVERY business has its wrong methods. How to find them and fix them is the everlasting job of the business man. The purchasing agent of a mail order house discovered that the combination envelope order blanks they had sent out were not being used. He investigated, and "doped" out a plan that resulted in a tidy increase in sales.

Broken promises hurt a firm's reputation and put a wet blanket on sales. A general manager devised a way of reminding employees of their promises at the proper time, and saved his firm the loss of many customers. These and other workable ideas are described in the section headed "Wrong Methods Made Right" in SYSTEM for April.

Make Friends With the Trade Acceptance

MOST of us have only shaken hands with the Trade Acceptance so far. We ought to take it into the front office and make a friend of it.

If you've ever been hampered by acting as banker for your customers—if you have ever lamented over the amount of money you had tied up at just the time you needed it for something special, you'll read and reread "More Business on the Same Capital," by William A. Law, President of the First National Bank of Philadelphia, in the April issue of SYSTEM. He tells just what the trade acceptance is, how to use it, how it helps in big and little business and how you're going to make more money because of it.

Putting the Handclasp in Your Letters

Every letter they send does what it's aimed to do: sells watches, wipes out misunderstandings, makes a friend of a debtor and at the same time prompts him to put a check in the return mail. Every letter is a handclasp and a friendly "Hello, there."

Business these days rides on the postage stamp. If your everyday letters are not improving they are losing in effectiveness.

In the April issue of SYSTEM, under the title "Making the Everyday Letters Better," Paul Kearney tells a score of first-class, proved-out, better letter ideas. They are yours for the reading.

"The Listening Post"

THE veteran realty man admitted that it was "bad business" not to pension off old Otis. "But I just haven't the heart to do it," he declared, and his decision won him the biggest deal he had swung in years. The Borden Tract was the finest melon in the local real estate field. Otis's chief and Cortwright, head of a rival firm, were both determined to sell it. When the buyer called on both firms it was old Otis that tipped the scales for his employer and clinched the sale. "The Listening Post"—a business story by Camillus Phillips—is in the April issue of SYSTEM. It will help your heart to help your head.

HUGGINS'S VEIN OF OPTIMISM SWELLS AS YANKEES PREPARE TO START NORTH

Please don't think we're trying to scare up a story! It's fact!

Last year a Jersey farmer needed a scare-crow. An old suit bought here many years ago was assigned to duty.

Crop in and crows gone, he was about to put the garment away for another year when, more out of curiosity than anything else, he looked it over to see how it had stood the weather.

The color particularly caught his eye.

We have his word for it—and as far as color goes, while the exposure was a bit extended, in principle it's the same as the ten day sun test to which all our fabrics are subjected before we make them up.

A GOOD WAY TO SAVE

"In times like these when economy is so essential, I know of no better way to save than to have the entire family shod with Neolin Soles," writes B. F. Williams, Rochester, N. Y.

In his letter Mr. Williams tells of a pair of Neolin-soled shoes which he has worn constantly for four months. "The soles still look like new," he says.

You, too, will think there is no better way to save, when once you have tried shoes with these long-wearing, comfortable, and waterproof soles. They come in many styles for every member of the family. And good repair shops carry Neolin Soles for re-soling. They are made scientifically by The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., Akron, Ohio, who also make Wingfoot Heels—guaranteed to outwear all other heels.

YANKEES TO BREAK CAMP ON SATURDAY

ALL ARE FIT SAVE HALAS

Ex-Collegian's Injury Yielding to Treatment—Thormahlen's Pitching of a High Order.

Special to The New York Times.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., April 6.—The Yankees tomorrow enter upon the final lap of their Spring training campaign in Jacksonville. After finishing their game with the Dodgers on Saturday next, the Huggins troupe will bid farewell to this city and begin their advance in the general direction of New York. Exhibition games en route north will keep the team busy for about a week after leaving here.

Huggins is well satisfied with the results attained in the first two weeks of work here. The players have not lost a minute through poor weather conditions, and indications now point to a well conditioned squad when the getaway occurs at the close of the week. The program for this final week calls for games against the Dodgers on Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday, with exhibitions between the Regulars and Yannigans on the intervening days.

George Halas is the only player of the squad who has an ailment severe enough to keep him out of the daily games. The ex-collegian, who was having marked success in his first efforts as a major leaguer, has been unable to play since last Tuesday, when he wrenched a leg muscle while running bases. Huggins hopes to use him in two of the Brooklyn games this week, but said today that the player probably would not be able to play in Tuesday's engagement. He is in uniform daily and indulges in batting practice, but he does no base running and cannot get up any speed in the outfield.

All the other players who were on the hospital list last week have recovered. Thormahlen, Lewis, Schneider, and Mooers were laid up at different times but all are fit again. Schneider's pitching arm tightened up after his strenuous endeavors during his first few days in camp, but it is working out nicely and he probably will get an opportunity to use it in the next game against the Dodgers. The former Red is the only hurler who has been complaining of any trouble with his arm during the last few days.

The work of Thormahlen who pitched six innings against Brooklyn on Saturday, was the best shown by any of the Huggins hurlers since the training season opened. Huggins declared after the game that the Jersey City southpaw showed better form in this first extended workout than he did at any time last year. Thormahlen is counted upon by Huggins to take his regular turn in the box from the start of the season, and the Yankee manager believes he will be even more successful than he was in 1918. The left-hander worked nine innings in two games against the Dodgers last week and allowed them only two runs, both coming after he had blanked the National Leaguers for eight innings. Two scratch hits and an error made the scoring possible.

Ernie Shore is scheduled to make his pitching début in either the Tuesday or Thursday game against the Dodgers. He has been working out slowly but has been showing plenty of speed and apparently is ready to get into a game. Huggins's present plan is to use Bob Shawkey for five innings in the next game against Brooklyn and follow up with Shore or Schneider. Up to this time the Yankees have won two games on left-hand pitching and dropped two in which right-handers were working.

When the Regulars and Yannigans line up for their practice game tomorrow Bill Fewster will be at third base for the first team, displacing Aaron Ward. Huggins has decided upon Fewster as his first utility infielder, and he will get the call as substitute for Baker, Peckinpaugh, or Pratt whenever any one of these regulars is unable to play.

This was a day of rest for the ball tossers and most of them spent the afternoon in sightseeing. Auto tours to Pablo Beach and to St. Augustine were popular this afternoon. Bob Shawkey, Ernie Shore, and a few others indulged in golf at the Country Club just outside the city.

OUTDOOR TENNIS IN OFFING.

Some Courts in Use Already—Pinehurst Tourney On Today.

For perhaps the first time in New York's tennis history the stars of the racquet are this season able to step directly from the covered board courts of the armories to the clay surfaces outdoors. The unusually late date of the national indoor championship, combined with a comparatively dry and frostless Winter, makes possible an unbroken tennis season for 1919, free from the "dog days" which have traditionally intervened between the guarded enthusiasm of the colder months and the real thrills of Spring's first recreation.

Even before the covered court titles had been decided and with a near-blizzard still to come, a few of the outdoor clay courts, notably those of the University Heights Club, had already been in use, and during the last week-end most of the tennis clubs in or near New York gave their members a chance for at least a warming up.

Aside from the recent Florida State championships, in which Molla Bjurstedt once more emphasized her superiority among American women players, the first important outdoor event in the Eastern regions is the newly established North and South tournament which opens at Pinehurst, N. C., today. An impressive entry list has been announced in advance, including the new indoor champion, Vincent Richards, with his partner of both the national doubles titles, William T. Tilden, Jr., as well as the Japanese star, Ichiya Kumagae, and the former indoor champion, S. Howard Voshell. For the women's event Miss Marion Zinderstein of Boston and Miss Eleanor Goss of New York, present holders of the national doubles championship, and each a recent runner up for a singles title, are sure entries, with Miss Florence Ballin and others as probable competitors. Pinehurst is starting its new tournament under the most favorable circumstances, and the North and South competition should develop into an annual fixture of real significance.

The first outdoor tournament in New York City will be an open doubles event at the University Heights Tennis Club, 207th Street, near Fordham Road, beginning one week from next Saturday, April 19, and scheduled for completion during the following week-end. A number of first-class local teams have already signified their intention of entering, and with nearly two weeks of preparation possible it should prove far more than merely a practice contest.

The University Heights Club has risen to sudden prominence by the sensational exploits of its ranking player, young Vincent Richards, but it has a number of other stars on its roster, as was proved last season when it won first place in the newly formed Metropolitan Association, playing team matches against the West Side, Kings County, Westchester, New York Lawn Tennis, and Terrace Clubs. The first official singles tournament of the year on outdoor courts will probably be that of the Harlem Club, coming, as usual, early in

SEVEN-PLAYER RULE UPHELD

Board of Arbitration Indorses Minor League's Stand.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., April 6.—The National Board of Arbitration, the supreme court of minor league baseball, has decided that the seven-player limit rule and other rules adopted by the Southern Association at its Spring meeting are not in conflict with the regulations of organized baseball. President Martin of the Southern Association, in announcing the decision today, said that while it was handed down in reference to a Southern Association matter, it held good for the Pacific Coast League, the International League, the American Association and other minor organizations.

"The ruling means," President Martin said, "that the Southern Association now has the right to legislate for itself and has the right to govern its internal affairs. It means freedom for minor league baseball."

The appeal on the seven-player rule, which limits each club in the association to seven players with Class A experience prior to 1918, was taken to the Board of Arbitration by the New Orleans club.

MORSE ELEVEN IS VICTOR.

Robins Dry Dock Team Beaten in Close Game of Soccer.

After a hard fought contest between two evenly matched soccer teams, Morse Dry Dock triumphed over Robins Dry Dock by 3 goals to 2 in the replay from the first round of the Southern New York State Football Association Cup competition in the presence of a record crowd at Lenox Oval yesterday.

The victors had all the better of it in the first half, at the end of which they led by 2—0, but determined aggressiveness brought the losers within an ace of tying the score in the second period.

Furnishing a genuine sensation for soccerdom, the Federal Ship soccer team scored a notable victory—2 goals to 0—in the second round of the New Jersey State Cup at Clark's Athletic Field in Newark yesterday, defeating the Paterson Football Club, which has qualified for the finals both of the United States Football Association and the American Football Association.

GOULLET RIDES TO VICTORY.

NEWARK, N. J., April 6.—Alfred Goullet, recently discharged from the aviation service of the United States Navy, signalized his return to bicycle racing at the Velodrome today by winning the Mayor Charles P. Gillen Stakes, at five miles, which was started by the Newark Mayor.

Goullet was cheered to the echo by a crowd of about 12,000 when he raced over the finish line ahead of Eddie Madden, Reggie McNamara, George Chapman, Frank Kramer, and Arthur Spencer.

Goullet finished second to Arthur Spencer, the Toronto boy, in the one-mile open. Spencer just beat Goullet, who led McNamara, Grenda, and Madden home.

Grenda won the Shanley Handicap at one mile. In this race Goullet, starting from scratch, finished fifth. Charley Osterritter of Irvington, N. J., won both amateur races, taking first place in the two-mile open as well as the half-mile handicap.

KOLEHMAINEN BACK AGAIN.

Finnish Runner May Start in Local Fifteen-Mile Title Race.

Hannes Kolehmainen, the wonderful Finnish distance runner, has returned to the Metropolitan A. A. U. district, where he gained his greatest prominence as a runner. The veteran Finn, it was learned yesterday, applied Saturday to local A. A. U. headquarters to have his registration transferred from the Middle Atlantic Association to the Metropolitan Association. Kolehmainen will probably compete in some of the distance events scheduled for the near future.

One race which is expected to attract the Finn's attention is the proposed fifteen-mile Metropolitan A. A. U. championship, which Frederick W. Rubien is arranging for May 17 at Macombs Dam Park. This race is being conducted primarily for the purpose of giving Charlie Pores and Villar Kyronen a crack at the existing record, 1:25:15, made by Jim Crowley nearly ten years ago. Kolehmainen will probably be added to the field.

Despite the fact that he has done no running since he left this district, nearly two years ago, Kolehmainen has kept himself in good condition. The former Irish-American A. C. star, who holds many distance running records, has occupied himself with working in the Hog Island shipyards at Philadelphia. He is now employed at a Staten Island shipyard, it is said.

RICE CLUB CHESS WINNER.

By defeating the Brooklyn Chess Club by the score of five games to three in the seventh and final round of the annual series of the Metropolitan Chess League, the I. L. Rice Progressive Chess Club won the championship for 1919, retaining its tile as premier club of that organization. The champions wound up the season with a record of six matches won and none lost and a total of thirty-eight games won and ten lost. Brooklyn's final record was five matches won and one lost, with a total of thirty-seven won and eleven lost.

GIANTS WILL SEEK VENGEANCE TODAY

Special to The New York Times.

GAINESVILLE, Fla., April 6.—Rather battered, but not knocked out, the Giants got back to Gainesville early this morning. The Boston Red Sox, who gave the Giants such a lusty thumping yesterday, followed the Giants into this burg on a later train.

The Giants will be out for revenge tomorrow, and the whole city of Gainesville is with them. The local fans have not quit the Giants by reason of their inferior showing in Tampa, and are all the more ready to give them a lot of encouragement in their next two games.

Though Gainesville is considerably smaller than Tampa, local citizens are confident that Gainesville will match the Tampa attendance figures, and some of the town optimists are so rash as to predict crowds of 5,000 at the games to be played here.

The Giants had to listen to some caustic conversation during and after yesterday's defeat from McGraw. Spring practice games do not amount to anything in the long run, and defeats in exhibition games are quickly forgotten, but baseball clubs that amount to anything do not take defeats kindly, and McGraw hates to lose games, whether they are exhibition games or real championship encounters. If the Giants put up many more such games as they did yesterday the little manager will boil over.

Contrasted with the Red Sox, the Giants seem far behind the Bostonians in the advance they have made in their brief training. They looked very good here pitted against the Yannigans, but when they faced a real team their lack of condition displayed itself. For instance, the Boston infield simply played ring around a rosy with McGraw's veterans, Chase, Doyle, Fletcher, and Zimmerman. However, as the Boston infield, with McNally at second base, average nearly ten years younger htan the Giants, they may get in condition much faster.

The work of Winters and Jones, the two pitching youngsters, in the Tampa games was promising. Though both of these boys are green, they are likely to get a lot of work this Summer. Winters looks like a chap who may be able to jump in and win a lot of games right off the reel, as Coombs or Jlank was wont to do. He is very smart, picks up things quickly, and is one of those tall, wiry fellows with a motion which does not wear him out.

Jones also has excellent possibilities. With a pitching staff that is not particularly strong, McGraw will apparently need both of these men at top form.

Tomorrow Causey and Benton will pitch for the Giants, while Barrow will probably send in Bullet Joe Bush and Sam Jones. Bush hasn't faced the Giants since the world's series of 1913, when he won a famous battle on the Polo Grounds from Jeff Tesreau. From now on the games should have a lot more fight and action in them.

McGraw has stirred up the Giants quite a bit and they feel sheepish. The men all are anxious to get back at the Bostonians, and say the series will be evened up by the time the clubs get out of here next Tuesday night.

TARGETS FALL FAST AT TRAVERS ISLAND

D. I. Bradley won the high scratch prize at the Travers Island traps of the New York Athletic Club yesterday with a high score of 96 out of a possible 100 targets. One of the largest fields that has taken part in a Sunday shoot this season was on the firing line. Conditions were good and there were plenty of high scores.

The high handicap cup was taken by R. S. Smith, but only after a half dozen shoot-offs. The special handicap cup went to W. Bauer, and the special scratch prize was won by R. W. Owen. In the shoot for the Ghost Trophies, the white targets were shattered by G. A. Derrick, A. P. Bennett, and Dr. Culver. R. S. Smith missed the fourth white disk.

In the shoot for the Accumulation Cup, legs were scored by each registering a full score of 25 targets. In this event a straight run was made by J. P. Donovan. Four straight strings were returned in the shoot for the Tournament Cup. They were made by A. L. Burns, H. Mcvey, Jr., D. I. Bradley, and R. M. Owen. All with full scores of 25 targets scored on the prize.

No straight scores were made in the Byronel Cup shoot. Legs, however, were scored by all Nimrods with full scores of 50 targets.

LEONARD TO BOX RITCHIE.

Return Bout to be Held in Newark Armory April 28.

Benny Leonard, world's lightweight champion, and Willie Ritchie of California, former holder of the title, will clash in an eight-round bout at the Newark Sportsmen's Club, Newark, N. J., April 28. This was announced yesterday when ararngements for the bout were completed. The contest will be a return engagement and will present Leonard with an opportunity to erase a setback he suffered in a bout against Ritchie at San Francisco, Feb. 21.

The boxers have agreed to enter the ring at 142 pounds or less. The financial conditions were not announced. Billy Gibson, manager for Leonard, declared last night the champion was boxing on a percentage basis, but refused to divulge the extent of the arrangement. From another source it was learned that Leonard has been guaranteed $10,000, with the privilege of accepting a percentage of the gross receipts. The remuneration which Ritchie will receive is an unknown quantity.

The match promises to attract greater interest than any bout in recent years. Promoters throughout the country have been negotiating for a return bout between Leonard and Ritchie since their memorable meeting at San Francisco. In this bout the former titleholder surprised the spectators with his form and carried off the popular decision after four hard rounds. Leonard rankled under the setback and has been eager since for a return engagement in order to demonstrate his superiority over Ritchie. Leonard will do his training work at Grupp's Gymnasium in Harlem, Manager Gibson stated last night.

ANTHONY LEADS WALKERS.

Panos Anthony, veteran walker of the Pastime A. C., scored a convincing victory yesterday in his club's open handicap walk, conducted over the Elks Course of about four and one-half miles in the Bronx. Anthony covered the course in 36:04, and at the finish had an advantage of about one city block on M. Edelman, a clubmate, who finished second.

The veteran pedestrian started with a handicap of 2 minutes 30 seconds. He did not overtake the limit handicap walkers until shortly before the four-mile mark was reached. In the last half mile Anthony went to the front with increased pace and annexed first place from Edelman. J. Aronson, recently returned marine, and Frank Keiser of the Morningside A. C., were the scratch starters. Aronson finished fourth in 33:27, gaining the fast time prize. Kieser was fifth.

The order of finish follows:

P. Anthony, Pastime A. C., (2:30,) 36:04; M. Edelman, Pastime A. C., (3:30,) 37:34; W. Reddy, Pastime A. C., (3:30,) 37:45; J. Aronson, Pastime A. C., (scratch,) 33:27; F. P. Kieser, Morningside A. A. harrier increased his stride and gradually advanced to a lead which amounted to more than 100 yards at the finish. Herzig's time was 28:02. E. Mueller, another Brooklyn A. A. runner, finished second in 28:24.

FETZER CAPTURES HARLEM ROAD RUN

Displaying ability that would have done credit to a more seasoned harrier, William Fetzer, an eighteen-year-old runner of the Mohawk A. C., yesterday captured premier prize in the novice road race of about four and one-half miles, conducted by the Macomb's A. C. Fetzer, taking the lead at the start, maintained his position at the head of the field throughout the chase. He crossed the finish line a victor by considerably more than 100 yards over A. Pohring of the Morningside A. C. The winner's time was 29:18.

A field of seventy novices started in the chase. This is the biggest field that has been attracted to a road run competition during the present season. A total of fiftysix runners were checked up at the finishing point, 154th Street and Eighth Avenue.

Fetzer gave a brilliant demonstration of ability. This youngster won his first road-running effort two weeks ago when he captured a Bronx Athletic League race, in which he had the limit handicap allowance. Yesterday Fetzer went off like a flash at the start and took up the pace-setting task. He was followed by a closely-bunched pack over the early stages of the race, and was called upon several times to defeat challenges by ambitious rivals.

When about three and one-half miles had been covered Fetzer was running easily in a stride slightly increased over that with which he started on his journey. As the run progressed through the last mile the Mohawk youngster increased his winning margin without being extended in the least.

Pohring showed an impressive sprint in the last half mile of the run, when he came up from seventh position to capture second prize. His time was 29:50.

The team prize was won by the representatives of the Morningside A. C. These athletes compiled the winning total of 37 points. St. Anselm's A. C. runners, with 52 tallies, were second.

The order of finish follows:

DEAR FOLKS:

THIS is a most important week in the history of Wilson & Co. Everybody in the whole organization is enthusiastic, "up on his toes" and proud.

This is the week that Wilson & Co., announce that they are producing Certified Ham and Bacon. All over the country the dealers are putting up window signs telling the news. Incidentally, I am coming to believe that the dealers who handle Wilson products are imbued with the same pride and confidence in the Wilson institution as are the 25,000 workers in the various plants and branches.

All these Wilson & Co. men and women are pleased as pleased can be this week because they have known for a long time that the company would put Certified Ham and Bacon on the market at this time. They have known of the care and skill and exactness with which these products were being perfected to deserve the Wilson Certified label. That "Certified" label is the ne plus ultra for any Wilson product. When it is placed on something it means that that particular food product is just as fine as it can be made, as pure as purity itself and as good as anything ever can be good to eat.

The name and fame of Wilson & Co. Certified products has grown up in the past two years. It started when the Company brought out its line of canned fruits, vegetables and table specialties, giving them the name "Certified" and placing upon them a guarantee that the user would find them of the highest possible quality.

In their smoked meats "Majestic" was the label of their top-notch quality. Majestic Ham and Bacon were, and are, mighty well known and liked. Mr. Wilson saw the great popularity won by the "Certified" fruits and vegetables, and he said:

"We must have Certified Ham and Bacon. Can we make them good enough to deserve the Certified label?

"We can and we will," was the prompt answer.

So there is a bit of history. It wasn't merely a question of curing and smoking ham and bacon of the most excellent quality. It was a matter of knowing at every step along the line that this ham and bacon was going to be good enough to be honored with the name of "Certified."

This means selecting the porkers themselves. They have to be porkers of excellent breeds, they have to be in the pink of condition, they have to show to the practiced eyes of the experts who select them that the quality is there. I have watched the production of Certified Ham and Bacon—watched the careful, skillful choosing of those hams and bacon sides. I have seen how precisely a ham is chosen, how exactly a bacon side is selected. There must be just such a proportion of fat and lean, the skin must be smooth, the ham or bacon must be visibly perfect. Then it is carefully trimmed and sent on through the curing and smoking departments. Nothing is hurried, for the men who have charge of this work tell me that hasty curing and smoking do not create the sweet, appetizing flavor and the hunger-satisfying taste that must characterize a fine piece of ham or bacon.

All the way through I noticed that these meats—as, indeed, are all other Wilson products—were handled and prepared with RESPECT. "Respect" is a fixed principle in the Wilson plant, and when you come to think of it, it is a pretty good idea to be respectful to foods. They deserve respect, if they are destined for your table, and the Wilson folks know this and show respect toward them.

I have told you in my previous letters how the spirit of good will and loyalty pervades the whole Wilson organization. I have tried to suggest that this spirit of pride and of fellowship is a guarantee that the products of Wilson & Co. will be all the better for it. Every worker in the Wilson plants feels this way about it, and that is why this week every one of them is so hugely glad and proud that Certified Ham and Bacon are being announced. Each of them feels—and knows—that here is another proof of what the heart and spirit of the Wilson organization means, and that once again their good faith and good will and good work will receive proper recognition and approval—and that from you and your family as well as from the responsible heads of the Wilson institution.

It is just because of this pride and loyalty and integrity of purpose that Wilson & Co. are able to offer to you Certified Ham and Bacon and to back them up with the highest guarantee in the world, namely: their own honor and that of their associate workers.

"Certified" is more than a name. It is a Standard. And it is a standard that must be maintained. A special committee of eight men carries the responsibility of determining that a product meets the Certified standard. And this standard includes everything in connection with the product—selection, preparation, wrapping, packing—even the style of the package and the labels.

This is the sort of care and thoughtfulness and honest desire to produce the best in the best way that has made the slogan "The Wilson Label Protects Your Table" a statement of fact rather than a happy advertising phrase.

Sincerely, William C. Freeman,
250 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

Singers Also Hold Feast Enlivened by Merry Opera Choruses and Gilbertian Gibes.

In an address last night before the Society of Art and Sciences, at a dinner to Mrs. Fiske at the Hotel Biltmore, Major Gen. John F. O'Ryan suggested that the purposed memorial in honor of America's soldiers in the great war should take the form of a municipal playhouse. The General, after telling of the part played by entertainment for our men in the war, said that American fighters abroad had been particularly struck by the number of municipal playhouses in the small villages in France.

"I believe that the soldiers themselves," he said, "would prefer, as a memorial, something living, possessing a soul, rather than something stony and dead. They would prefer something that would play a part in the life of the city, and this the municipal playhouse would do."

General O'Ryan, in support of his suggestion said that the slapstick form of entertainment had appealed to the fighters less than had the real drama.

About 700 persons were in attendance at the dinner, and many well-known men and women of the theatre paid tribute to Mrs. Fiske. Otis Skinner presided, and he, with Henry Miller and Julia Arthur, declared that Mrs. Fiske "stands for the best in the American theatre."

"I have never seen Mrs. Fiske," said Norman Hapgood, "that I did not feel that I had had a contribution to my mental life that I should otherwise have missed. Her most marked quality is her penetration, her sense of getting further into a character, further into life, than do others. Related to this are the quality of her technique, her artistic certainty, and the sincerity of her enjoyment. Hers is the kind of art that has made the United States a more interesting and a more lovable place to be in."

John Drew gave it as his opinion that in her current play, "Mis' Nelly of N'Orleans," Mrs. Fiske "gives the finest performance of comedy that has been seen here in twenty-five years—in fact, since Ada Rehan was at her best."

Addresses were also made by William Gillette, John Luther Long, and Patrick Francis Murphy.

Mrs. Fiske, in her reply, spoke of her association with the various workers of the stage, and paid tribute to American actors, authors, and managers.

"It is in the works of our American writers," she declared, "that I have found the worthiest and most acceptable material—not only the expert writers, who have won their spurs, but the young and gifted men who are just adventuring on the seas of dramatic authorship.

"I must not forget, also, the harmless, necessary manager, who is the subject of so much adverse criticism from certain writers. We hear much about the commercial manager, whose chief ambition, we are told, is to drag the drama in the mire, and who is never so happy as when he stands upon a pinnacle of blatant vulgarity and laughs defiance at dramatic literature and artistic endeavor.

"My lot may have been exceptional, but I have never encountered what is known as the commercial manager. I have found business men who conducted their business on business principles and who have wisely and modestly left the details of artistic work to others. I have not found managers inimical to the finer aspirations of the drama; I have found them sympathetic with its higher possibilities.

Tells of Frohman and Belasco.

"Romance has its place in this gathering tonight," Mrs. Fiske continued, "for here is young David Belasco, whom I recall as one of my most devoted and enterprising admirers in the long ago. The romantic Mr. Belasco had a rival in the person of one who is not with us, but who was universally known and affectionately esteemed, Charles Frohman. He was an equally devoted cavalier. One evening when I was to appear in a new play each of these young men separately conceived the idea of bringing a bouquet of flowers. There was mutual dismay when the two met at the stage door, each with his telltale floral offering in hand. Irritation grew into a quarrel, the quarrel into a physical struggle, and while no visible injury resulted I felt like one of the old-fashioned heroines of the romantic plays in providing the innocent cause of a fierce encounter between these rival swains."

Otis Skinner was toastmaster of the dinner, and spoke of Mrs. Fiske's services to the American stage and of his professional association with her. A program picture of Mrs. Fiske was designed for the event by Arthur Hamilton Revelle.

Gilbertian Rhymes for Hinshaw.

William Wade Hinshaw, President and General Manager of the Society of American Singers, and his wife, Mabel Clyde Hinshaw, who, together, were chiefly responsible for the society's long and successful season at the Park Theatre, were guests at a dinner given at Browne's Chophouse last night by the artists and business staff. William Small, assistant treasurer, was in charge of the "surprise party," aided by John McGhie, musical director, who was toastmaster and presented a first edition of Gilbert and Sullivan's operas to Mr. and Mrs. Hinshaw "with the affectionate regards of the company."

This presentation "speech" was a rhymed paraphrase by Frank Warren of the patter song of the Heavy Dragoon in "Patience," with the substitution in its lines of all the names of the company and the titles of the seventeen operas produced by Mr. Hinshaw this season. There were other adaptations from "Iolanthe" and "The Mikado," read by the toastmaster, and Gilbert and Sullivan songs "revised by the company with apologies to Mr. Hinshaw," and sung by all present from printed text.

Those at the dinner included Jefferson de Angelis, Anne Bussert, Harold Blake, Craig Campbell, Gladys Caldwell, Kate Condon, Will Danforth, Blanche Duffield, Orville Harrold, Ruth Miller, Winifred Marshall, John Phillips, Bertram Peacock, John Quine, Gertrude Shannon, Cora Tracy, Herbert Waterous, and others, representing the artists.

Lawrence Anhalt, manager of the Park Theatre, was also among the hosts, with Al. Alligretti, the treasurer; A. Bassi, Jacques Coini, Harry Gilbert, Charles Jones, John McGhie, William Small, E. F. Wagner, and Mrs. Mary Worswick, all members of the business and directing staff of the company during its twenty-nine weeks of opera comique, to end next Saturday night.

Limited Advertising Space

The New York Times is limited to twenty-four pages on weekdays. The volume of advertising now being offered is so great that it is frequently impossible to accommodate all advertisements ordered for certain days.

Today 12 columns are omitted and 121 columns published.

It is suggested that orders for the insertion of advertisements give The Times option on the date of publication. There is reasonable assurance that all advertising accepted will be published on Saturday or Sunday, but it is difficult to give any assurance of publication on other days of the week.

STARS IN VERDI REQUIEM.

Gounod's "Gallia" for Good Friday—Milo Picco Sings Tonight.

Since Grau was consul in musical Manhattan early in this century, there have been few performances of Verdi's "Manzoni Requiem" to excel that by Metropolitan stars and chorus at the opera concert last night, conducted by Giulio Setti before a packed house. A quartet of voices of the best in Mr. Gatti's roster included Rose Ponselle, Margaret Matzenauer, Charles Hackett, and José Mardones.

Gounod's "Gallia," with Marie Sundelius, and Rossini's "Stabat Mater," with the same stars who sang last night, are announced for a special Metropolitan concert on the afternoon of Good Friday, April 18, when the bill will also include Mr. Setti's recent choral production of the "Missa Brevis" of Palestrina.

Thomas Chalmers, the American baritone, is too hoarse to sing tonight in "L'Amore dei tre Re," and his place as Manfredo will be taken by an Italian artist, formerly with the Boston Company, Milo Picco.

HOOVER'S CALL ON AUSTRIA.

Wants All Rolling Stock Turned Over to Allied Railroad Mission.

COPENHAGEN, April 6.—A dispatch received here from Vienna says Herbert Hoover, Director General of the Interallied Relief Organization, has written the German Austrian Foreign Minister, demanding that all the rolling stock of the States into which Austria is now divided shall be placed at the disposal of the allied railroad mission.

The demand is made in order to facilitate food transport, which Mr. Hoover demands shall have precedence over everything except military transport.

5,000 See Camp Merritt Minstrels.

A minstrel show was staged yesterday afternoon at the Manhattan Opera House for enlisted men, and repeated for officers at the Pershing Club, Madison Avenue and Forty-fourth Street, last night by members of Headquarters Company at Camp Merritt. Lieutenant Clarence Beutel was Manager, Test Dalton directed the production, and Kenneth Westerman was the music director. The cast included Messrs. Gillette, Lawson, Cole, Seymour, and Timmerman. More than 5,000, all told, witnessed the afternoon and evening performances.

THE SCREEN

"Peppy Polly," at the Rialto this week, is not exactly original in its plot, but its leading character is Dorothy Gish, the original and only, and the treatment of the story is original in its excellence. Looking at it another way, the plot of "Peppy Polly" is not exactly possible, but Miss Gish and the others in the cast, aided by Elmer Clifton, director, make it seem possible and highly entertaining, while it lasts. The characters are realistically portrayed, with just enough of exaggeration to give them emphasis, and Mr. Clifton in directing combined veracity and subtlety.

The reformatory in which much of the action occurs looks like a reformatory. The people in it look and act as one surmises the inmates of such a place do look and act. And there are many scenes, bits of action, and touches here and there which are of the essence of a real photoplay. They do not need explanatory text and most of them are not spoiled by its superfluous interposition. For instance, the deafness of an iceman plays an important part in the story, yet the spectators are never informed in words that he is deaf, and when he does not hear at a critical moment there is no laborious explanation that he cannot hear. It is all made clear in pictures—and a great deal more effectively than any words could make it.

In the character of Polly, Miss Gish has one of her best parts. She does not fall into the clownishness that has marred some of her performances and she has opportunities for serious as well as comic pantomime which do not escape her. She is usually amusing and diverting, sometimes sad and appealing, always intelligible and convincing. Richard Barthelmess and Kate V. Toncray are especially good in her support.

The photoplay is about the experiences of Polly as a self-appointed investigating committee in a reformatory. She sees a quasi-official committee go through the motions of investigating without learning anything, and, suspecting something wrong, gets herself arrested and sentenced to the reformatory so that she can see what it's really like. She finds out. It's terrible, so terrible that it almost does away with her; but she escapes to tell the Governor all about it and to marry the young doctor who was the only nice person she found in the horrible place.

John Barrymore has turned from screen farce to near-tragedy in "The Test of Honor" at the Strand, and the least that may be said is that he has proved himself as much a master in his serious work as in his comic. The photoplay is based on E. Phillipps Oppenheim's "The Malefactor," and in the character of the man who serves a term in prison and then seeks bitter revenge against the man and woman responsible for his unjust conviction for manslaughter Barrymore is compelling. He is well assisted by Marcia Manon and Robert Schable as the villains, and Constance Binney is attractive as the rather incongruously present "sweet young thing" of the story.

A surprise party for those who go to the Strand is "A S'prise Party 'n Ever'thing," the first of the promised "Briggs's Comedies," based upon the boyhood experiences of the cartoonist. It is not an animated cartoon, but a delightful bit of juvenile life presented by a competent company of youthful and adult actors. The settings are exact to the last detail.

"Skinnay" is the hero, but his friends are much in the pictures, and they are all real boys and girls doing the things that grown-ups of today did when they were children. The spectators at the Strand yesterday afternoon testified to their keen enjoyment of the comedy by laughing continually in a pleased way that is really smiling out loud—and the comedy was obviously designed to win such smiles rather than the loud haw-haw that accompanies horseplay and slapstick.

"A Wasmanipae Week-End," an Outing-Chester scenic, shows thrilling pictures of the Bell River rapids and views of the James Bay Indians in the routine of their daily life. It is so interesting that one forgets that it is classified as "educational."

William Russell makes his début on the Rivoli screen in "Brass Buttons," a rampant farce in which Mr. Russell plays the part of a policeman pro tem., who puts on a uniform in order to court a supposed maid, but finds that he has to clean up a wild and woolly town in the West before he can marry the girl. He cleans up the town, all right, and keeps things moving generally, both East and West, until the wedding and after. Eileen Percy is the girl, and Helen Howard is another. Both are pleasing to look upon. Frank Brownlee and Bull Montana supply momentum to the plot.

The Rivoli overture is Grieg's first "Peer Gynt" suite adorned by three of John Wenger's settings and with "Anitra's Dance" staged by Adolf Bolm.

"The Blinding Trail," with Monroe Salisbury, and a revival of "His Prehistoric Past," with Charlie Chaplin, are the principal film offerings at the Broadway this week.

"Beyond the Law," written and produced by Emmett Dalton, former outlaw, began an engagement of four days at Fox's Academy of Music in Fourteenth Street last night. Dalton plays the leading part in the picture and gives a lecture to accompany it.

"Virtuous Men," with E. K. Lincoln and Clara Joel in the leading rôles, was shown last night to an invited audience at the Fulton Theatre. The picture was directed by Ralph Ince for the S-L Pictures.

HEIFETZ PLAYS BRAHMS.

Rafael Diaz Heard in Songs—Other Concerts of Day.

For a season's farewell, Jascha Heifetz had only standing room for himself and his accompanist's grand piano yesterday on the crowded stage of Carnegie Hall, where the Russian violinist marked another milestone in his career by playing from printed notes the D minor sonata of Brahms. It was noble music, a moving "adagio," and more lightly touched in the "presto con sentimento" under the young player's fleet fingers. Dazzling as dripping icicles in the Spring sun was another "presto" in a suite by Sinding. There was less musical value to this and to its encore, a bald paraphrase of the beautiful "andante cantabile" from Tschaikovsky's string quartette.

Rafael Diaz, the young Texas tenor of the Metropolitan, often heard as the hidden voice of the wizard in "Coq d'Or," gave a successful first recital yesterday afternoon in Aeolian Hall. He sang old airs in Italian and English, two Spanish pieces by Alvarez, and modern French and American songs.

Father Finn and the Paulist Choristers appeared last night in a program of Latin and Russian church music, as well as popular melodies before a large audience at the Hippodrome. Masters Probst, Dolan, and McManus had solos among the sixty boys, and the concert ended with "Deep River" by the chorus, and a final "Jerusalem" from Gounod's "Gallia."

Lieutenant W. Earl Glessner's Military Band, including men fresh from service overseas, appeared last night at the Manhattan at start of an American tour. The Clef Club divided its numbers for two concerts at the Selwyn and the Brooklyn Academy.

Hyman Rovinsky, pianist, had a first recital at the Greenwich Village Theatre yesterday afternoon. Michio Itow, the dancer, took his leave there last evening before returning to Japan. Frances Sonin, soprano, gave a matinée of songs for children at the Princess.

Sousa to Aid Hippodrome Day.

John Philip Sousa yesterday notified Charles Dillingham that he will be on hand to take part in the Hippodrome jubilee, scheduled for next Sunday at the big playhouse. The Hippodrome Street parade, which was to have taken place next Saturday as a part of the fourteenth anniversary celebration, has been called off.

Grace George Planning Repertory.

Grace George, it is announced, will be seen in New York again next season at the head of a repertory company. Miss George has recently produced "She Would and She Did," by Mark Reed, on the road, and this play and "The Ruined Lady," by Frances Nordstrom, will be among her productions here next season. Miss George will go abroad next month to obtain additional plays.

PROMISE AND PERFORMANCE.

Director General McAdoo was well pleased with the arrangement under which he took over the railways for Government operation. He informed the Senate committee that the standard return was $100,000,000 less than the railways had earned under private management. That advantage, together with economies to be realized from unified operation, led him to hope for a surplus above the guarantee. If that was not a fair start, then he was frank to say that he did not know what would be fair. Leading critics of the railways went so far as to put similar expectations into figures. The savings over private operation were to be from $400,000,000 to $1,000,000,000. The increase of expenses in 1918 was just about the larger estimate of savings, but that was about equal to the increase of rates, and so cancels out of the comparison. What could be fairer than that shippers should pay the Government's increase of wages? That would leave the taxpayers to cover only the deficit below the guaranteed standard return, above which Mr. McAdoo thought $100,000,000 surplus left him margin enough for confidence.

February last year was about the worst month known for railway earnings, on account of the worst Winter weather for a generation. February this year was about the best known for weather conditions, but the net operating income was worse than last year by $2,225,000. The trouble no longer is such congestion of excess business that it cannot be moved. There is no congestion because the traffic is itself declining. Gross earnings are still improving, because the increase of rates is now effective, and the roads collected $350,844,000 more money. But expenses are increasing faster than the increase of rates. February is a shorter month than January, but the fewer days did not prevent the roads from equaling January's $37,000,000 deficit below the guaranteed return of the three-year average. The average monthly deficit for 1919 is double that for 1918, and is about equal to one-half of the guarantee. Thus far in 1919 the roads have earned $28,000,000 toward a guarantee of $150,000,000 on an average, or $102,000,000 if the earnings be allocated according to the seasonal variation of earnings.

This dismal record is made under conditions favorable for realizing the glowing promises referred to above. For years the railway critics have declared that the railways should look for their profits to the increase of their business in proportion to their "overhead" expenses. The increase of profit on the unit of work was to be a sufficient reward for refusal of higher rates, and for patience in enduring the costs put upon the roads in punishment for their misconduct. During 1918 the roads enjoyed an increase of one-fifth in tonnage and one-quarter in passenger business, and they fell $202,000,000 below earning their guarantee. That record may be equaled, but it is unlikely to be surpassed soon. If the railways are to earn their guarantee, either there must be another increase of rates or there must be increase of efficiency among the workers. The prospect that the States will come to the relief of the roads and Government operation is slight, and yet it is worth notice that Indiana has repealed its 2-cent-fare law. The repeal of a few score such statutes designed to make expense and trouble for the railways when they were thought to be making too much money for private owners would put another face on the matter. But a policy of constant wage increases would offset that. The confidence entertained last year that Government operation would supply the resources for the benevolence impossible in private operation has been weakened since, and the taxpayers, whose burdens have risen with the railway wages disbursed on their account, would view with alarm the opening of another cycle of wage increases just as the cost of living seems turning downward.

The signs of a ripening of public opinion are beginning to appear. The Philadelphia Board of Trade has adopted a platform demanding the return of the roads to private management, and the reorganization of the Interstate Commerce Commission with a view to protection of railway investors as well as shippers. Similar action has been taken by the New York State Grange, which unanimously adopted a disparaging comparison between public and private operation. The Grange is opposed to Government operation on the ground that it is as demoralizing politically as economically, and urges its representatives in Congress to bring the experiment to an end immediately, now that the occasion for it has ended.

THE PHILIPPINES.

"Almost in sight." That is what President Wilson says of the prospect of Philippine independence. Secretary Baker goes a great deal further. It may be, of course, that he represents the President's opinions, but there is no indication of any such thing in what the President has to say. As far as anything in the President's letter to Secretary Baker goes the most we can say of it is that it is an aspiration for Philippine independence when the time comes. It is a promise in accord with our purpose.

"Almost in sight" may mean yet distant. Mr. Baker seems determined to make it something immediate. "I trust the day is very close at hand," says he. That is a long way from "almost in sight."

What was it Mr. Dooley said? "Kape th' Philippines? Of course "we'll kape th' Philippines—may th' "divil fly away with them." That represents whimsically the feeling of the American people toward those islands. It is a long time since we were afraid of Japan taking them over. We know better now. Even if she did have such ambitions, we Americans feel quite sure that the League of Nations would prevent her from realizing them in any such hostile sense.

So then the question comes down to what the United States would like to do with these islands, and on that point the American mind is pretty fully made up. The American people do not wish to keep the Philippines in subjection. At the same time they do not wish to turn the Filipinos loose incapable of defending themselves, protecting themselves, or establishing a government of their own. There will never be a time when the American people will feel in the slightest degree disposed to let those people go free from their tutelage until the hour has struck when that tutelage is obviously no longer necessary. That is why Secretary Baker's paean of enthusiasm seems so different from the President's sober words. It is just possible that in his joy over a few friendly words by the President to the Filipino delegates Mr. Baker may have gone too far. One thing that neither he nor any other public man should ever forget is that when the United States withdraws from the Philippine Islands it will be done because of regard for the interests of their people. We are trustees for them, and must fulfill our trust. The Filipinos are learning the lesson of self-government, and the United States is not only willing but anxious to let go of them the minute they do prove that they are capable of caring for themselves. We think there is not an American who will not hope with the President that the end is "almost in sight."

THE SEVENTY-SEVENTH.

Nobody but the soldiers of the 77th Division, pre-eminently, miscellaneously, universally, and thoroughly New York's own family; nobody but everybody in this city wants the 77th Division to parade. We want to see them, cheer them, honor them. Secretary Baker, the Adjutant General, and other officials too busy, too isolated by their routine from the heart of New York, will find out, have found out, what New York, what the 77th men want. General March has discovered that some soldiers in some camps ready for demobilization loathe parades and yearn for instantaneous demobilization. Very well. Let them have their way; but their way is not the 77th's way. The men of the 77th want to see their friends. Their friends are bound to see them, to make much of them, to give them such a loud, hearty, and unforgettable greeting that they will never say or think that New York doesn't know its own children.

There was a well-meant but mighty erroneous judgment at Washington about this parade. An eager and unanimous public patriotic sentiment is the last thing that the War Department, up to its neck in work, would oppose or neglect.

IN THE LAND OF GOSHEN.

What interpretations of prohibition, unwelcome to its sincere and uncompromising champions, may be expected of juries, its final judges for its authority or impotence, may be conjectured from a recent verdict of the County Court jury at Goshen, in Orange County, a capital of butter and a region of hard-headed, sensible men. Mr. Sylvanus J. Ogden, sometime a barkeeper in Goshen, vended a certain cider in Dry Middletown. The law that forbids intoxicating drinks in communities which, like Middletown, have voted to prohibit them, neglects to prescribe the amount of alcoholic content or volume that brands a drink as intoxicating and banned. The sample taken from the Ogden reservoirs and submitted to that Orange County jury contained 5.39 per cent. of alcohol. The jury held that cider with that percentage of alcohol is not "hard," unpermitted, nor intoxicating. This opinion was reached by eleven jurymen on the first ballot, then by all the twelve.

The scientific precision, justification, or value of that opinion need not concern us. The meat and marrow of the verdict is its probable agreement with the public sentiment which that jury represents and indicates. Nearly twice the alcoholic content of contemporary beer is held by twelve good men and true as mild, harmless, and to be approved in cider, a blameless refreshment of the countryside.

What Goshen and Orange County have done for cider, obviously not bare of a genius for exhilaration, similar bodies may be expected to do for other drinks. The sure barrier against laws forced upon the statute book without consideration of public opinion is public opinion, asserting itself in legal forms, representing customary thought, which the innovators have not dared or cared to consult. The voice of juries is the protection of the State against new-fangled arbitrary restrictions, the work of skilled coteries of propaganda that tell the voters without hearing from them what habits they should have. Probably our Dry friends will have to hear from a good many Goshens.

HEROES OF BOLSHEVISM.

A somewhat unusual example is being set for revolutionists of the future by some of our local Bolsheviki. Indictments against John Reed and Abraham Shiplacoff, charged with violation of the espionage law in speeches at a meeting of Russians here, have been quashed. "Both Reed and Shiplacoff," says an account of the legal action, "denied any "intention of reflecting on our army "or navy." The prosecution has similarly dropped other similar cases. The District Attorney's office explained that these men had published in a magazine "articles of a pacifist "and defeatist tendency, likely to interfere with the activity of those "who read them in war preparations"; but "both of the defendants had afterward recanted."

This is a break with revolutionary precedent of the past. When John Brown was arraigned on the charge of inciting a slave insurrection he did not explain that he was merely taking a few colored folk on a Sunday school picnic. Nathan Hale did not tell the British court-martial that his wanderings over Manhattan Island were those of a botanical student. Martin Luther did not "recant and promise support to the Government" when brought before the Diet at Worms. Among the men and women who overthrew the Czar, and whom the Russian friends of Mr. Reed and Mr. Shiplacoff are now persecuting so industriously, recantations were not numerous; Maria Spiridonova did not explain that she did not really mean to hurt anybody. Even Bolsheviki are different in other countries; when the Kaiser's Government sent Karl Liebknecht to jail Liebknecht did not deny any intention of reflecting on the Kaiser's army and navy.

But the new revolution begets new revolutionists. Our local Bolsheviki hope for the triumph of the embattled proletariat, but they also hope to be here to see it and to share in the profits. No martyrdom for them.

THE PORT IMPROVEMENTS.

There seems to be a fair prospect that the tunnel under the English Channel will be built before the Hudson tunnel and the realization of the interstate treaty proposal. Our local administration seems to be without ambition to do anything constructive on its own account, its attention being fully occupied with faultfinding about what others have done. There was a splendid opportunity for Tammany to show its public spirit. There was an opportunity for it to begin work for the betterment of the port on which it might claim retention in power, or bequeath to successors the good fortune it inherited in the subways, of reaping where it had not sowed. But old habits were too strong, and Tammany has rather confirmed public appreciation of its weaknesses than profited by its new opportunity.

The interstate treaty would cost nothing but decision; there is warm general approval of what has been done in that direction, with open-mindedness toward any amendment found necessary now or hereafter. Nothing is suggested but delay, the best sign of lack of any thought or vision on the subject. When did Tammany ever plant seed in hope of picking fruit in years to come? It would be a fine and deserved rebuke if the treaty proposal should be adopted over Tammany's opposition. It would be a good start for the campaign against Tammany, and is not impossible. It would be necessary for the Legislature to act, and even that would be worth while. It would be doubly worth while if the law should receive the Governor's signature, and even that is not hopeless. At least the subject might expect from the Legislature more intelligent treatment than from the Board of Estimate.

ART AND THE SOVIET.

Mr. Lenine's Government is making overtures to the bourgeoisie, the plain people. In Orel, says a correspondent of The Evening Post, a Soviet which extends its supervisory eye to the theatre has imprisoned, fined, and subjected to three days' starvation the actors of a visiting road company for "charging citizens more for seats than the show was worth artistically." As alluring as the promise of free land to the muzhik, the promise of high wages and no work to the proletarian industrial worker, is this earnest of Bolshevist benefit to the tired business man. In another place actors were warned that "unfit dress or unseemly speech" would be punished by three days in jail.

Of course, a ruling like this last must depend for its value on the standards of artistic freedom resident in the souls of those who regulate the theatres. With such a decree behind him the late Anthony Comstock would have made short work of any play in town, for there are those to whom almost anything is unseemly. The soldiers who seem to have been appointed as theatrical supervisors in several Russian cities are more liberal, but they object to Shakespeare on the ground that his plays are "entirely bourgeois."

Here may be an explanation of the widespread Bolshevism of Greenwich Village. In the attics about Sheridan Square—two rooms, kitchenette, and bath, $125 a month—everybody writes plays. Some people write plays which are produced by the persons invidiously known as "commercial managers"; others, less fortunate or less general in their sympathies, produce their own plays, nor are these always by any means the worst. But there is a residue whose plays differ so widely from those of Shakespeare and other successful commercial playwrights that they have little hope of ever seeing the footlights. There is a better chance in Soviet government, with Shakespeare and other professionals ruled out, and dramatic critics compelled to praise plays of sufficiently proletarian character and constrained to damn forever those which even unintentionally present the bourgeoisie in a favorable light.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Choice Between Bandits. While the eloquent and persuasive spokesman in this city of General Blanquet is telling so much about that veteran warrior's plans and hopes, it would be interesting if there were added an explanation why, in this latest attempt to make Mexico peaceful, prosperous, and a good neighbor, the help of Zapata has been accepted and that of Villa scorned.

This discrimination between bandits is a most mysterious one, for, according to all the information now available in this country by others than Mexicans, while Villa has been guilty of about every crime there is, Zapata has committed in addition the few that Villa missed, and has attained to the perfection in evil-doing which the most patient and laborious biographer of Philip II. rather regretfully regretted he could not ascribe to that unamiable monarch.

But Villa, murderer and robber as he is, has shown on more occasions than one a considerable amount of intelligence, something of judgment as to what could and what could not be done by such forces as his, and an inclination toward fair dealing when convinced that it was for his own advantage. He is a picturesque ruffian, too, combining courage with caution as circumstances dictate, and a grim sense of humor has preserved him from taking himself too seriously either as a General or as a Presidential candidate.

It is not impossible, therefore, that, once rightly directed, the really remarkable energies and abilities of Villa could be made useful in a country like Mexico. Of Zapata nothing of this kind can be said. He is simply a savage beast of prey, who happens to walk on two legs instead of four, and there is no possible employment for him by a leader sincerely aspiring to benefit Mexico and the Mexicans. Probably there is between the followers of these two men something of the difference that separates themselves. At least the training of their bands, bad as has been that of both, has not been quite the same.

Yet the Zapatistas are among the groups on which General Blanquet counts for success in deposing President Carranza, while there is indignant denial that he will have anything to do with the Villistas. It is very strange!

A Proposal at Least Interesting. That there would be advantage for the Government, and therefore for all the people living under it, in adding to the Cabinet a "Publicity General," with a fully organized "department" of his own, is the assertion of a writer in Printer's Ink, a periodical not altogether indifferent to advertising as a business and an art. Most people would declare, when this proposal first was brought to their attention—and not a few after giving it second or even third thought—that the Government already gets, free, all the advertising it needs, as well as some it doesn't want, and that the efforts already made by it in the direction of creating and guiding "publicity" have not inspired the sovereign electorate either with warm admiration or an eager desire for more of the same.

It is a fact, however, just as the article in Printer's Ink says, that the American public is not getting anything like as much profit and assistance from what many governmental agencies are doing as that public would if these activities and their possibilities in the way of service were better known. And better known does mean better advertised—advertised, that is, in a systematic way and by experts with adequate funds at their demand.

The census reports, for example, constitute a mine of valuable information that remains far from fully utilized, and there are innumerable other "public documents," running all the way from those issued by the Coast and Geodetic Survey to pamphlets telling how to raise onions and to make hens lay, for which a fierce demand might be created if they were pushed to notice in the right quarters by a really able advertising agent. As it is, much of this "literature" finds its way to the junkman—which is a pity, for its production costs a lot of money and potential consumers suffer appreciable loss, simply because they are unaware of what they pay for and don't get for lack of asking for it.

He Might Attempt Too Much. To the suggestion that the Government should advertise its wares in the ordinary way, and after making satisfactory arrangements with the business office, no newspaper reasonably can be expected to show a vehement antagonism. Indeed, most newspapers probably could be convinced without much difficulty that the plan has elements of grandeur and is worth trying. Still, in journalistic minds of the truly virtuous sort doubts will arise as to the advisability of setting up a Publicity General of Cabinet rank, for experience with officials of approximating titles and duties has not been altogether happy or encouraging.

They have always shown, hitherto, an alarming tendency toward propagandism, and, while generous enough with information, a strong inclination to pick and choose among the stock they had on hand with a view to eliciting praise for the Administration and silencing adverse criticism of it. Now, the more a Government needs that sort of advertising the less it ought to have, and the probabilities seem to be that for a while longer the United States will be able to get along, after a fashion, with no other advertising than the innumerable pieces the papers are giving it from day to day for nothing.

Not all of this gratuitous publicity is eulogistic, and some of it is not as accurate as an authorized member of the Cabinet might make it if he chose. Still, it does fairly well, on the whole, and, as "straight reading matter," often on the front page, it excites the bitter envy of all business men—except, perhaps, Mr. Ford. In some mysterious manner Mr. Ford has succeeded in getting himself treated with like and almost equal generosity.

CHICAGO'S WET VOTE.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In an editorial article appearing in your paper of the 3d, entitled "The Chicago Election," you state that "Prohibition was beaten by 247,228 votes." Your figures, according to the returns that I have seen, are correct, so far as those voting on the issue is concerned, but the inference that you draw from them, that the result was "a revulsion against prohibition, as prohibition seems to draw near," is misleading, unless you take into consideration the total vote cast at the polls, in which case, from the national viewpoint as a protest against prohibition, the Chicago election is insignificant.

First, Chicago, with its 3,000,000 population, about 75 to 80 per cent. of which is either foreign born or the children of foreign-born parents, one generation removed, has long been recognized as the wettest spot in the United States, unless it be Northern New Jersey and New York.

The Drys made absolutely no campaign, neither spending a dollar nor asking for a vote, on the ground that to do so would be to dishonor the act of Congress and the Constitution. The Wets, burning with resentment over the death notice that had been handed them, and backed by unlimited money, in flaming posters and advertisements and in frantic speeches, secured every vote possible for their cause.

Out of the total of 688,361 votes cast for Mayor, 391,260 cast their "vote of protest" against national prohibition, while 297,101 either cast their vote for prohibition or refused to protest against it.

If the Wets, in a city of 3,000,000 population, one of the wettest spots in the world, and said by its Mayor to be the sixth German city in the world, can only get a majority of ninety-odd thousand to protest against the Eighteenth Amendment, they are hopelessly and eternally lost in a nation of 110,000,000, where prohibition has been adopted by a legislative vote in the various Commonwealths of more than four to one.

An intelligent analysis of the Chicago election, therefore, from the standpoint of an overwhelming protest of the nation against the Eighteenth Amendment, becomes not only a dismal failure, but one of the greatest encouragements to prohibition that has happened since the ratification of the amendment.

JAMES K. SHIELDS,
State Superintendent Anti-Saloon League of New Jersey.
Newark, April 4, 1919.

A Parade of the 77th Division.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Occasionally the War Department has an unhappy faculty of stepping forward with the wrong foot first, of which its presently announced decision that there will be no official parade of the 77th Division is an unfortunate illustration. I am firmly convinced, however, that there will be an official parade of the 77th. Washington cannot be unmindful of the effect that continued refusal on this subject would have upon the attitude of 5,000,000 New Yorkers, who are as one in wishing to accord their own flesh and blood the hearty welcome that has been pent up to the bursting point during the last five months.

Why, then, have the Washington officials apparently been guilty of acting first without the careful consideration beforehand of a question which, had it been given mature consideration in the very first instance, must necessarily have resulted in the announcement of an official welcoming? Surely it is to be hoped that War Department rulings are not the result of immature thought, but for the good of all concerned. Have the officials responsible for the announcement that no parade would be held realized the dangerous possibilities of displeasing and antagonizing at one stroke 5,000,000 New Yorkers and 31,000 members of the homecoming division? J. A. C.

ARCHANGEL.

In a pause of the North Wind's sighing
  The echoes of cheering come;
And on freezing nights we can see the lights
  That are welcoming heroes home;
We do not grudge them their glory—
  They have earned it, every one,
But send a thought to the soldiers
  Whose task is not yet done.

The Great Ships furrow the ocean
  With an ever-widening track,
And each soldier-boy knows a thought of joy—
  "Thank God, we are going back!"
Banners and arches await them;
  Never a throat is dumb;
But—hang one flag with the others
  For those who are not yet home!

FLORENCE VAN CLEVE.

TASK OF DEMOCRACY IN GERMANY AND RUSSIA.

Misunderstandings of Liberal Opinion Here and in England on the Bolsheviki and the New German Government.

By DR. FRANK BOHN.

FIFTH ARTICLE.

The intelligent democracy of Germany, Russia, Hungary, and Rumania has not ceased to exist. But it is submerged and temporarily impotent. Its exiled heroes, banded together and living in hope, throng the neutral countries. The Russian democracy is ably represented in Paris. It is for this party, which represents the true aspirations and interests of the great masses of the unhappy and broken peoples at home, that I wish to say a word to Americans. Never before has our democratic liberalism been so deaf to the cry for help. This party in Russia and Germany is like a skillful pilot who has been thrown overboard by pirates who persist in working their will upon the ship.

From the Latin nations we can, of course, expect little by way of sympathy and help. Themselves so deeply wounded and struggling to get upon their feet, they must receive help of all sorts rather than give it. It is to Great Britain and America that the democracy of Central and Eastern Europe must turn for advice, for material aid, and for all hope in this time of their travail. And in Britain and America liberal and radical opinion is in a sad state of perplexity and loss of direction as regards conditions in Europe. In both Anglo-Saxon countries there has developed enormous enthusiasm for progressive idealism, both political and industrial. In Great Britain, the new labor liberalism is represented by the very important Manchester Guardian, The Nation, and by other daily and weekly publications of great influence, and in America The New Republic, and, more recently, the renovated Nation. These well-edited publications show a trend of our times. Somehow, as regards revolutionary Europe, they have taken the wrong tack. To older Socialists and social-liberals, those of us who were profoundly interested in the labor movement of Europe long before the war, it is sometimes a painful experience to read some of these periodicals of England and America.

As every one of the publications mentioned above played with defeatism during the war, so they are now opening their columns to Bolshevism. The point I wish to emphasize is that perhaps the most influential and active sections of British and American opinion, to which we might make an appeal on behalf of the Russian and German democracy, are being made almost unfit to take part in an intelligent discussion of the whole problem. Ever since the fake "Socialist" Government of Germany has been established we have been urged to believe that Germany is a true democracy, just as we are urged to "be fair" to Trotzky and Lenine. There is only one right way for Germany and Russia to develop properly. There are a thousand ways for them to go wrong. The policy which is willing to accept any old way at all and say it is good will never hit upon the right way.

The stupendous error which, with our pacifists and social-liberals as mouthpieces, is now misleading opinion in Britain and America, including President Wilson and his fellow-conferees, is due simply to their false theorizing. They vainly conceive that Germany can jump from a feudal military autocracy into democratic socialism within twenty-four hours. They seem to believe that Russia can leap over fifteen hundred years of evolution, from primitive agricultural communism into a totally utopian and impossible communistic industrialism. There is one fact without an understanding of which no sound conclusions in this matter are possible—the German and Russian peoples are totally lacking in democratic experience.

Under the very best conditions a full decade will be taken to put Germany well on the way to a democracy which her people will not only accept but defend with their lives. In 1848-9 and in 1878-93 the German people lost not only their first battles for political freedom; they lost by emigration the very life blood of their democracy. Democracy is not secured by getting hungry mobs to shout at sound of a word. Democracy grows in the life of a nation through the cumulative efforts and experience of generations. Democracy is not thrown up out of the earth like lava out of a volcano. It grows like the living thing it is, and sometimes, through a natural revolution, bursts into leaf or bloom. The trouble in Germany is not only negative but also positive. Germany, from Kaiser down to peasant, was bursting from conceit for a generation in the fond delusion that she had something infinitely better than democracy to give the world. Now the Russian Bolsheviki are in the same frame of mind. "We are working," said Hans Schlieben to me in a conference of German Democrats in Switzerland last February, "in full knowledge that our task will be a long and difficult one." Certain conditions in Germany render misunderstanding of her problems by America rather easy. Germany is educated, industrialized, highly scientific.

As regards Russia there is no such excuse. Russia is densely illiterate. Her economic life before the war was controlled by the Germans and French. The masses of her people are far less trained in democracy than the Chinese.

Our pro-Bolshevik, or compromiser with Bolshevism, says that the Russian people have a right to choose Sovietism if they please. We reply that the Russian people were forcibly prevented by the Lenine tyranny from choosing a Government for themselves at all.

The Bolshevik maintains that Bolshevism is succeeding in Russia. We protest with the truth that Russia is rapidly starving and perishing of Bolshevism.

The Bolshevik contends that Russia is winning a new and resplendent freedom by ignoring democracy, which is "old-fashioned" and "bourgeois." We insist that a people might as well try to build modern bridges and buildings without tools, as to build a new civilization without democracy as the basic method of society and the most precious possession of the social life.

The Bolshevism of today is quite like the Czarism of yesterday. Both govern without the consent of the people. Both have abjured and despised the form by which democracy creates the human individual as a social product. The Russia which is starving and dying under Sovietism is the same Russia psychologically which toiled and slaved under Czarism. A people cannot put institutions and race manners on and off like clothes or grease paint.

Russian Bolshevism, with the death rattle in its throat, is now making a last desperate fight to save its life. It reaches out its hands somewhat hopefully to Mr. Wilson and Mr. Lloyd George. Will they reach down and draw it up again out of the pit? Any labor organization, any social propaganda, any periodical which allies itself with Bolshevism is doomed. Any statesman guilty of giving it aid and succor will find that such self-stultification will reap, in its season, its certain harvest of failure and public contempt.

What all Russia demanded in 1917, what its intelligent democracy then strove and still strives to give it, were public schools, social legislation, good roads, cheap and abundant transportation of all sorts, public ownership of the supplies of raw materials, and a united democratic, federal, republican State. The form of that Government should have been, and must yet be, such as to prevent destruction by illiteracy and political inefficiency. Germany requires today, more than anything else, enough democratic common sense to create a republican constitution. Plunged into modern industrialism without democracy, one must know the Germans at first hand to realize how hard it is for them to learn. From the time the British Parliament threw down the gauntlet to Charles I., in 1628, to the reforms of Disraeli and Gladstone was a period of just two hundred and fifty years. Beginning in 1789, the French were eighty-two years in forming a permanent republic. What does our British and American radical expect from Russia and from Germany? What is now rapidly preparing is reaction, counter-revolution, and darkness over Russia and Germany for whole decades. The democracies of Russia and Germany have a right to cry out upon the intellectual Bolsheviki of Britain and America, and say, "How dare you, in your irresponsible ignorance of us, idly tamper with the destinies, the liberties, and the very lives of great nations as though you were playing at a childish game?"

Submerged and almost unhead of as they are, the Russian and German democracies know what to do, and their faith in their peoples is yet firm, despite hopes deferred. "We take our stand upon the principles of the French Revolution and upon the democratic program of President Wilson," said the Freie Zeitung, organ of the German democracy, in its first issue. That was exactly one week after the United States had declared war against Germany. "As we stood then we are standing today," they said to me, when I again joined them two months ago.

This party has demanded (1) that Germany accept full moral responsibility for the war; (2) that the terrible facts of the war be honestly and fully laid before the entire German people, (these two conditions are absolutely prerequisite to that moral regeneration of the German people without which sound progress toward democracy cannot be made); (3) the power of the Junker class must not only have its political branches cut, its economic roots must be torn out. The Junker estates should be divided and sold to the peasantry, thus yielding funds for the indemnities and creating a large class of free farmers. This should be accomplished not by desperate local civil wars among the villages, as in Russia, but by means of a carefully developed national plan according to law. As yet, while mobs of workers in the cities, led by Russian agents, are pillaging the small shops of the poor and broken middle class, the Junkers sit in their country homes, eating, drinking, and calmly waiting for their chance of counter-revolution.

The test to which the courage and faith of the German democracy have been subjected can hardly be imagined. After years of fighting autocratic Kaiserism, they see Germany permeated by the agitation of Russian Bolshevism. They see the leadership of the German Independent Socialist Party driven before a storm. They become accustomed to the bitter dregs of disappointment. Still they stand like a pinnacle of granite in a raging sea. And the millions of citizens of German extraction in America—those who poured out their money like water for the German Red Cross and had it stolen by Bernstorff for the German propaganda in this country—those same Americans of German extraction now seem to be utterly careless of the German democracy in the hour of crying need. From those at Paris from whom most help should come—help by the way of advice and suggestion and moral support—there has come as yet not a single word or nod of approval. Freedom-loving people everywhere should rally to this good cause. Is the crazy absurdity of Bolshevism so highly enthroned in the minds of British and American liberal opinion and the unknowing publications which mislead it that sanity and civilization have no chance to declare the issue and gather the saving forces?

Conditions are not hopeless in Central and Eastern Europe. Three hundred millions of people are not all criminally insane. There are men there, and women, too, able to think clearly and lead efficiently. Out of the immensity of America's goodness of heart and yearning for a better world there must be some small remnant of help to be discovered.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

As an illustration of what is actually taking place in certain parts of Russia, where the Bolsheviki claimed many times their superiority, I have received a letter from a relative of mine, holding a high position with the Department of Motive Power of one of the Caucasian roads. This letter was mailed by him on the way from Russia to Paris in the beginning of February, 1919, where the gentleman in question is at the present time on an important mission. It reads in part as follows:

"After innumerable hardships gone through on the Don, we are thankful to be left alive and in comparatively good health.

"In the Don and Kuban districts as well as in all Northern Caucasia there is not a trace left of the Bolsheviki. They are all driven out from there and the daily life is beginning to take its natural course, being assisted by people and institutions who are endeavoring their best to build up everything which was ruined by the civil war.

"Our railroad, which suffered very much, is being brought back into shape with the able assistance of the more intelligent part of the staff.

"Not long ago the City of Tsaritsin, the last stronghold of the band of scoundrels who have been fooling the Russian people with heavenly promises, was taken away from the Bolsheviki. It is to be expected that the entire Caspian Sea is freed by this time. The industries in Grozny and Baku are working already and pretty soon the whole Caspian region will be alive again."

LODGE IS QUOTED TO UPHOLD WILSON

NO AFFRONT TO SENATE

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 6.—Homer S. Cummings, Chairman of the Democratic National Committee, in a statement issued tonight, declared that Senator Lodge was inconsistent in accusing President Wilson of having ignored the proper functions of the Senate in developing the League of Nations project. He quoted from a speech by Senator Lodge on Jan. 23, 1906, in which Mr. Lodge upheld President Roosevelt for having appointed delegates to the Algeciras conference to adjust the Moroccan trouble without having consulted the Senate.

Mr. Cummings first quoted Senator John C. Spooner, then Chairman of the Committee on Foreign Relations, as expressing that view, to which Senator Lodge specifically assented, and went on:

"On the following day Senator Lodge, in a more elaborate statement, used these words:

"'No one, I think, can doubt the absolute power of the President to initiate and carry on all negotiations. * * * There is no doubt that the Senate can by resolution advise the President to enter upon a negotiation, or to advise the President to refrain from a negotiation, but these resolutions have no binding force whatsoever, and the action of the Senate becomes operative and actually effective only when a treaty is actually submitted to it. We have no possible right to break suddenly into the middle of a negotiation and demand from the President what instructions he has given to his representative. That part of treaty making is no concern of ours. * * * It is a mere invasion of the powers and rights of the President, if we are to plunge in at a stage of the negotiations where we have no business, and demand from him the instructions which he has given to his properly appointed representatives. When the treaty made by those representatives comes before us then is the time, and not before, in which we can properly ask for information in regard to all which led up to it.'

"The foregoing quotation ought to make an end, for all time, of the ill-advised and unjustifiable criticism to which President Wilson has been subjected for a supposed ignoring of the Senate. Indeed, President Wilson has gone further in the matter of satisfying the Senate than previous Presidents have done. He has submitted to individual Senators and Members of the House, making up the great Committees on Foreign Relations, the details of the pending covenant of peace, and, indeed, the terms of the proposed League have been printed and distributed broadcast over the country.

"On the same day that Senator Lodge committed himself as to the meaning of the words 'advise and consent' he also expressed some ideas concerning 'entangling alliances' which are very pertinent at the present time. Senator Lodge, on the day mentioned, Jan. 24, 1906, speaking in the Senate, said:

"'The idea that there is something very strange and very novel in our joining with other nations in the settlement by treaty of matters affecting commercial questions, or, indeed, other questions, is a wholly mistaken one. The famous warning against entangling alliances which is embodied in the Washington Farewell Address, as every one is aware, grew out of the troubles which Washington endured on account of our alliance with France, * * * but he was altogether too sensible and too practical a man to suppose that, because we were not to engage in alliances which might involve us in the wars of Europe, in which we had no concern, therefore, we were never to engage in any agreements with any nations of Europe, no matter how beneficial they might be to the world at large or to ourselves. * * *

"'If the principle were carried out that we were never to join with any other countries, that entangling alliances meant anything of that kind, most of the great and beneficial things which have been achieved by international agreement would have become impossible to us.'"

In opening his statement, Mr. Cummings remarked that "a careful observer of the trend of public opinion cannot fail to note that opposition to the League of Nations is rapidly crumbling."

SAYS MALICE MOVES REED.

Missouri Legislator Explains Action on Senator's Speech.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., April 6.—Answering the recent speech of United States Senator James A. Reed of Missouri before the Legislature in the House Chamber today, Representative Frank H. Farris said he and his associates had "no apology to offer" for leaving in the midst of Senator Reed's speech, and denied that their action was preconcerted.

"But the recent efforts on his part," Farris said, "have so satisfied us all that he is animated by spite rather than principle, that he is moved by malice and ill-will rather than friendship and love, that as far as we are concerned the curtain for the future has fallen, and neither time nor opportunity will ever again present reason for recommendation of his own self-opinionated greatness."

Farris said Senator Reed gave to newspaper men the manuscript of his speech and then said "the best part" of his speech "was not included in the published manuscript."

"It was such," he contended, "as if made by a private citizen prior to Nov. 11 would have subjected the maker to a term in the Leavenworth Penitentiary."

ROCKEFELLER BAPTIST GIFT

Contributes $250,000 in Campaign —Proviso for Increase to $750,000.

John D. Rockefeller has contributed $250,000 to the Victory Fund of the National Committee for Northern Baptist Laymen, and will increase his gift to $750,000 if the full quota of $6,000,000 is raised during the campaign for funds to care for aged Baptist ministers, it was announced last night by Dr. Frederick P. Haggard, Director of the campaign.

"Mr. Rockefeller has contributed to the Morehouse Fund, which provides for aged and disabled Baptist ministers and missionaries, their wives, and dependents," said Dr. Haggard. "He made his donation through his Committee on Benevolences, and his committee has also offered to increase the gift to $750,000 for the general objects of the campaign provided other Baptists in the North make up the full $6,000,000.

"Personally, I am glad a proviso was attached to the offer made by the committee, for I feel confident that the 1,250,000 Baptists residing on this side of the Mason and Dixon Line will be awakened to their denominational responsibilities and take advantage of the opportunity to do their share toward insuring the various organizations represented in the movement the entire $750,000 offered by Mr. Rockefeller."

TELEGRAPHERS VOTE ON STRIKE TODAY

AFFECTS 400,000 WORKERS

Brotherhood of Electricians Expected to Go Out in Sympathy, and Railway Men May Help.

Balloting on the question of a nationwide strike of telegraphers will start today, according to announcement made after a meeting of District Council No. 16 of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America, held last night at 63 Park Row. A score of members of the Executive Committee attended the meeting and carried away ballots which are returnable at Chicago headquarters on or before April 22.

I. J. Konenkamp, National President of the union, said a strike was contemplated as a protest against the treatment of the operators at the hands of Postmaster General Burleson. The Postmaster General, he said, had taken over the wires after the Western Union had refused to abide by President Wilson's mandate that the operators had a right to organize, and added:

"Now Postmaster General Burleson is failing to live up to that mandate by ignoring the just demands of the men for a living wage." Mr. Konenkamp said the telegraphers objected to the action of the Postmaster General in taking executives from the telephone companies and placing them at the head of the telegraph companies.

According to information obtained after the meeting the operators have made an agreement with the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers. This organization has a membership of about 265,000 and operators said that if they should walk out in support of the telegraphers, repairs to interrupted communication would be almost impossible.

WASHINGTON, April 6.—The necessity for increasing telegraph rates "must be charged directly and solely to inefficiency of operation," declared a resolution adopted by the Washington Local of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union at a meeting today. The Postmaster General's statement as to the reason for the increase, the resolution said, was "manifestly misleading and incorrect." Taking of the strike vote ordered by the National Union's Executive Committee was indorsed.

MAY END HARBOR STRIKE.

Workers Will Act on Private Boat Owners' Proposal Today.

The question of ending the harbor strike will be before the Marine Workers' Affiliation at its headquarters, at 26 Park Place, at 10 o'clock this morning, when a meeting of the Strike Committee will be held for the purpose of reaching a decision on an offer of the private boat owners to grant a ten-hour day and a 10 per cent. increase in wages.

Representatives of the private boat owners who made the offer were confident that the strike would be settled today. It was said that the hoisting engineers, marine engineers and other classes of workers were eager to put an end to the strike, which has been going on for nearly six weeks, and had put pressure on the strike leaders to negotiate the best terms possible with the private boat owners.

Strike leaders refused yesterday to say whether they would be willing to drop the fight for the eight-hour day, which they have made the battle cry of the strike, but two of the organizations belonging to the affiliation have already gone back to work for increases of pay without changes of hours, and other organizations were said yesterday to be on the point of following their example, unless an agreement was speedily made between the strike leaders and the private boat owners. The lighter captains, who voted to return to work last week, brought the matter up for reconsideration on Saturday night at the request of the President of the union, but voted unanimously against renewing the strike.

TELL LABOR PARTY'S AIMS.

Would Democratize the Public Schools and Organize Teachers.

The aims and objects of the American Labor Party were varied last night at the Church of the Messiah, Park Avenue and Thirty-fourth Street, by Abraham Lefkowitz and Mrs. Maud Swartz. In explaining that the program called for "democratization of education in public schools through the participation of labor and the organized teachers," Mr. Lefkowitz asserted that many of the teachers were leaving the school system because of "impossible conditions." He said that teachers are being paid less than unskilled workers.

Mrs. Swartz described the reforms urged by the new party, particularly those concerning working women. In the open forum discussion that followed the set speeches, some persons in the audience who took the floor criticised the aims of the American Labor Party as explained by the speakers as too radical while others charged that they were not radical enough.

MONUMENTS TO 69TH MEN.

Committee's Plans Announced to Hold Benefit Next Month.

To perpetuate the record of service of the former and present 69th New York Regiment, monuments will be erected to the veterans of the regiment in Calvary and Greenwood Cemeteries, it was announced yesterday by ex-Judge John J. Ryan, Chairman of the committee formed to raise funds for the project. In addition to raising funds for the monuments, an endowment fund will be raised for the benefit of the veterans when they may be in financial straits, Mr. Ryan said. He expressed the belief that the permanent endowment fund would reach $20,000 during the year.

As part of the plan to collect the funds, a public benefit will be held in the Metropolitan Opera House on May 17 or 22, according to Mr. Ryan, who said that John McCormack had promised to sing on the occasion. Members of the monument and endowment fund thus far appointed include Thomas J. Barry, Lieutenant George J. McGee, Captain Frank G. Hewson, James J. O'Brien, Patrick J. Whitney, and John Magner.

TORNADO DAMAGES OMAHA.

Destroys Houses Also in Suburbs of Dundee and Clifton Hill.

OMAHA, Neb., April 6.—A tornado struck the western portion of Omaha shortly after 6 o'clock tonight and destroyed a number of houses in the suburbs of Dundee and Clifton Hill. No loss of life resulted.

A number of houses which were destroyed in the tornado of six years ago, were again torn to pieces.

The tornado first struck at Fiftieth and Leavenworth Streets, moved nearly north to Fiftieth and Dodge, and then went northeastward across Dundee to Fifty-fifth and Grant.

LINCOLN, Neb., April 6.—Reports of violent windstorms, at places reaching the proportions of a tornado, reached Lincoln tonight. So far as known there was no loss of life, but property damage, according to reports, was considerable.

Near Elmwood three farm houses were wrecked and blown away. Livestock were killed and wheat fields damaged by a fall of hail which followed the winds.

HEAVY SNOW IN THE WEST.

Telephone and Telegraph Service Is Crippled by Storm.

DENVER, April 6.—Heavy snows accompanied by a high wind today and tonight badly crippled telephone and telegraph service in Western Nebraska, Wyoming, Utah, Montana, and Western Colorado.

WANTS REFORM IN RELIGION.

Rochester Rabbi Urges Less Theology and More Life.

Special to The New York Times.

CINCINNATI, April 6.—"Religion of the future must deal more extensively with the earth below than the heavens above; it will have less bearing upon theology and more upon actual life," said Rabbi Horace J. Wolf of Rochester in an address at the session of the Central Conference of American Rabbis at Hebrew Union College this morning.

"The social question is the biggest problem which has developed from the war," he continued. "A new social order is being created, in which injustices and special privileges, such as have proved pernicious to the world in the past, will be done away with. Every person will be entitled to the best gifts of life. Organized religion must take sides in the struggle between vested interests and its exploited victims. It has a definite rôle in the contest between the forces of reaction which oppose thorough reconstruction and the hosts that demand that the old pre-war abuses shall be ended forever and organized religion must respond to the challenge of the new social conscience by freeing itself of the old accusation that it is a class institution.

"Religion of the future must deal with life upon the world. It must appreciate that golden instincts cannot arise from leaden lives; that roses cannot grow from muckheaps; that men cannot be saved spiritually unless their environment makes it easier to be good and harder to be bad.

"The new religion demands that men of all religions forget the things that have divided them in the past, and that stress be placed upon the establishment of a genuine social justice. Religions may be many, but in this sense religions must be one."

VISIT ROOSEVELT GRAVE.

Special to The New York Times.

OYSTER BAY, L. I., April 6.—Members of the family of the late Theodore Roosevelt intend to make Oyster Bay their home in the future. Sagamore Hill, where the Colonel lived practically all his life, will be occupied by Mrs. Roosevelt upon her return from Italy within the next few weeks. Captain Kermit Roosevelt, his wife, and two children will make their home here during the Summer months. Lieut. Col. Theodore Roosevelt is going to rent a home on the Gibson estate at Cove Neck, about a mile from Sagamore Hill, and Captain Archibald Roosevelt has obtained a cottage on Center Island, which overlooks Long Island Sound.

Hundreds of persons visited the Colonel's grave today. Many of them were soldiers who had recently returned from abroad. Three were from the Dixie Division and had been guests of the Colonel last Summer. They recalled the pleasant afternoon they spent with him tramping about his estate. One of them had tears in his eyes as he looked at the grave, saying, "We were in the trenches and when we heard of his death it was like losing a father, for he seemed like that when we were with him. No man was more loved by the soldier boys than he."

ZIONIST DELEGATES DINED

Three Orthodox Rabbis, Back from London, Warmly Welcomed.

The three Mizrachi delegates to the London Zionist Conference, who returned to this city last week, were welcomed at a dinner last evening in the Broadway Central Hotel, Broadway and Third Street. More than 500 orthodox Jews were present and they applauded warmly as the men marched to their seats and joined in singing "The Star-Spangled Banner" and the Hatikvah, the Jewish national hymn. The delegates are Rabbis Meyer Berlin, Wolf Gold and A. M. Ashinsky.

The Mizrachi Organization of America, the orthodox branch of the Zionist in this country, started a campaign at the dinner for $250,000 to carry on the work of the organization. Samuel Rottenberg, Chairman of the Welcome Home Reception Commitee, pledged $2,500 to this fund and other subscriptions brought the evening's receipts to $30,000.

MORE OCEAN FLIGHT DELAY.

Snow Adds to Difficulties of British Fliers at St. John's.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., April 6.—A heavy snowstorm today added to the difficulties surrounding the preparations for an attempted transatlantic flight by Harry Hawker and Lieut. Commander Mackenzie Grieve, British aviators. The mechanicians expect to complete the work of putting together the Sopwith airplane by the middle of the week.

Experimental flights will be the next stage of preliminaries. As the ground about the hangar is still very wet it will be some time before the machine can be moved over it.

J. R. HEGEMAN DIES AT COUNTRY HOME

700-FOOT TOWER HIS PLAN

Personally Acquitted by High Court in State Probe of Insurance, His Life Work for Fifty Years.

John Rogers Hegeman, President of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, and a director in a number of banking institutions, died at his place at Orienta Point, Mamaroneck, N. Y., yesterday. He had been in failing health for two years, and during that period his visits to the office of the Metropolitan were infrequent. For the last two months he had not been away from his country home, on advice of his attending physician, Dr. Eugene T. Morrison of New Rochelle. Mr. Hegeman's city home was at 19 Madison Avenue. His funeral will be held on Wednesday morning from the Salem Baptist Church, New Rochelle, of which the Rev. Dr. T. E. Johnson is pastor, and the burial will be in Woodlawn Cemetery.

Mr. Hegeman was born in old Flatlands, a quaint settlement, now a part of Brooklyn, on April 18, 1844, and he received his education in the public schools and the Polytechnic Institute of Brooklyn. When 22 years old he became an accountant with the Manhattan Life Insurance Company. He left that company in June, 1870, to become Secretary of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, and four months later the Vice President.

It was while serving in this office that he took a leading part in extending the business of the company and in advising as to the discipline of a vast army of agents, who collected premiums from policyholders throughout the country. He continued in the dual position of Secretary and Vice President until Oct., 1891, when he was made President.

He was credited with having been instrumental in the gradual enlargement of the Metropolitan Life Building at Twenty-third Street and Madison Avenue, remarkable for its fifty-story clock tower, recalling the Venetian Campanile.

In 1907, when the insurance companies were under searching investigations, Mr. Hegeman, as head of the Metropolitan, was indicted on a charge of forgery and perjury, for the alleged transferring of securities at the end of a year for the purpose of making the annual report of the company seem plausible to the eyes of the State Department of Insurance, but he was cleared in an opinion handed down by the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court.

J. J. MACKIN KILLED IN AUTO.

Was Bronx Democratic Leader and Once Justice McCall's Secretary.

John J. Mackin, a Democratic leader in the Bronx for many years, was killed in an automobile, which was partly wrecked by hitting an iron trolley pole in Boscobel Avenue, near Jerome Avenue and 167th Street, the Bronx, yesterday morning. The car, owned by Mrs. James Free of 104 West 190th Street, was being operated by her husband, who was detained by the police of the Highbridge Station pending an investigation.

The police say Free told them that he and Mackin had left the Highbridge Club on Woodycrest Avenue, and on Washington Bridge had complied with the request of two unidentified men to give them a ride. One of these men was permitted to drive, and the car skidded against the pole. The two men fled, he said.

Mr. Mackin, who was a member of the realty and insurance firm of Mackin & Kenney, with offices at 154 Nassau Street and in the Bronx, was active as a leader in the North End and the Highbridge Democratic Clubs. Some years ago he was the confidential secretary of ex-Justice Edward E. McCall. His home was at 1,027 Ogden Avenue. He leaves a wife and four children. One of his sons, John, returned recently from overseas service with the 107th Infantry.

An unidentified boy, 14 years old, was killed by an automobile at Southern Boulevard and St. Ann's Avenue yesterday. William Jonas, a buyer and owner of the car, who lives at 954 Leggett Avenue, carried the boy to Lincoln Hospital. Jonas said the boy had run in front of the car. He was not arrested.

REAVIS ATTACKS BRITISH.

Used War to Get Latin-American Trade, Says Congressman.

WASHINGTON, April 6.—Representative C. F. Reavis of Nebraska, recently returned from a trip to the Panama Canal and the West Indies, today urged upon the Administration the establishment of ship service to Central and South America for the upbuilding of American trade with those countries. He said while our ships were transporting food to Europe England was continuing her shipping facilities to South America and laid the foundation for future commercial control in the southern republics.

"The complaisant manner in which we are permitting England to monopolize the South and Central American commerce is exciting the severe condemnation of all Americans in the Canal Zone," said Mr. Reavis.

Miss Post's Engagement Broken.

It was announced yesterday that the engagement of Miss Harriette A. Post, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George B. Post of 3 East Fifty-first Street, to Captain Leopoldo Belloni of the Italian Flying Corps, has been broken. The engagement was announced in THE NEW YORK TIMES last December. Captain Belloni, after serving here as a member of the Italian High Commission, recently returned to Italy.

TRY OUT AIRPLANE SIGNAL.

Army Has Contrivance to Advise Aviators of Landings.

WASHINGTON, April 6.—Experts of the Army Signal Corps, it was learned today, have begun experiments with a recent invention which they believe will prove valuable in making the airplane a commercial utility. Described as an "audible beacon," the new contrivance is designed as a signal which will advise the aviator not only of his own position regardless of weather conditions, but will serve as accurate marks for suitable landing places.

"The beacon" is said to be a combination of the new wireless telephone and the ordinary phonograph. Its operation will be more or less automatic and will repeat a word or signal designating its position. For instance, one at Langley Field, the interdepartmental aviation base, might send out the call "Langley" at stated intervals.

Officials working on the invention believe that the next step will be the adoption of the sound-ranging device, now used by armies in connection with artillery fire, to enable aviators to determine without delay the distance and direction of the call of any one of these sending stations.

Visitors often pause in the lobby of our banking room in appreciation of the pleasant, hospitable atmosphere. The bright sunshine of Spring is reflected in the old panelling and on chilly days a log fire snaps on the burnished hearth.

Our banking rooms were formerly part of a gracious and hospitable dwelling, and its homelike atmosphere still clings to them. Here you will find the last-century spirit of courtesy, combined with up-to-the-minute banking methods and service.

We especially welcome the commercial accounts of uptown business concerns, the household accounts of families, and the personal accounts of men and women.

THE FINANCIAL SITUATION

Transient Difficulties Are Submerged in Faith in Future Economic Events

Neither investors nor speculators in securities are wont to take much of anything on faith, but it would appear that faith and hope are having a great deal of influence in the markets at present. Otherwise it is doubtful whether stocks would have displayed the firm front they did last week in the face of disturbing events in industry and transportation. The holder of stocks had his expectations set upon a decided forward movement in the steel and allied trades because of expected large orders for rails, structural materials, &c., from the railroads, and in a moment the program was completely overturned. The possibility that the situation may shortly be altered to its original status, or to something equivalent thereto, changes not the fact that what ordinarily would have been a distinct jolt was imparted to stock market sentiment when Director General of Railroads Hines declined to buy at the established prices. On top of this came the unpleasant realization that the carriers had passed through a decidedly poor month in February, adding largely to the deficit reported for January. These were developments which might well have depressed stocks to a substantial degree. But they were not depressed, except in a transient fashion. The inference to be drawn is that the stock market is directing its faith and hope, coupled with some canny knowledge of underlying business conditions connected with neither the steel trade nor the railroads except indirectly, toward the broader aspects of future occurrences. The disturbance at Washington and the shrinkage of railroad profits are temporary matters. The public interested in stocks is looking forward to the signing of the peace treaty, to the expanded buying of American goods by foreign countries when credits are established in adequate amounts under true peace conditions, to the great expected proceeds from this Summer's grain crops, to the further expansion of domestic wholesale business and manufacturing and the general results which will accrue from the nation's position as the world's leading creditor. Bolshevism gains ground in Europe and political turmoil spreads, but the security market has thus far gone along serenely, not oblivious of events abroad but confident that the time will come when conditions will return to normal and the countries will again buy and sell freely. If an explanation of this sort may not be considered for the desire of people to hold on to their stocks in the midst of current uncertainties, it would seem as though none is to be found.

In the light of the railroads' record in the second month of the year there would seem to be close connection between railroad earnings and Mr. Hines's objection to paying the fixed prices for steel. With balances showing on the wrong side of the books, the Director General would be nothing more than human and a good business man if he sought to keep expenses as low as possible. The $37,000,000 deficit in the standard return for February, taken with the deficits of a previous month and the first year of Government operations, makes the total some $276,000,000, with a promise of a vast increase unless traffic expands. The railways need rails, coal, track fixtures, bridge material, and other things, but the impression has been gaining ground of late that the Director General is not going to buy a pound more than is absolutely necessary and he wants prices as low as they can be. He could seek, of course, to have freight rates increased again, and yet there exists such a strong possibility that this would be only a signal for renewed wage demands that the way out does not seem through higher tariffs. An increase of traffic to adequate proportions would help to solve the problem, and the question arises whether, by holding back steel orders, the Director General is not actually helping to retard an expansion of railroad haulage. When a ton of steel is produced something like three tons of material has to be gotten together for the process. Iron ore, coke, fluxing material have to be brought to a common point, and later the finished goods have to be distributed, chiefly over railroad lines. In normal times the Steel Corporation, to mention one unit in the industry, pays the railroads about $250,000,000 a year on freight bills, and it stands to reason that the filling of large Government orders by the various steel companies would create a tremendous tonnage of freight and add largely to railroad gross revenues. There is this to be said, too, that the entire business structure of the country had been affected in a sentimental way by the expectation of enhanced activity in the steel trade, and a policy of delaying the program might easily react in the continuance of a sluggish condition of general business that would not be the case otherwise.

The traveling public and shippers have a greater interest in the steel price controversy than appears on the surface, to say nothing of the interest of railroad security owners. Whether or not the taxpayers are forced to meet a big railroad deficit out of their pockets, the demand will be made that the railways be kept in excellent physical condition. That is one of the primary requirements in the contract under which the Government took over the carriers. The public would have little quarrel with a steel rail price, whether it was $45 or $43 or something else per ton, so long as their persons and goods were protected in transit over the lines by a sound roadbed and cars.

The banks are making preparation for their part in the forthcoming Victory Liberty Loan. This was made evident last week in a marked scarcity of funds for lending on time and by a great increase in the amount of loanable money on call at easy rates. In the Wall Street district millions of dollars of call money was offered from day to day at a cost running from 5 to as low as 4 per cent. without takers. This shifting of bank credits by no means forecasts an expectation by bankers that they would be required to absorb most of the vast offering; on the contrary, it was only a natural movement to make as easy as possible the financing of the Government's offering with the least strain upon both the individual subscribers and the banks themselves. The terms for the new notes are as yet unavailable, and the pressure being brought to bear in some quarters to have a 5 per cent. issue put out has not yet brought any tangible results, and despite the 5 per cent. rate on the $200,000,000 one-year paper of the War Finance Corporation, emphasis was laid in Government financial circles during the week that this should not be considered an intimation in respect to the pending note issue. The signs point toward as enthusiastic and insistent a selling campaign as any of the Liberty Loans developed, and the nearer the time comes the fewer are the pessimistic comments on the public's ability to absorb the issue.

The sterling and franc exchange market did a great deal better last week than had been expected in the early days after Government support was removed. Quite likely the speculators who helped to bring about the substantial recession a fortnight ago had much to do with the recovery through the undoing of short sales. Sterling regained 2 per cent. of its loss and francs fully 3½ per cent. The closing out of speculative contracts on the short side was hastened by the belief in some quarters that the British and French Treasuries were not altogether inclined to let rates fall drastically.

Union Leaders Go to Meet Hines.

PIERCE-ARROW EARNS LESS.

Report Shows Less Profit on Larger Business Than in 1917.

The statement of the Pierce-Arrow Motor Car Corporation for the year ended December 31, 1918, shows gross sales amounting to $41,354,439, compared with $32,565,908 in 1917, an increase of approximately 27 per cent. Of the total 1918 business about $26,000,000 was war business. In 1918 the company produced 8,635 vehicles, of which 1,168 were passenger cars, and 7,467 trucks. This compares with a total of 7,708 vehicles produced in 1917, of which 2,532 were passenger cars, and the remainder trucks.

The statement shows that net profits, after the deduction of depreciation and other charges, were $4,273,171, compared with $4,791,274 in 1917, while estimated Federal taxes were $1,200,000, compared with $1,161,803 in the preceding year, leaving a balance of $3,073,171, compared with the 1917 balance of $3,629,471. The company's total surplus on Dec. 31, last, was $2,819,202, compared with $2,415,962 in 1917. The balance sheet shows that bank loans were decreased to $3,837,500 in 1918, from $5,441,533 in the preceding year.

SEES INFLATION AS TRADE DANGER

GOLD BASIS IS NECESSARY

Japan, with a Note Circulation of Only $10 Per Capita, Can Undersell the World, He Says.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 6.—Danger of an upset in international monetary exchange unless the world adjusts itself to a substantial gold basis to back its currency is inevitable, according to Senator Owen of Oklahoma, Chairman of the Banking and Currency Committee.

"Europe has not observed the lesson taught the United States by the civil war," said Mr. Owen today, "and is no longer on a true gold basis. Great Britain, although on a nominal gold basis, does not, in fact, exchange its notes for gold, and is still expanding the note issue.

"In Japan the currency is about $10 per capita, in the United States $57, and in France $150. Thus, a Japanese workman, for a day's labor in quality and quantity the same, would get but one-fifteenth as much gold as a French laborer would get and about one-sixth as much as an American laborer. Japan, therefore, can advantageously manufacture goods on a cheap gold basis and undersell the United States and France.

"Issuing currency to pay Government debts without a gold cover, and without keeping the notes freely exchangeable in gold, is a direct route to economic financial injury. I assume, of course, that the French, British, and Italian statesmen will no longer permit this policy to continue, but will issue bonds as time obligations, take up these current obligations, and reduce their currency to a per capita similar to the per capita of other nations with whom they exchange commodities. A high per capita circulation means high cost of production and high-priced goods, and impaired exchange of commodities.

"An international agreement should be established by which the per capita circulation of money between all nations would be more equitably arranged in order that commodities may flow freely from one to the other.

"France cannot compete with the United States in foreign commerce on equal terms if France has three times the per capita circulation of the United States, and Japan will successfully compete with other nations so long as her per capita circulation is much lower than the per capita circulation of other nations."

CLUB PLANS WAR MEMORIAL.

Baker's College Fraternity to Honor Members Killed in Action.

Secretary of War Baker, in a letter to the 17,000 members of his college fraternity, suggests an institutional memorial in honor of the members of the Phi Gamma Delta who made the supreme sacrifice in the war. As a result of the suggestion, which has been received with enthusiasm by members of the fraternity, there probably will be a National Memorial Building in New York.

More than 40 per cent. of the 17,000 members of the fraternity, it is said, were in military or naval service, and considerably more than 100 gave their lives. Secretary Baker was for five years the National President and he is now National Chairman of the committee directing this effort. Headquarters have been established in New York, and the intention is to raise at least $200,000 for the memorial.

NEW HAVEN REPORT SHOWS INCOME DROP

FEWER PASSENGERS TAKEN

Although Freight Business Was Heavier—Figures from Federal Income Account Given.

The pamphlet report of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad Company for 1918 which has just been made public, is different from previous reports in that operating revenues and expenses are not shown in the income account. The road was operated by the Railroad Administration in 1918 and the company report lacks those items. For the convenience of stockholders the operating results and statistics of the Director General of Railroads are appended to the report.

The report, as issued, shows that the company receives a specific rental of $17,095,884.34 for the year, of which $1,950,000 had been received to Dec. 31, last. The corporate income account shows that besides the rental received from the Administration there was a total of other income amounting to $5,562,533, making a gross income of $22,658,418. The expenditures, principally rentals of leased lines, interest on funded debt, and interest on unfunded debt amounted to $20,614,892.

It is stated in the report that had the subsidiary companies which paid dividends in 1917 paid the same dividends last year, amounting to $949,000, the net income for the year would have been $2,992,525. The actual net is shown to have been $2,043,525. These dividends will be paid when the Director General has the funds with which to pay standard return to all the companies, but they were not paid in 1918, and were not included in the report. Had they been paid net would have been substantially $3,000,000, which would have been equal to about 1.9 per cent. on the $115,117,900 capital stock.

Annual Compensation Increased.

This year the annual compensation will be increased to $17,473,367, due to a restatement of the company's income by the Interstate Commerce Commission, and this amount will be further increased by $200,000 interest on expenditures for improvement work done in 1918.

The balance sheet as of Dec. 31, 1918, shows an increase in total investments of $18,297,331 to $475,298,025 from the preceding year, while current assets decreased $7,442,816 to $21,825,060 and deferred assets increased $24,811,119 and total unadjusted debits increased $2,533,354 to $4,823,381.

Loans and bills payable increased $13,023,000 to $57,024,000 and total current liabilities decreased $10,676,683 to $5,340,031. Total deferred liabilities increased to $30,963,890. Total unadjusted credits increased to $8,642,439, while profit and loss surplus increased $1,095,411 to $4,524,352.

Under the head of "General Remarks," Edward G. Buckland, President, says in the report in part:

"The Federal Control act authorized the President of the United States to pay to the company as just compensation not exceeding a sum equivalent as nearly as may be to its average annual operating income for the three years ended June 30, 1917, as computed by the terms of said act. The President was authorized to pay additional compensation in case he should find that during the three years ended June 30, 1917, because of nonoperation, receivership, or where recent expenditures for additions or improvements or equipment were not fully reflected in said operating income for said three years or a substantial portion thereof, or because of any undeveloped or abnormal conditions so exceptional as to make the average annual railway operating income inequitable as a fair measure of just compensation. The company presented its claim for additional compensation as follows:

Average annual excess car hire paid during the three year period	$1,492,061.92
Interest at 6 per cent. on the cost of additions and betterments amounting to $7,214,026.08, to enable the company to obtain economies from the use of Santa Fe type of engines in hauling heavier trains	432,841.56
Total	$1,924,903.48

Other Claims Filed.

"It also claimed the reasonable expenses of the corporate organization during Federal control, and any saving in the cost of conducting the Federal valuation due to the fact that such valuation was nearly completed.

"The company represented that, prior to the three-year period, it had received from other companies approximately an average of $300,000 per year in excess of the amount which it has been required to pay for car hire; that, beginning with the year 1915, the large increase in business in New England had repuired it, in order to keep such business going, to handle traffic in excess of its capacity; that the increase in car hire from 45 cents to 75 cents per day during a portion of the period, and the refusal of the Interstate Commerce Commission to increase demurrage rates, had converted this net average credit of $300,000 per year into an average annual debit of $1,492,061.92; that, beginning with Federal control, car hire had been abolished and demurrage rates increased even beyond the figure requested by the company, so that the Director General would enjoy, during the period of Federal control, the benefits which the company during the three-year period had unsuccessfully endeavored to obtain."

The following figures have been taken from the Federal income account of the company, which was added to the report for the convenience of stockholders:

FEDERAL INCOME ACCOUNT ITEMS.

	1918.	Comparison with 1917. Increase.	Decrease.

Ratio of op. exp. and tax to total op. revenues	88.92%	12.79%	......

The Federal report then goes into the details of the operation of the company and its subsidiaries, each of the latter being treated individually. It also shows that the road carried 1,738,298 more tons of revenue freight in 1918 than in 1917 and that the total number of passengers carried was 89,134,878, a decrease of 3,472,628.

TARDIEU WELCOMES TRADE.

Clevelander in Reply Says We Wish to Remain Ally of France.

PARIS, April 6.—Captain Andre Tardieu, a member of the French peace delegation, at a dinner last night in honor of the members of the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce who are visiting France, recalled that April 6 marked the second anniversary of the entrance of the United States into the war. The armies of France and the United States, he said, had accomplished their task, while the business men of the United States had come to co-operate with French business men in establishing the same friendly spirit in business as existed between the soldiers on the battlefield.

President Brown of the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce said that the United States desired to remain an ally of France in a commercial, as well as in a military sense.

HURLEY'S PLAN INDORSED.

Exporters Favor Sale of Government Ships to Private Operators.

The essential features of the plan recently advanced by Chairman Hurley of the Shipping Board, for the private ownership and operation of American ships, have been endorsed by the American Manufacturers' Export Association, which has a membership of 1,200 of the largest exporting manufacturers in the country. Copies of the resolution to this effect adopted by the Board of Directors of the association are being sent to individual members of Congress. The resolution was adopted on recommendation of the Shipping Committee of the association, consisting of E. M. Herr, President of the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company; W. C. Durant, President of the General Motors Company, and W. L. Saunders, Chairman of the Ingersoll-Rand Company.

"First. All ships owned by the United States Government or building or contracted for by the Government, should be sold to American ship operators at the earliest moment after a proper basis for such sale can be established.

"Second. The price at which these ships are sold should not exceed the cost of foreign built ships of the same class and tonnage.

"Third. The Government should exercise control to the extent of establishing maximum rates.

"Fourth. Some guaranty should bbe given to operators of American ships that under certain conditions and for a limited time they will be reimbursed for losses sustained in handling business at competitive rates where the revenue is not sufficient to cover operating cost."

WOMEN'S MISSION TO SAIL.

Delegates Will Consider Industrial Conditions at Foreign Conferences.

The Women's Industrial Commission which the National War Work Council of the Young Women's Christian Association is sending abroad to meet labor leaders in England, France, Italy, and Belgium in order to discuss labor problems affecting women will sail for England on Wednesday on the Noordam. The members of the commission include Miss Mary E. Dreier, representing the National Women's Trade Union League; Mrs. Irene Osgood Andrews of the American Association for Labor Legislation, Miss Nelle Swartz of the National Consumers' League, Mrs. James S. Cushmand, Chairman of the National War Work Council of the Y. W. C. A.; Miss Florence Simms, Miss Marie Wing of Cleveland, and Miss Imogene Ireland, all of the Y. W. C. A. Miss Mary Gilson of Cleveland, an authority on employment management, may also accompany the commission.

Miss Florence Simms, head of the industrial department of the Y. W. C. A., in discussing the plans of the commission, said yesterday:

"A program of the standards which each country considers necessary for their women workers will be discussed and the work of the commission will be done through small conferences with groups or individuals who are authorities upon the particular standards suggested, with the hope that in the end just and fair recommendations may be formulated which can be used to safeguard the interests of women in the different countries."

RESERVE DEPOSITS DROP.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 6.—Redemption on a large scale of certificates of indebtedness of the Dec. 5, 1918, issue prior to their maturity on May 6, in accordance with the Treasury announcement of March 21 and substantial withdrawals of Government deposits are indicated in the Federal Reserve Board's weekly statement showing condition on March 28 of 772 member banks in leading cities.

A decrease of $121,800,000 is shown in the holdings of Treasury certificates, the New York City members alone reporting curtailment under this head of $54,000,000. United States bonds, other than circulation bonds, decreased $4,600,000, while loans secured by United States war obligations increased $4,500,000. Other loans and investments show a gain for the week of $19,500,000, notwithstanding a decrease of about $7,000,000 reported by the New York banks.

Aggregate holdings of United States war securities and war paper declined from $3,811,000,000 to $3,689,600,000, and constitute 26 per cent. of the loans and investments of all reporting banks as against 26.6 per cent. the week before. For the New York City banks a decline in this ratio from 30.4 to 29.8 per cent. is noted.

Government deposits declined $81,400,000, largely at banks in the twelve Federal Reserve Bank cities. Other demand deposits (net) fell off $4,400,000, while time deposits went up $9,300,000. Cash in vault increased $2,200,000. Aggregate reserve balances with the Federal Reserve Banks increased $8,500,000, though like balances of the New York City members show a decline for the week of $19,600,000.

Supplemental Schedules and Balance Sheets
We have engaged George C. Holton, Esq., of the New York Bar, an expert in Tax Law, to collaborate with our accountants, and under their united supervision have prepared a complete set of some twenty-five Schedules and Balance Sheets, arranged in accordance with Government requirements.
The entire set is suitably indexed, printed in triplicate, and bound in book form, perforated so that any or all the forms may be detached. This provides an original to file with return, a copy to retain, and a triplicate for working sheet purposes. We also include a work sheet which gives an accurate and ingenious formula for computing the Corporation Tax.
A SET OF THESE FORMS, USED TO PREPARE AND FURNISH THE MASS OF ADDITIONAL INFORMATION REQUIRED BY THE GOVERNMENT, WILL BE OF GREAT ASSISTANCE TO TAXPAYERS AND WILL SIMPLIFY THE PREPARATION OF THIS MOST INTRICATE AND IMPORTANT RETURN.

CAPITALIZATION

Common Stock (issued)	750,000.00
Common Stock (authorized)	1,000,000.00

From the accompanying letter of Mr. Frank J. Sullivan, President of the Company, we summarize as follows:

The Sullivan Packing Company was incorporated in Michigan in 1908, with a paid in capital of $250,000.00, succeeding the business of Sullivan Beef Company established in 1897.

The preferred stock is retirable with twenty years, with a sinking fund provision calling for 15% of net earnings beginning 1921.

Total net assets of the Company are over $1,609,000.00, equivalent to about $215.00 per share for the preferred. The net assets have been increased $1,359,000.00 since incorporation.

The Company has paid on common stock average cash dividends of over 9% annually. Net earnings for the last three years were nearly two and one-half times the new preferred dividend requirements.

Earnings for the first four months of the current fiscal year have been at the rate of 70% on the new preferred stock, and with the proceeds of this issue available in their business. EARNINGS FOR CURRENT YEAR ARE ESTIMATED OVER FOUR TIMES THE DIVIDEND REQUIREMENTS ON THIS ISSUE.

No dividends can be paid on common stock which will reduce net quick assets below 100% of outstanding preferred stock.

The proceeds from the sale of this preferred stock will be used to reduce current indebtedness, provide additional working capital and retire a small amount of old preferred stock.

The managers of the business since 1908 will continue in active charge.

The legality of this issue has been passed upon by Messrs. Beaumont, Smith & Harris, Detroit, and Messrs. Davis, Wagner, Heater & Hollon, New York.

Price $100.00 per share and accrued dividends

CITY READY TO FIGHT RISE IN CAR FARES

Corporation Counsel Serves Notice on Court, Receiver, and Public Service Board.

SAYS LEASES MUST STAND

Declares Opposition to Any Plan for Disintegrating Railways Company.

An affidavit by Corporation Counsel William P. Burr concerning the attitude of the city toward the New York Railways Company, now in the hands of a receiver, and the action the city will take should the Legislature vest the Public Service Commission with authority to increase fares has just been put at the disposal of the court, the receiver, the commission, and others who may have direct interest in the matter. If the Legislature acts favorably on the pending bill providing for a fare increase it will meet with the active opposition of the city and steps will be taken to test the validity of the act in the courts. This means that no increase of fares may be expected for a long time, no matter whether the attitude of the Legislature and the Public Service Commission is friendly or not.

The memorandum contains a word of warning to Receiver Job E. Hedges, who is told that if he should decide to break any of the leases held by the company and so do away with the transfer system he might find that he was barred from such action by the law. This warning and others of a similar character are contained in the following statement which appears in the affidavit:

"There is grave danger that this receivership may be so handled as to employ the machinery and procedure of the court to enable the security holders of the lessor companies and of the defendant to distintegrate the system and to relieve the companies of free transfer obligations over leased lines now existing in favor of passengers, without securing modification of the existing franchise contracts with the city or valid orders of the Public Service Commission or other State authority.

"The New York Railways Company, through its officers and agents, has claimed for some time past that the effect of the receivership will be to break up many of the existing leases and thereby do away with present free transfer privileges and mulct passengers with ten-cent or fifteen-cent fare charges where now, under the existing unified system, they may travel for a single five-cent fare. The defendant has, by its counsel, made the claim that the institution of a receivership will result in this breaking up of leases and the return of the leased property to its owners.

"The City of New York has denied that a receivership could properly be availed of for any such purpose."

Then the affidavit says that the rentals of the leased companies aggregate annually $1,936,887.60, and that under the leases the New York Railways Company pays for this leased property "excessive and extravagant sums by way of rentals, in many cases amounting to a guarantee of over 9 per cent. annually on the capital stock of the lessor companies, and in several instances rising as high as 18 or 21 per cent. annual dividends."

Mr. Burr says it is due to the traveling public that the court should determine as soon as feasible how far it will make the preservation of the unity of the system the real policy of the receivership, and adds:

"If, on the other hand, the receiver is to be given a free hand to act in the interest of security holders, irrespective of whether the system will be in part disintegrated and the free transfer system broken up, that ought without delay to be candidly stated, for then the city can proceed at once to institute proceedings before the Public Service Commission with a view to protecting the public against the splitting up of the present system by the processes employed ten years ago whereby five-cent fares again will, without permission of State authority, be changed into multiple fare charges of ten or fifteen cents for the same ride."

The affidavit says the city is the holder of unpaid claims against the company of $466,445.66 in the shape of percentages on gross receipts, car license fees, and paving obligations, and of another claim of $972,325.11 for franchise and corporation taxes. Besides these the city, it is said, has a number of smaller claims. Concerning the bill pending in the Legislature Mr. Burr says:

"There is the gravest reason to question the constitutionality of this bill, and, if enacted into law, the city will undoubtedly contest its validity in the courts. The city is opposed, both as matter of its constitutional right and upon manifest grounds of public policy, against any course of action which will operate to convert these 5-cent fare franchises into perpetual 7 or 8 or 10 cent fare franchises."

Questioning the sincerity and fair dealing of the company, the affidavit reads:

"While making the most strenuous appeals to the municipal authorities on the alleged grounds of financial distress for increases of fare the street railway companies of the city have, nevertheless, up till now, never been willing to apply to the Board of Estimate for new short-term grants, limited to the charter period, in which temporary rate increases, to tide over war conditions, might possibly have been stipulated, in conjunction with other provisions looking to ultimate municipal ownership.

"The enactment of a law that will permit the commission to strengthen these municipal 5-cent fare perpetual franchises by granting increases, though based on the alleged value of these properties, will tend to subvert the charter policy and is therefore earnestly opposed by the city."

It is then pointed out that no change could possibly come in the present fare rate without a review of the change through writ of certiorari in the courts. A hope that the receiver will see his way clear to scale down the high rentals paid for the leased lines is then expressed.

"It is by no means necessary that the receiver should suffer or consent to the abrogation of leases in order to secure whatever rate relief he may deem it desirable to apply for. It is, on the contrary, proper for him to confine whatever efforts he may deem it wise to make toward securing increases to applications to the Public Service Commission, or, better still, to the local authorities for a new franchise grant for the short term period as provided for in the Charter of Greater New York."

The affidavit contains a list of the leases with the various lessor companies, many opinions from the courts concerning the sacredness of franchise obligations, and a history of the old receivership proceedings of the Metropolitan Railroad Company.

EXPLAIN HOSPITAL DELAYS.

Special to The New York Times.

COLD SPRING, April 6.—Opposing parties in the legal controversy over the erection of the memorial hospital bequeathed to Cold Spring by Mrs. Julia Butterfield five years ago are hiring halls to explain the delay in starting the building. Albert Francis Hagar, executor of the Butterfield estate, who refused to approve the present specifications because he says they call for a flimsy firetrap, held a meeting on Saturday night in Butterfield Memorial Chapel and told the village folk assembled, who are clamoring for action, why he would not approve the present plans.

Furthermore, Mr. Hagar contended, the structure could not be provided within the appropriation under the will unless the plans were altered. Hagar's meeting was the third within a week. Surrogate J. Bennett Southard started the ball rolling by calling the first meeting and inviting the litigious executors, Hagar, David Harkness, Calvin May, and Architect Luther Lewis. Lewis went after Hagar and blamed him for the delay, and Harkness, in a prepared statement, also rapped Hagar. The Village Trustees then held a meeting in the village hall to have their say to the public. Then Hagar called a meeting, and he and his architect, Hobart Upjohn, had their say. Still another symposium is to be held by another party to the legal row.

TO REPLANT ST. QUENTIN.

Guild Designs Cards the Purchase of Which Insures Spots of Green.

In the interest of replanting St. Quentin and the surrounding territory in France, which has been undertaken by the National Plant, Flower, and Fruit Guild, that organization is celebrating this coming week as St. Quentin week and is making a special effort to raise funds for trees, vines, vegetable seeds, and flowers. Mme. J. Castell of Lyons, the French representative of the guild, has visited St. Quentin and is in direct touch with the Mayor and municipal authorities and will see that the funds are properly distributed.

A set of St. Quentin cards has been prepared by the New Rochelle branch of the guild, suitable for Easter or Memorial Day reminders. A tree card costs $1 and plants one tree at St. Quentin; a grapevine card, planting a vine, costs 50 cents, and a garden card, which costs 20 cents, buys two ounces of vegetable or flower seeds, and a special Easter card has been designed which costs 25 cents. Orders are filled from the guild headquarters, 70 Fifth Avenue. Mrs. John Wood Stewart is founder and national President.

FOR WORLD HEALTH BUREAU

Medical Experts Meeting at Cannes Will Discuss Plan This Week.

CANNES, France, April 5.—The conference of medical experts being held here in preparation for the convention of the Red Cross societies of the world at Geneva will begin a discussion next week of a plan to establish an international bureau of health, where the latest scientific discoveries might be collected and their application discussed.

Sir Robert Phillips of Edinburgh, at the request of Dr. Herman M. Biggs of the United States, who presided today, spoke of the campaign against tuberculosis in England and said the work accomplished in the last twenty-five years would be completed in as many months if such an organization as proposed by the Red Cross existed. Dr. Kabeshima of Japan and Colonel Cesar Baduel of the Italian Red Cross read reports favorable to the project.

Critical buyers of Boys' Clothing will be interested in the opportunity offered by this sale because they are familiar with the excellence of the ABR. BAUMAN product.
This sale is held—and the merchandise is being sold—without reserve, because the firm of ABR. BAUMAN has been succeeded by the BAUMAN CLOTHING CORPORATION.
This new concern will make a line of Boys' and Children's Clothing embodying distinctive and unique features that are not contained in the former ABR. BAUMAN product; therefore this old product can have no place in this new line, and must be sacrificed at public auction without reserve.

All lines of railway and extensions and branches thereof, if any, owned, leased or operated by the Bay State Street Railway Company, or by its Receiver, and all tracks, double tracks, switches, turnouts, rails, plants, electric or otherwise, cars and other rolling stock and equipment, dynamos, trolleys, poles, wires, engines, engine houses, machinery, shops, power houses, and other buildings and erections, furniture, tools, implements, materials and supplies, rights of way, privileges, rights, licenses, franchises, locations and all other property, of every kind, character and description, and wheresoever situated (other than cash, cash assets, claims, credits, accounts and items receivable)—not subject to the Boston and Northern Refunding First Mortgage or the Old Colony Railway Company Refunding First Mortgage. Also including all shares of stock, bonds and other securities, including all right, title and interest of the Bay State Street Railway Company in and to the capital stock of the Quincy Point Company, a corporation organized under the laws of Massachusetts, and in and to any and all Boston and Northern First Mortgage Refunding Fifty-Year Four Per Cent. Gold Bonds issued under and secured by the Boston and Northern Refunding First Mortgage and Old Colony Railway Company First Mortgage Refunding Fifty-Year Four Per Cent. Gold Bonds now pledged as security for certain Five Per Cent. One Year Collateral Notes of the Bay State Street Railway Company due March 15, 1918, unless said bonds shall previously have been sold in enforcement of the indenture securing said notes, and also including all right, title and interest of the Bay State Street Railway Company in and to any and all Boston and Northern First Mortgage Refunding Fifty Year Four Per Cent. Gold Bonds, held by American Trust Company as trustee under a certain agreement dated December 31, 1910, made by the Bay State Street Railway Company, under its then Corporate name of Boston and Northern Street Railway Company, and in and to any and all Old Colony Railway Company First Mortgage Fifty Year Four Per Cent. Gold Bonds held by Old Colony Trust Company as trustee under a certain agreement dated December 31, 1910, made by the Old Colony Street Railway Company.

(D) Excepting and reserving, however, from the property to be sold at said sale any part of said property which may have been duly released from the lien and operation of said Boston and Northern Refunding First Mortgage or from the lien and operation of said Old Colony Street Railway Refunding First Mortgage, or any part of said property not subject to the lien of either of said mortgages duly sold or otherwise disposed of prior to the date of said decrees.

For a more particular description of the property to be sold and of the terms of sale, intending purchasers are hereby referred to said decrees and said final order of sale and to the records of said consolidated cause and the constituent causes, and to the advisory statement or statements of the Receiver to be filed with the Clerk of the District Court of the United States for the District of Massachusetts, pursuant to said decrees.

As more fully provided by said decrees, to which reference is hereby made:

I. Said sale will be made without valuation, appraisement, redemption, or extension.

II. The property to be sold, whether sold as an entirety or in parcels, will be sold subject to any valid and subsisting prior liens thereon, or valid and subsisting prior interests (legal or equitable) therein, and will, but without limitation of the generality of the foregoing, to the extent and so far as any of the instruments more particularly referred to in Article Fourth of said decrees may respectively constitute valid, subsisting prior liens upon, or create valid subsisting prior interests in or to, any of said property, be sold subject to the lien of or the interest created by said instrument.

III. Said sale will be made in the following manner:

(a) The Special Master will first offer for sale in the manner set forth in this subdivision (a) all the property by said decrees adjudged to be embraced in either the Boston and Northern Refunding First Mortgage or the Old Colony Railway Company Refunding First Mortgage, to wit, the property described in Article Twenty-third and Article Twenty-fourth of said decrees.

(1) Of said property the Special Master will first offer for sale separately and as an entirety as Parcel A, all the property of the Bay State Street Railway Company adjudged by said decrees to be subject to the lien of the Boston and Northern Refunding First Mortgage, to wit, the property described, in Article Twenty-third of said decrees, and will note the highest bid therefor.

(2) Of said property the Special Master will next offer for sale separately and as an entirety as Parcel B all the property of the Bay State Street Railway Company adjudged by said decrees to be subject to the lien of the Old Colony Railway Company Refunding First Mortgage, to wit, the property described in Article Twenty-fourth of said decrees, and will note the highest bid therefor.

(3) The Special Master will next offer for sale Parcels A and B together and will note the highest bid therefor. If the highest bid received for Parcels A and B when so offered together shall equal or exceed the aggregate of the highest bids for Parcels A and B when offered separately then the bids noted for Parcels A and B when offered separately will be cancelled by the Special Master. If, however, the highest bid received for Parcels A and B when so offered together shall not equal or exceed the aggregate of the highest bids for Parcels A and B when offered separately, then the Special Master will cancel the bids noted for Parcels A and B when so offered together and will note only the highest bids for Parcels A and B when offered separately.

(b) The Special Master will next offer for sale as an entirety as Parcel C all property of every character, nature and description, and wheresoever situated, of the Bay State Street Railway Company, and of its Receiver, and all interests of every character, nature and description of the Bay State Street Railway Company, and of its Receiver, in property, other than the property and interests in property adjudged by said decrees to be embraced in either the Boston and Northern Refunding First Mortgage or in the Old Colony Railway Company Refunding First Mortgage, and other than cash, cash assets, claims, credits, accounts and items receivable, to wit, the property described in Article Twenty-fifth of said decrees, and will note the highest bid therefor.

(c) The Special Master will next offer for sale as an entirety Parcels A, B and C, and will note the highest bid therefor.

If the highest bid received for said property of the Bay State Street Railway Company when so offered for sale as an entirety shall equal or exceed the aggregate of the several highest bids therefor when offered for sale in parcels as hereinabove provided, then all said property will be stricken off and sold as an entirety to the highest bidder therefor. If, however, the highest bid received and noted for said property as an entirety is less than the aggregate amount of the several highest bids for said property when offered in parcels as hereinabove provided, then the several parcels offered for sale will be stricken off and sold to the highest bidders for such respective parcels. The Court reserves the right in the event of the sale as an entirety of said property to determine the proportion of the purchase price and of the proceeds of sale of said three parcls when sold as an entirety attributable to said parcels respectively for the purposes of distribution and otherwise under this decree.

IV. In making said sale the Special Master will accept no bid from any one offering to bid who shall not, prior to the offering by the Special Master of any parcel for sale, deposit with the Special Master and deliver to him as a pledge that he will make good his bid in the event of its acceptance:

(a) In the case of Parcel A when offered separately the sum of Fifty Thousand Dollars ($50,000) in cash, or certified check on some national bank or trust company acceptable to the Special Master and made or endorsed payable to his order, or Two Hundred Thousand Dollars ($200,000) face amount of Boston and Northern First Mortgage Refunding Bonds in bearer form, and if coupon bonds, accompanied by the coupon of January 1, 1919, and all subsequent coupons; such deposit may be partly in cash or certified check and partly in Boston and Northern First Mortgage Refunding Bonds, but in the same relative proportions

(b) In the case of Parcel B when offered separately the sum of Fifty Thousand Dollars ($50,000) in cash or certified check on some national bank or trust company acceptable to the Special Master and made or endorsed payable to his order, or Two Hundred Thousand Dollars ($200,000) face amount of Old Colony Railway Company First Mortgage Refunding Bonds in bearer form, and, if coupon bonds, accompanied by the coupon of January 1, 1919, and all subsequent coupons; such deposit may be partly in cash or certified check and partly in Old Colony Railway Company First Mortgage Refunding Bonds, but in the same relative proportions.

(c) In the case of Parcels A and B when offered together, the aggregate of such sums in cash or certified check as aforesaid, or the aggregate of bonds of such character and to such amounts as would be required under the foregoing clauses (a) and (b) to qualify said person to bid for said property when offered for sale in said parcels.

(d) In the case of Parcel C when offered separately the sum of Fifteen Thousand Dollars ($15,000) in cash or certified check on some national bank or trust company acceptable to the Special Master, and made or endorsed payable to his order.

(e) In the case as an entirety of the property of the Bay State Street Railway Company, specified in Article Twenty-third and Article Twenty-fourth and Article Twenty-fifth of said decrees, viz., Parcels A, B and C, the aggregate of such sums in cash or certified check as aforesaid, or the aggregate of bonds of the character and to the amounts as would be required under the foregoing clauses in order to qualify such person to bid for said property when offered separately in said parcels.

In lieu of the deposit of bonds and coupons in accordance with the requirements of any of the foregoing clauses, the Special Master may accept the certificate of any national bank or trust company acceptable to the Special Master that it holds subject to the order of the Special Master bonds of the required character in bearer form, and, if in coupon form, accompanied by the required coupons. A deposit make by any bidder for a separate parcel may, so far as applicable, be applied on account of the deposit required to be made in order to qualify him to bid for the same property when offered together with one or more other parcels or for all of the property when offered for sale as an entirety. A deposit made by any bidder for the entirety shall also, so far as applicable, qualify such bidder to bid on any or all of the Parcels.

Any deposit so received from an unsuccessful bidder will be returned to him when the property shall be struck down. The deposit received from the successful bidder or bidders will be applied on account of the purchase price of the property.

(a) for Parcel A the sum of One Million Six Hundred Thousand Dollars ($1,600,000);

(b) for Parcel B the sum of One Million Four Hundred Thousand Dollars ($1,400,000);

(c) for Parcels A and B when offered together the sum of Three Million Dollars ($3,000,000);

(d) for Parcel C the sum of Six Hundred Thousand Dollars ($600,000);

(e) for Parcels A, B and C when offered together in a single lot as an entirety the sum of Three Million Six Hundred Thousand Dollars ($3,600,000);

V. In case any bidder upon the acceptance of his bid by the Special Master fails to comply, within the period of twenty (20) days after the entry thereof, with any order of the District Court of the United States for the District of Massachusetts requiring or relating to the payment of the balance of the purchase price, then the moneys or bonds deposited by such accepted bidder, as hereinbefore provided, will be forfeited as a penalty for such failure and will be applied to the payment of the expenses of a re-sale and toward making good any deficiency or loss in case the property in respect of payment of the purchase price of which such accepted bidder makes default is sold at a less price on such re-sale, and to such other purposes as said Court may direct.

If said Court shall not confirm any sale, the deposit made by the accepted bidder at such sale will forthwith be returned to such bidder.

VI. The purchaser upon confirmation of the sale must make such further payment or payments in cash on account of the purchase price as the District Court of the United States for the District of Massachusetts may from time to time direct. So much of the purchase price as may not be required by said Court to be paid in cash may either be paid in cash or the purchaser may satisfy and make good the residue of his bid in whole or in part by turning over to the Special Master, to be cancelled or credited, the bonds and coupons to be paid out of the proceeds of sale on distribution thereof as in said decrees set forth, and claims against the Bay State Street Railway Company allowed and established in said causes as to be so paid. Such bonds, coupons or claims, whether delivered to the Special Master at the time of sale or subsequently, will be received at such price or value as shall be equivalent to the sum which would be payable out of the net proceeds of sale, if made for money, to the holder or holders of said bonds, coupons or claims for his or their just share or proportion in that character of such net proceeds upon a due accounting and apportionment and distribution of such net proceeds. Said bonds and coupons must be in bearer form, or accompanied by proper transfers to the Special Master, and said claims shall be accompanied by proper assignments thereof to the Special Master.

The Special Master may in his discretion accept temporarily instead of bonds and coupons the certificate or certificates of any national bank or trust company which he may approve that it holds subject to his order bonds of the amount and character therein specified, and, if in bearer form, accompanied by the coupons therein stated, and will deliver the same to him on demand for cancellation or other disposition according to the terms of this decree.

The Special Master may receive in lieu of cash in payment of amounts in said decree required to be paid in cash, Receivers certificates of indebtedness or like obligations heretofore issued and sold pursuant to orders duly entered by the District Court of the United States for the District of Massachusetts in said consolidated cause pending in said Court as aforesaid, in their face amount, with accrued interest thereon.

Said Court reserves the right to re-take and re-sell, upon such notice as said Court may direct, any property by said decrees and said final order of sale, directed to be sold in case the purchaser thereof shall fail or omit to comply with any order of said Court requiring payment on account of the unpaid balance of the purchase price within twenty (20) days after the entry of the order requiring such payment.

VII. The purchaser or purchasers of any property described in Article Twenty-third or Article Twenty-fourth of said decrees (being Parcels A and B), and his and their successors or assigns, shall, as part of the consideration for and of purchase price of the property purchased, and in addition to the sums bid by them and elsewhere in said decrees required to be paid by him or them, take such property and receive the deeds or other instruments of conveyance and transfer thereof subject to the provisions of Article Fourth of said decrees so far as applicable, and upon the express condition that such property shall be charged with the payment, satisfaction and discharge of the following:—

A. Any taxes or other public charges which may be a lien upon or chargeable against the property or franchises of the Bay State Street Railway Company by said decrees directed to be sold.

B. Any indebtedness and liabilities of the Receiver of the Bay State Street Railway Company incurred in said consolidated causes or in any of the constituent causes, in the management or operation of the property of the Bay State Street Railway Company by said decrees directed to be sold, and otherwise in the discharge of his duties as such Receiver between December 12, 1917, the date of his appointment, and the date of the delivery by him to the purchaser or purchasers of possession of the property sold (not including, however, that portion of the indebtedness and obligations of the Receiver represented by his certificate of indebtedness for the payment of which other provision is made by the terms of said decrees, to the extent that such indebtedness and liabilities have not been paid or shall not have been paid, out of moneys in the possession of said Receiver.

C. Any unpaid claims of creditors of the Bay State Street Railway Company which have been or shall be admitted by the parties in interest or adjudged by the District Court of the United States for the District of Massachusetts to be prior in lien or superior in equity to the Boston and Northern Refunding First Mortgage or to the Old Conoly Railway Company Refunding First Mortgage.

At the time of delivery by said Receiver of possession of Parcels A and B, said Receiver will pay to the purchaser or purchasers thereof, or upon their written order, all cash then in the possession or under the control of said Receiver, and will transfer and deliver to said purchaser or purchasers, or, upon his, its, or their written order or orders, all cash assets, claims, credits, accounts and items receivable then in the possession or under the control of said Receiver. If the amount of said cash, cash assets, claims, credits, accounts and items receivable thus received from said Receiver by said purchaser or purchasers, his, its or their successors or assigns, is less than the amount of the indebtedness, obligations and liabilities of said Receiver and of the Bay State Street Railway Company mentioned in the foregoing subdivision A to C, inclusive, said purchaser or purchasers, his, its or their successors or assigns, shall have the right to assert any equities which he, it or they may have, if any, by reason of such excess of liabilities over receipts against the net proceeds of sale of Parcel C, being the property described in Article Twenty-fifth of said decrees. If, on the other hand, the said cash, cash assets, claims, credits, accounts and items receivable thus received by the said purchaser or purchasers, his, its or their successors or assigns, shall be greater than the amount of said indebtedness, obligations and liabilities subject to which said Parcels A and B shall be sold as aforesaid, then any and all parties interested in the net proceeds of the sale of said Parcel C will have the right to assert against the property covered by the Special Master's deed or deeds or other instrument of transfer to said purchaser or purchasers of said Parcels A and B, or his, its, or their successors or assigns, any equities which they may have, if any, by reason of such excess.

In case Parcels A and B shall not be sold together, the cash, cash assets, claims, credits, accounts and items receivable in the possession or under the control of said Receiver shall be apportioned by said Court as between said Parcels A and B, and their proportion of any such cash, cash assets, claims, credits, accounts and items receivable so found and determined shall be credited and paid, or transferred to, the purchaser or purchasers of the respective parcels or upon his, its, or their written order or orders.

Said Court also reserves the right in case said Parcels A and B shall be sold to different purchasers to apportion as between said parcels the liabilities and other items mentioned in the foregoing subdivisions A to C inclusive to which said parcels may be subject, and to charge against the respective parcels their proper proportion of such liabilities and other items.

In the event that any purchaser of said Parcels A and B, or of either of them, shall refuse after demand made to pay when due any indebtedness, obligation or liability specified in the foregoing subdivisions A to C inclusive and required to be paid by such purchaser, the person or corporation entitled to such payment may, on twenty (20) days' notice to such purchaser, his successors or assigns, file a petition in said Court to have such claim enforced against the property purchased by such purchaser in accordance with the usual practice of the Court in relation to claims of a similar character. Any such purchaser shall have the right to appear and make defence to any claim, debt or demand, or the priority thereof, so sought to be enforced, and any party including any such purchaser, shall have the right to appeal from any judgment, decree or order made thereon.

Said Court reserves the right to re-take and re-sell any of the property embraced in either of said Parces A or B in case the purchaser thereof shall fail to comply with any judgment, decree or order of said Court in respect to the payment of any such indebtedness, obligation or liability within thirty (30) days after service of certified copy of the judgment, decree or order requiring such payment, or within such further time as said Court may by order provide; subject, however, to the rights of appeal and stay of proceedings provided by law.

VIII. Any purchaser of the property by said decrees directed to be sold, and the successors or assigns of such purchaser, will be allowed three (3) months from the date of confirmation of the sale within which to elect whether or not to adopt or continue in force, or to refuse to adopt, any lease, traffic or operating agreement, or other executory contract which may be included in the property sold to such purchaser, or which may constitute an incident or appurtenance thereof. Such election must be made by instrument in writing subscribed by such purchaser, his successors or assigns, and filed in the office of the Clerk of the District Court of the United States for the District of Massachusetts, and no conduct or user by any such purchaser, his successors or assigns within such period of three (3) months, unaccompanied by the filing of such written instrument, will be deemed to conclude such purchaser, his successors or assigns, in respect of such election. In the event of the failure of such purchaser, his successors or assigns, to file a statement of election to refuse to adopt any such lease, traffic or operating agreement or contract within the period of three (3) months above allowed, he will be deemed to have elected to adopt such lease, traffic or operating agreement or other executory contract and to accept the same as part of the property purchased. In the event that such purchaser elects not to adopt any such lease, traffic or operating agreement, or other executory contract, he shall re-assign and re-transfer all his right, title and interest in the same to the Bay State Street Railway Company or to such other corporation or person as said Court shall direct, without deduction, however, from the sum paid or payable by such purchaser on account of the purchase thereof. It is further provided by said decrees that such right of election shall not apply to any such contract, lease or agreement heretofore or hereafter lawfully entered into by said Receiver of the Bay State Street Railway Company or heretofore or hereafter lawfully assumed or adopted by said Receiver affecting the property purchased and operative after the delivery of possession of the property purchased, but any and all such contracts, leases or agreements must be adopted and carried out by such purchaser unless the right to elect to adopt or terminate be reserved by the terms thereof to said Receiver or such purchaser.

Any purchaser shall have the right to elect not to take and accept any part of the property sold to such purchaser, by written notice of his election to the Special Master given at any time prior to the execution and delivery of the deed or other instrument of conveyance from the Special Master. No such election by the purchaser, his successors or assigns, will diminish or affect the purchase price to be paid by such purchaser.

IX. No sale of the property of the Bay State Street Railway Company specified in Article Twenty-third and Article Twenty-fourth of said decrees (being Parcels A and B) will be confirmed to any purchaser who shall purchase said property on behalf of or for the benefit of any corporation organized, or to be organized, for the purpose or with the intention that it shall become the owner of said property through any sale under said decrees pursuant to any scheme, plan or agreement whereby any stockholder or stockholders of the Bay State Street Railway Company shall receive any stock, bonds, or other beneficial interest in such corporation on account of their stock in the Bay State Street Railway Company, although he, or they, may pay some other consideration in addition therefor, unless and until there shall have been made under or pursuant to or in connection with such scheme, plan of agreement, to creditors of the Bay State Street Railway Company who have presented, or who shall hereafter present, their claims in accordance with the provisions of said decrees, and who have claims subordinate in lien and inferior in equity to the Boston and Northern Refunding First Mortgage or to the Old Colony Railway Company Refunding First Mortgage, a fair and timely offer of cash, or a fair and timely offer of participation in such corporation through stocks, bonds or otherwise; and said District Court of the United States for the District of Massachusetts has reserved jurisdiction to determine whether such offer to such creditors shall have been made under or pursuant to or in connection with any such scheme, plan or agreement, and jurisdiction to modify its said decree in case it determines that no such offer has been made. Such scheme, plan or agreement must also provide for the payment in full or assumption by such corporation of all debts and liabilities owing from the Bay State Street Railway Company to any city or town within which the railway of the Bay State Street Railway Company is operated, and taxes and assessments for which the Bay State Street Railway Company is liable under the statutes of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts relating to street railways. It is also one of the conditions of the sale that if any such corporation or other purchaser as aforesaid shall become the owner of said property as aforesaid, it shall upon taking possession of the said property pay all such debts, liabilities, taxes and assessments, and also shall assume all other existing obligations of the Bay State Street Railway Company to all cities and towns in said Commonwealth in respect of or having relation to the location, maintenance or operation of the lines and system of the Bay State Street Railway Company in any such city or town, whether the same be statutory, contractual or of any other nature, subject, nevertheless, to the provisions of chapter 188 of the Special Acts of said Commonwealth for the year one thousand nine hundred and eighteen, and to the provisions of all other general and special laws of said Commonwealth now or hereafter in force, and subject also to the jurisdiction of the Public Service Commission of said Commonwealth or other authority under any such laws.

The Special Master will accept no bid from any one for the property of the Bay State Street Railway Company as an entirety who shall not prior to the offering by the Special Master of such property as an entirety file with the Special Master a statement whether he proposes to bid on behalf of any such corporation, and, if so, also file a complete statement of any such scheme, or a copy of any such plan or agreement and a statement of any offers which have been made or are to be made to such creditors of the Bay State Street Railway Company under or pursuant to or in connection with such scheme, plan or agreement.

X. By said decrees said Courts reserve for future adjudication all questions not disposed of by said decrees.

For further particulars reference is hereby made to said decrees of foreclosure and sale and to said final order of sale made and entered as aforesaid. The attention of intending purchasers is also called to the advisory statements to be filed with the Clerk of the District Court of the United States for the District of Massachusetts prior to said sale by the Receiver of the Bay State Street Railway Company pursuant to Article Tenth and Article Twenty-fifth of said decree of foreclosure and sale made and entered by the District Court of the United States for the District of Massachusetts as aforesaid.

STATE'S WHOLE TAX PROGRAM ASSAILED

TAKES UP 6 BILLS AT ALBANY

Much Unfairness Shown, and Expenditures Should Be Cut First, Says Statement.

Declaring that the joint legislative Committees on Taxation, to meet the one immediate need of making up the State and local loss of $20,000,000 in liquor taxes, are preparing to raise by corporation and income taxes $60,000,000, two-thirds of which is new money, with a new personal property tax in addition, the New York Tax Reform Association, through its Secretary, A. C. Pleydell, issued a statement yesterday criticising the whole State program of taxation.

"When the State embarked on the policy of enacting special taxes its budget (for 1890) was $13,000,000; this year it is $80,000,000," the statement reads. "In 1917 the 3 per cent. tax on income of manufacturing and mercantile corporations was enacted, to meet necessary expenses and relieve real estate. This tax yields $15,000,000, but expenses mount merrily, and now the rate is to go up—and some more new taxes are to be evolved.

"So it has been for thirty years. Every call for a new source of revenue that has been answered is immediately followed by an increase of appropriations, and then comes another demand for more revenue. Always the new tax is to be now; the retrenchment will be next year. It might be a good plan to vary the procedure for once, and before raising $40,000,000 more revenue by new taxes—to be promptly spent, if past experience counts for anything—try cutting down some of the expenditures first."

Various Bills Taken Up.

The association's statement first takes up the six tax bills introduced at Albany, the 2 per cent. tax on individual incomes, the increase of the present 3 per cent. tax on incomes of manufacturing and mercantile corporations to 4 per cent., the tax of 50 cents on each $100 worth of tangible personal property owned by individuals or partnerships, the bill allowing localities to levy a tax of not more than 5 per cent. on gross incomes of all business, individual or corporate, (excepting banks, trust companies, insurance and public service corporations,) the amendments to the inheritance tax law with regard to taxing certain property of nonresidents at present exempt, and amendments to the definition of gross premiums for the insurance tax.

Summing up what it means to the New York business man, the statement says:

"To business men these proposed changes mean in effect:

"An income tax of over 6 per cent. on residents whose capital is invested in business corporations here, (2 per cent. individual tax and 4½ per cent. corporation tax.)

"An income tax of 2 per cent., plus 50 cents per $100 valuation on tangible personal property in possession (whether paid for or not) of individuals and partnerships.

"And a possible 5 per cent. gross receipts tax."

Regarding the income tax, the Tax Reform Association sees many examples of unfairness, saying:

"No exemption is given to a resident for any portion of his income that may be taxed in another State; he may not even deduct an income tax paid elsewhere. Several States now have income taxes that reach nonresidents, and the same double taxation may easily occur that has become prevalent under inheritance tax laws. That such apportionment is difficult is not an argument for double taxation, but rather against State income taxes in general.

"While the rate proposed now is only 2 per cent., it can easily be raised in the future, and most likely will be. The 3 per cent. corporation tax of 1917 is already to be increased to 4½. Practically all the advocates of the State income tax have stated repeatedly and frankly that they believe in graduated or surtax rates, and only refrain from pressing that plan now because of the present high rates of the Federal tax.

"In advocacy of the State income tax the committee says: 'The income tax in principle is the most just and impartial of all taxes.' This belief has its origin in the 'ability-to-pay' theory urged by some professors of political economy. But whatever the merits of a Federal income tax as measuring by 'ability-to-pay' the benefits of a national government, that theory is not the soundest basis for local taxation.

"Benefits received and privileges enjoyed are the proper measures of the contribution that should be made to local revenues. An income tax takes no account of benefits or privileges, but bears as heavily on incomes derived in competitive business and by hard personal exertion as on those whose recipients profit from particular benefits or special privileges."

In conclusion the Tax Reform Association says bluntly that it "is up to industry to pay the bills."

Increasing Burden on Industry.

"The one outstanding feature of the bills proposed by the committee," says the association, "is that the anticipated needs for revenue are to be met by increasing taxes on industry.

"Business corporations are to pay more taxes.

"Business partnerships are to pay more taxes.

"Individuals in business—manufacturers, merchants, farmers—are to pay more taxes.

"Should the individual income tax and the new rate for business corporations both be enacted, the effect will be that a resident of the State whose capital is invested in a business corporation with all of its property here will be paying a tax of 4½ per cent. on the corporation income and 2 per cent. additional on the dividend he receives, in addition to the Federal income and profits taxes on the corporation, taxes on any real estate it may own, and his Federal income tax. For all taxes on corporations operate to reduce dividends, and thus fall ultimately though indirectly on the shareholders.

"And the optional business tax may mean another tax of 5 per cent. of gross receipts.

"One of the reasons for this policy given by the committee is: 'Real property in the State is already bearing much more than its share of the burden.'

"The business enterprise which owns the premises occupied will not be relieved by a slight reduction in the real estate rate gained only by much heavier taxes on the business.

"The business occupying rented premises will not gain anything by the heavier business tax, which will not reduce rents.

"The salaried home-owner will probably find his real estate tax remain the same, while he has to pay an income tax in addition.

"It must be remembered that in the last thirty years a number of special taxes have been enacted that fall mostly on industry and capital and yield $75,000,000 annually. The percentage of total taxes (State and local) paid by real estate declined from 87 per cent. in 1890 to less than 75 per cent. in 1918.

"Any large reduction in real estate taxation will operate only to raise capital values. To the extent that taxes on land are reduced the price will go up. And after a boom due to low taxes, every effort will be made to keep up real estate prices and rents, on the plea that interest should be allowed to be earned on that increased capitalization.

"It is true that some classes of improved real estate are overburdened, but the remedy for this is to reform the system of taxing real estate, not to put burdens on enterprise and industry. The benefits of any 'relief' to real estate through such taxes will go chiefly to speculators and the holders of undeveloped properties.

"The one immediate need is to make up the State and local loss of $20,000,000 heretofore raised by liquor taxes. This amount could in large part be raised by some changes in present laws along lines recommended by the State Controller.

"But the committee plans instead income and corporation taxes estimated to raise $60,000,000—$40,000,000 of new money—and a new personal property tax in addition."

INTERSTATE PARK MENACED.

E. M. Hatch, Jr., Again Says the Beaches Are Polluted.

Replying to a request for information made by Health Commissioner Copeland, Edward M. Hatch, Jr., Chairman of the Merchants' Association Committee on Pollution and Sewage, yesterday asserted that conditions on the shore of the Palisades Interstate Park in New Jersey, opposite the Dyckman Street ferry, were a menace to the public health. Mr. Hatch wrote:

"On investigation we found that the waters of the Hudson River at this point are grossly polluted and dangerous to the health and lives of those who bathe in the river or approach its bank. The contamination is due to the contents of the sewers from New York City and the adjacent communities, as well as the offal and other refuse incident to the life of a great city. The distribution of this contamination is facilitated by the wind and vagaries of the tidal currents and deposited on the shore and beach. The site of this public park is peculiarly well located so as to receive the maximum of the nuisance from this part of the polluted river. A scientific investigation by float tests has demonstrated that much of the sewage discharged from the sewers on the Hudson River side of New York City, as well as from Jersey City and Hoboken, is carried by the flood-tide past the Palisades Park.

"New York City is vitally interested in this menace to the health of its people. The park is mainly patronized by New Yorkers, who cross the river by the ferry from Dyckman Street. More than 16,000 visited the park one day last Summer.

"We feel, therefore, that it is a positive menace to the health of our people to permit bathing in the Hudson River at this division of the Palisades Interstate Park or picnicking or camping near the water's edge."

GARVAN HEADS LAW SCHOOL

Alien Property Custodian Succeeds John Whalen at Fordham.

Announcement was made yesterday by the Rev. Edward P. Tivnan, President of Fordham University, of the resignation of John Whalen, as Dean of the Fordham School of Law and the appointment of Francis P. Garvan, the Alien Property Custodian, as his successor. Mr. Garvan will assume his new office today.

Under District Attorney Jerome, Mr. Garvan served as an Assistant District Attorney. Upon the entrance of the United States into the war Mr. Garvan was made the head of the Bureau of Investigation of the Alien Property Custodian and in this position passed upon most of the alien property seized upon by the Government. Upon the appointment of A. Mitchell Palmer to be the United States Attorney General President Wilson appointed Mr. Garvan the chief of the bureau. He lives in New York City.

HOSPITAL SEEKS $250,000.

Open Drive Today to Aid in Caring for Foundlings.

A campaign will be opened today by the Advisory Committee of the New York Foundling Hospital at 175 East Sixty-eighth Street to raise $250,000 with which to pay off the debts of the institution and give the Sisters of Charity a new start in their work of making good citizens out of foundling children. Henry Heide is Chairman of the committee. This is the Golden Jubilee year of the founding of the hospital by Sister M. Irene. The present head of the institution is Sister Anna Michella. During the fifty years of its existence the institution has cared for more than 70,000 foundlings and the sisters now have under their supervision more than 5,000 children. This is the first public appeal the sisters have ever made for their work.

PRICE PRESSURE REVIVES BUILDING

MAY START BUILDING BANK

Merchants, Bankers, and Labor Department Hear Proposal from Senator Calder.

Government, banking, manufacturing and distributing interests are merging their influence to bring about a quick revival of building construction.

Federal pressure on building material prices resulted last week in a drop of 55 cents in the price of Portland cement delivered in New York. At the same time price adjustments in many other supplemental lines became effective, all with the one object of putting the building construction cost factor within the reach of the investor.

Simultaneously, United States Senator William M. Calder, with the co-operation of Justus Slater, Jr., the building economist; Major Frederick Hyde of the American Bankers' Association, M. W. Harrison of the Savings Bank Section of the same association, important officials of the Federal Reserve Bank, and Franklin T. Miller, Supervising Director of the United States Department of Labor, discussed the matter of the immediate establishment of a national building bank to be operated under the existing banking laws and as a part of the Federal Reserve banking system, through which greatly improved facilities might be provided for the removal of restrictive features of the present building loan system, not only for the present emergency, but to place building financing on a definite basis such as is provided by other forms of commercial banking.

Conferences were held on Saturday morning with the purpose of bringing about an immediate realization of this important factor in the building industry, prior to which it was explained that the proposal is in no sense a real estate bank as the purposes of the institution which probably will be established are not allied with the real estate market or its development in any way, it merely being an official established Government branch of the Federal Reserve system whereby temporary loans on well secured building operations may be obtained without excessive fees for various brokers. Senator Calder and Mr. Slater believe that with the establishment of this functionary in the building industry the principal factor of delay in building construction will be immediately eliminated.

The conference on Saturday was informed that if the proposed banking system could not be perfected under the present banking laws and legislation would have to be awaited before it could become an actuality, the emergency will have passed and the benefits to be derived from removing the present stringency of temporary building loan money would be nil.

It has been necessary therefore to obtain the indorsement of important organizations in the project and among others that have taken it under active consideration are the Merchants' Association, the Chamber of Commerce and several important building interests. It has been learned that the present banking laws and war emergency measures give ample powers for the establishment of such an institution without awaiting the enactment of special laws.

To help meet the increasing demand for new construction and to permit building work to get started at once, the building material dealers of New York have decided to give the customers the benefit of the price cut in Portland cement that was arranged with the Industrial Board at Washington.

There was a drop of 15 cents a barrel in Portland cement and a change in the rebate price on empty bags. This latter factor does not affect the consumer, it being merely a bookkeeping charge between the dealer and the manufacturer. The drop of interest to the consumer therefore amounts to 15 cents, mill, which works out to a reduction of 55 cents a barrel, a price shrinkage that is held to be artificial, especially since manufacturing costs probably have not reached their high level and the potential demand is much greater than the present market indicates. One important manufacturer of cement, by way of illustration, sent orders to his plant on Saturday to push production to full capacity. The present price of Portland cement in this market therefore is $3.25 a barrel, delivered, as against $3.80 a week ago, according to the Dow Service daily building report.

Brick barge men have deferred their declared intention to put into effect a new wage rate until the building season gets under way. In the meantime the first Spring load of common brick came into the market as the week closed, and more will be here by the time the market opens, today, at $15 a thousand, wholesale. There is some disturbance of minor importance in the finishing hydrate lime department, but whatever fluctuation in price there may be, either upward or downward, will be nominal and will be made merely to conform to the present tendency in nearly every line to artificially deflect prices to the advantage of the prompt builder.

Manufacturers freely state that the prices are put at the present levels because their mills are hungry for business. When the rush begins the law of supply and demand must operate. The fabricated steel market is fairly illustrative of this feature of the market.

George N. Gifford, Secretary of the Bridge Builders and Structural Society, reports that during the month of February, 1919, only 12½ per cent. of the country's bridge and structural shops was contracted for, whereas in July, 1918, 116½ per cent. of the entire capacity of the country's shops were under contract. He shows that there was only ⅓ of 1 per cent. difference in the capacity contracted for as between January and February of this year.

This same reaction in mill orders is proportionate in every line of building material, but with this difference, that during the last ten days more orders have been placed for building requirements than during the entire months of January and February combined.

SEEK WOMEN'S VOTE, AND SOLDIERS', TOO

Political Leaders Are Figuring How They May Land Both as a Whole.

CALLED DECISIVE FACTOR

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 6.—National political leaders are figuring how to capture the soldier vote and the woman vote in the Presidential election of 1920. These votes, it is believed, will be cast through some organized effort; so they may be the deciding factor in the contest, the leaders say.

More than one-sixth of the Presidential vote, the leaders figure, will be made up of the soldiers, while it is estimated that 12,500,000 women will participate in the election, double the number who had the privilege of voting for President in 1916.

The discharging of soldiers at the rate of about 300,000 a month has brought the soldier vote and its relation to the Presidential election sharply to the attention of the political managers. Leaders in both parties are planning to promote legislation to win the good opinion of the veterans. It is estimated that not more than 500,000 soldiers will be out of the country and unable to participate in the 1920 election. If so, there would be about 3,200,000 soldiers entitled to vote.

The soldiers of America, who in the aggregate number 3,731,589, represent more than one-sixth of the Presidential vote cast in 1916, when the total vote was 18,615,589. In States like New York, Ohio, and Pennsylvania, the proportion of soldiers to the voting population exceeds this ratio.

Political parties are not neglecting any opportunities to win the favor of the soldiers and the women. Republican leaders have promised to pass the woman suffrage resolution, now that they have control of Congress, and already numerous State leaders are working in connection with the woman suffrage adherents in the hope of cementing the woman vote for 1920.

That the entire character of Presidential elections will be changed by the organized soldier and woman votes is not doubted. This difference will be seen in the coming national conventions, which will have many women delegates.

In the opinion of such an astute political observer as ex-Speaker Clark, the organized soldier vote will have a decisive effect next year and will be increasingly strong for years to come, especially in Congressional, municipal and State elections, when the soldiers naturally will rally behind their comrades running for office.

While there is no open manifestation of interest by the political leaders in the activities of Lieut. Col. Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., in his campaign to organize the American Legion out of the already formed World War Veterans' Association, it is known that both political parties are encouraging party followers to become active in the organization. Colonel Bennett Clark, son of Champ Clark, is one of the dominant movers in the World War Veterans' Association, and when he returns to this country the last of this month he is expected to take his place along with Lieut. Col. Roosevelt in perfecting the organization. What the Grand Army was as a political force in the twenty-five years immediately following the civil war, the new soldier organization promises to be in the future politics of the nation.

ENDS COTTON MILL CASE.

Supreme Court Justice Daniel F. Cohalan, it was learned yesterday, has approved the report of the appraisers he appointed in connection with the International Cotton Mills litigation and has awarded to the minority stockholders $60 a share for their holdings. Unless further appealed, the award brings to an end the suits which followed the dissolution of the International Cotton Mills Corporation of New York and the sale of its properties to the International Cotton Mills of Massachusetts, in which transactions, according to the minority contestants, there was involved a "fraud" on the New York company and its preferred stock.

The case was brought into court in 1913 and since then has been contested on motions and trial. Guggenheimer, Untermyer & Marshall represented the two corporations and their defendant Directors, and William H. Page appeared for Francis A. Lazenby and other plaintiffs. The minority stockholders, who will receive $133,000 under Justice Cohalan's decision, demanded that the bill of sale transferring the New York corporation to the Massachusetts corporation be declared illegal and void and the certificate of dissolution as to the former company be declared null and void. The appraisers, George J. Gillespie, John Delahunty, and Timothy A. Leary, recommended that the case be terminated by payment of $60 for each preferred share with interest from the date of the transfer.

SUFFRAGISTS EXPECT GAINS.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 6.—According to an announcement made tonight by the National Woman's Party, its present count indicates that it expects to come within seven of having a solid New York delegation in support of the Federal Suffrage amendment in the House in the next Congress. Suffrage leaders are confident of getting three of these votes and say the others have made no announcement of how they will vote.

Four members who will take seats for the first time in the Sixty-sixth Congress have sent assurances of their support to the National Woman's Party in the last week. These are Representatives D. J. O'Connell of the Ninth District, Daniel Reed of Dunkirk, Frank Crowther of Schenectady, and Joseph Rowan of New York City. Representative John McCrate of Brooklyn, the New York member of the Suffrage Committee, has not announced his position, but is understood to favor the Federal amendment. His support would make the Republican membership of the Suffrage Committee unanimous for it.

The suffrage leaders also quote Representative Riordan, who has voted against suffrage seventeen times, as prophesying that the measure would receive thirty more votes in the next House than it did when it passed in the Sixty-fifth Congress. On this statement suffragists base their hope of getting his vote. Representative Norman Gould of Seneca Falls is another member previously opposed on whose support they now count.

Discourages Jamaica Federation.

KINGSTON, Jamaica, April 6.—Statements by Lord Shaughnessy and the Canadian Under-Secretary for External Affairs have been published here to the effect that in their opinion political as well as commercial union between Canada and the West Indies would benefit both countries. The Gleaner says that, whatever the other colonies may decide, Jamaica is not likely to support a federation, as Jamaica desires the continuance of direct connection with England, provided she obtains better trade as the result of imperial preference.

Teeth are not merely ornaments

We devoted four years of hard work to perfect a Dentifrice that was honest, scientific and which would clean teeth without injuring them.

Dentists and those who have used Mennen's say we have succeeded.

Mennen's Cream Dentifrice is non-alkaline. An alkaline dentifrice is dangerous because it checks the flow of saliva—Nature's only agent for destroying the acids of food decay.

Mennen's cleans and polishes teeth, removes tobacco stains and breaks down tartar formations without scouring or grinding the enamel. It is pleasant to use and leaves a refreshing after-taste.

It costs 35 cents and the tube is smaller than many dentifrices costing 25 cents—but Mennen's was made to deliver a result and not to fit a price.
